UPROAR DELAYS HOUSE VOTE ON SHELVING LAW

Plan Added to War Powers Grant.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—A proposal to suspend operation of the wage and hours act for the duration of the war threw the house into an uproar today. In the heat of debate which revolved about the red hot issue of strikes in war industries, personalities were exchanged and the administration was denounced by a southern Democrat as a labor government rapidly headed toward a labor dictatorship.

Rep. Jere Cooper.

The house is considering the second war powers act, giving to President Roosevelt enormous new powers over materials and facilities and the rights and possessions of private citizens. The measure contains 16 unrelated sections, each carrying a new law which is designed "to expedite the prosecution of the war effort."

House Too Upset to Vote.

Leaders had hoped to obtain a final vote on the bill this evening but the tempers of members were so ruffled that it was decided to adjourn until tomorrow when a vote is scheduled both on the Smith amendment and on the remainder of the bill.

Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] precipitated the storm by proposing a 17th section which in effect removes from the law the 40 hour a week limitation and also overtime provisions now in effect.

Administration leaders fought bitterly to prevent Smith from getting his amendment before the house. A point of order was made that his section was "not germane" to other sections in the bill. Smith remarked upon the absurdity of this argument, noting that no single section in the measure is related to another, and the presiding officer, Rep. Jere Cooper [D., Tenn.], agreed with him.

The Smith amendment was clearly intended, Cooper ruled, to aid in the prosecution of the war effort. He overruled the point of order and the verbal blasts began.

For Duration Only.

Rep. Martin J. Kennedy [D., N. Y.] first appealed from the ruling but the chair was sustained by an overwhelming standing vote of 218 to 14. Smith then took the floor.

"I can't understand the opposition to this amendment of members who I know are as loyal as I hope to be and as anxious to prosecute the war to a successful conclusion as I am," he declared.

"We all know that production has been handicapped by strikes and sabotage. Men willing and anxious to work have been ordered out on strike by arbitrary labor leaders. The wage and hour provisions were passed at a time when there were more workers than work. The reverse is now true. There is more work than there are workers."

Turn to Personalities.

Majority Leader John W. McCormack directed a personal attack upon Smith who, he said, was always trying to embarrass the administration. Smith protested that McCormack was "unfair" and McCormack shouted that Smith was "thin-skinned."

The debate came to a climax when Rep. E. E. Cox [D., Ga.], accused McCormack of "bad sportsmanship" in his remarks reflecting upon Smith.

"I wish sometimes the majority leader would talk for the majority instead of a minority," he continued. "Let's be frank about this—we are already living under a labor government rapidly heading into a labor dictatorship which, if not checked, will soon run into a labor despotism."

Rep. Raymond S. [Small Potatoes] McKeough [D., Ill.], jumped to his feet and demanded that these words be stricken from the record as a violation of house rules. After debating the matter, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas ruled against McKeough.

"The sentiments expressed by the gentleman from Georgia represent an expression of opinion," he declared. "The words do not violate the rules of the house."

Japs Spread Out to Encircle Rangoon

Senators Hold Vast War Fund Can't Be Spent

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—The necessity of voting war appropriations of the magnitude requested by the Roosevelt administration was questioned seriously for the first time in the senate today as it began consideration of a 32 billion 762 million dollar bill, approximately equal to the total war expenditures of the entire British empire to date.

Sen. J. A. Danaher.

The pending bill will raise the total of war appropriations and authorizations voted by congress for the fiscal years 1941, 1942, and 1943 to 142 billion dollars.

See Loss of Functions.

Senators Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.], John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], and Robert A. Taft [R., O.] all questioned the necessity of appropriating money in such incomprehensible amounts and told the senate that congress is piling up a backlog of unexpended funds which will result in the loss of its constitutional function to control the purse strings.

Sen. Danaher asserted that if the Democrats should lose control of the house next November and the new congress should have a different viewpoint as to the necessity of voting such gigantic appropriations it would make little difference because "the congress at this time is passing completely out of our hands and into the hands of the executive, control over the future of the country and the future of the expenditures we thus appropriate."

Backlog of 58 Billions.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], manager of the bill, conceded that it and other appropriations heretofore voted will result in a backlog of at least 58 billion, 904 million dollars that cannot be expended until after June 30, 1943, the end of the 1943 fiscal year.

McKellar submitted a budget bureau memorandum stating that war expenditures up to Jan. 31, 1942, aggregated 16 billion dollars. From Feb. 1 to June 30, 1942, expenditures will aggregate 13 billion 684 million dollars, and in the fiscal year 1943 they will aggregate 52 billion, 800 million dollars, he said. From the total authorization of 142 billion dollars, there would remain 58 billion, 904 million for expenditure subsequent to June 30, 1943, McKellar added.

Britain's Expenditures Cited.

The pending appropriation bill was described by Sen. Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.] as "the greatest single financial operation in human history." It contains a total of 23 billion, 485 million dollars for the army, 5 billion, 425 million dollars for lend-lease aid to other countries fighting the axis powers, and 3 billion, 852 million dollars for the construction of 1,476 merchant ships aggregating 16,127,821 tons by the United States Maritime commission.

Sen. La Follette told the senate that during the first two years of the war Great Britain's direct war expenditures aggregated 22 billion, 800 million dollars and the remainder

CURE FOR WAR SPRING FEVER

Movies Honor Gary Cooper, Joan Fontaine

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 27 [Friday]—(AP).—Gary Cooper and Joan Fontaine were proclaimed the outstanding actors of 1941 by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences early today.

Lieut. James Stewart, 1940 winner, presented Cooper a gold statuette for his work in Warner Brothers' "Sergeant York."

Miss Fontaine's award was for her work in "Suspicion," an RKO production. Her sister, Olivia De Havilland, was among the five feminine nominees.

As the best supporting actress Mary Astor was awarded a statuette for her work in "The Great Lie," a Warner Brothers picture.

The award for the best supporting actor, a plaque, was awarded to Donald Crisp for his work in 20th Century-Fox's production, "How Green Was My Valley."

Ford Best Director.

Its director, John Ford, now a lieutenant commander in the navy, was awarded a plaque for his work on the same picture.

Harry Segall received a statuette for the best original motion picture story, "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," produced by Columbia. For writing it into the best written screen play Sidney Buchman and Seton I. Miller received statuettes.

"Citizen Kane," a Mercury-RKO production, won the best original screen play statuettes for John Mankiewicz and Orson Welles.

Jack Benny, who played "Charlie's Aunt," was given a special Oscar, draped in skirts, as "The best sweater girl." Benny countered, "I'm caught with my gags down."

A special award for a documentary short was given the Canadian film board for "Churchill's Island."

Winner Twice Before.

Ford had won the direction award twice before, in 1935 for "The Informer" and in 1940 for "Grapes of Wrath." He was not present to receive his award tonight.

The Irving Thalberg award, for most consistently high production achievement, was given to Walt Disney.

Numerous military uniforms sprinkled the audience of film greats, but none were observed on women guests, who wore evening clothes. There were few orchids, in keeping with the rule against formal attire, but many wore other flowers.

The men guests wore business clothes, as did Wendell Willkie, the principal speaker. In presenting the awards for short subjects Actor Bob Hope exhibited a huge "vote for Willkie" button and cracked:

"Politics is a funny thing. Roosevelt wound up with Frances Perkins and Willkie wound up with Joan Bennett."

Miss Bennett, the wife of Walter Wanger, president of the academy, was seated on the speakers' platform.

"That wasn't a blackout the other night," Hope added. "That was W. C. Fields going home with John Barrymore."

MAP IN COLOR

A newly revised color map of the Commonwealth of Australia appears on the back page of today's Tribune. It shows railroads, naval and air bases, principal areas of production, the new military highway from the south to Darwin, on the north coast, and other features. On page 5 is a story which discusses Australia as a possible theater of land operations against the Japanese.

SINGAPORE'S FALL LAID TO INERTIA OF WHITE PEOPLE

LONDON, Feb. 27—[Friday]—(AP).—Lady Brooke-Popham, wife of Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, the British western Pacific commander who was dismissed from his Singapore post before that base fell, today said her husband's task of preparing Malaya's defenses "was hopeless in view of the deadly inertia of the white population there."

Arriving from Singapore and interviewed by the Daily Mail, she said:

"Sir Robert told them continuously to expect enemy bombers. Nothing could arouse them. They were utterly dormant. I suppose long years of that climate with luxury living and food, where everything was done for them by native boys galore, was largely responsible.

"The services were heartbroken. Sir Robert tried to shake up the people, but it was hopeless. I must say the Chinese were magnificent.

"The white people continued with their parties and dancing to the very last.

"They simply refused to believe war would come to Singapore and nothing could be done to overcome their inertia.

"It was just parties, bridge, and dancing."

Claim Nazis Steal Food as Europe Starves

LONDON, Feb. 27 [Friday]—(AP).—Germany's organized "pillage masquerading as purchase" in occupied Europe has reached such proportions that 500,000 Greeks probably will die from hunger this winter "and one whole generation appears to be already doomed," the interallied information committee said today.

The food situation in Belgium is "simply terrifying." Poland also is starving and "every day trains loaded with food go to Germany" from France, where "the whole race is in danger," the report charged.

The committee which represents every allied nation in London said its information was obtained from three sources: German official pronouncements, articles and news in the German controled press, and evidence obtained from people escaping from the occupied countries who themselves experienced Nazi dictated privations.

German People Living Well.

The German army and people in the reich are living well, in some cases better than at prewar levels, while their subject nations are starving, the report said in charting the ration schemes in existence.

Further, "the German occupying troops' officials are so liberally supplied with food that in some countries they are the principal suppliers of black markets"—the illegal food centers where fantastic prices are paid for the staples which only a few can afford to buy.

Here is the picture drawn by the committee:

"It is typical that the official 'rations' are at their worst in the case of Greece, where the Germans have little to gain by keeping the population comparatively calm and contented, and appear most nearly adequate in the case of Czecho-Slovakia, where many of Germany's vital war industries are located."

450 Die Daily.

In Greece reliable reports showed that during November 450 persons died daily in the Athens-Piraeus area because people are trying to exist on only 250 calories per day against the 2,400 required.

"Is it any wonder that in one place dog meat costs $1.60 per pound and cats are $4 and up each whenever such 'luxuries' are available?" the interallied report asked.

SEEK TO COMPEL BRITISH ARMY TO SCATTER FORCE

Allies Forming New 'Save India' Line.

Carroll Van Patter, former technical adviser on transportation to the national government of China, will be interviewed by Spencer Allen on W-G-N at 11:30 a. m. today on Rangoon, the Burma road, and alternate roads to China.

(Maps on page 8.)

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP).—Japanese troops massed along the Sittang river spread upstream today for the final stages of an enveloping smash at Rangoon. Japanese aircraft fighting for control of the sky over the heart of Burma lost 21 planes to the American and British air defenders.

The new disposition of enemy troops along the last natural barrier to Rangoon, 60 to 70 miles north of the city, was considered most threatening. Military experts here said it would compel the British and Indian defenders to disperse their already outnumbered and battle-cut battalions now defending the west bank of the Sittang near the river's mouth.

When Japanese reënforcements arrive from Singapore, the invaders are expected to launch simultaneous attacks upstream and at the river's mouth in an attempt to encircle and smother the smouldering capital and its defenders.

Lull Marks Burma Fighting.

The present lull in ground fighting is regarded as evidence that Japanese are awaiting fresh troops.

The German radio said tonight that the Rangoon-Mandalay railway, first leg of the Burma road supply line to China and immediate goal of the Japanese offensive in Burma, had been cut in several places by Japanese troops. Tokio has made no such claim.

Most of today's action was in the air. The 21 Japanese planes knocked out of the sky over the Rangoon delta brought the defenders' two day total to at least 51 and this was increased by a raid by American volunteer group pilots on a Thailand airdrome. The AVG reported two Japanese bombers destroyed in the air and two fighters on the field.

[Chungking reports said the Americans destroyed 34 planes over Thailand Wednesday and Thursday and lost none of their own.]

Rangoon Fate Up to Chinese.

Of Britain's chances of holding Rangoon, London took a gloomy view. They said "a lot depends on the Chinese" but there was no official evidence that Chiang Kai-shek's troops were yet in position or strength to divert the Japanese drive on the seaport, now evacuated by virtually all civilians, aglow with the fire of British "scorched earth" demolitions and its sea approaches mined.

The Chinese were in brief action in Burma a fortnight ago and their present pre-occupation with maneuvers in the upper Burma theater led experts here to suggest that a new united nations' defense line may be in the making for defense of greater India.

Thai Border to Be "Anchor."

A likely line would be from Chittagong, east of Calcutta on the Bay of Bengal, inland to Mandalay, with an anchor on the Thai border.

It was reported that 500 buildings in Calcutta had been converted to air raid shelters and that the Indian government would not as usual go to Simla this summer, but would remain in New Delhi.

A Chungking spokesman declared that Japanese reënforcements still were flowing into northern Thailand for a strong land and air offensive against the Chinese forces in the Shan states of northeastern Burma.

Destroy Lend-Lease Goods.

MANDALAY, Burma, Feb. 26 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Adrian St. John, head of the United States military mission in Rangoon, was reported today to be en route to Mandalay in an armored car, indicating that the last lend-lease supplies and unmovable equipment on Rangoon's docks had been demolished to keep them from falling into the hands of the Japanese.

WAR AT A GLANCE AS TOLD BY NEWS FROM ALL FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Two more Japanese troop ships, a naval auxiliary, and a freighter have been torpedoed by United States submarines in the allied counteroffensive against Japanese invasion fleets now massing in the southwest Pacific, the Dutch command announced in Batavia. American submarines also were said to have attacked a squadron of Nipponese cruisers and destroyers, possibly scoring one hit.

Continued Dutch resistance was reported on the islands of Borneo and Celebes, but it was admitted the invaders had reached the shores of Sunda strait in their drive down Sumatra toward Java.

Japs Menace Rangoon.

In Burma, Japanese troops on the Sittang river spread upstream for the final stages of an enveloping smash at the port of Rangoon, according to London reports. In the air, American and British flyers were said to have shot down 21 more planes over Rangoon delta while Chungking said the Yank volunteers had destroyed 34 planes in two days of raiding Jap bases in Thailand.

Australian warplanes attacked Japanese airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain island, setting fires and destroying two planes on the ground, a Canberra communique said.

In the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur's troops took the offensive on Bataan peninsula, capturing numerous Japanese advance positions and forcing the invaders to retreat in one sector, the United States war department reported. Fighting still was continuing, the communique said, with local successes.

Reds Trap Nazi Corps.

Moscow asserted that Russian forces had closed a giant trap on the 2d German army corps in the Staraya Russa area south of Leningrad after two weeks of battle. Red artillerymen were reported to be shelling encircled Nazis. Berlin declared Nazi planes had bombed the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad and a railway plant at Kandalaksha in the far north.

A lull in African fighting continued. The British claimed four torpedo hits on an enemy convoy in the Mediterranean and axis sources said a submarine had sunk a British ship near Gibraltar.

ASSERTS CANADA DRAFTEES COULD BE SENT TO U. S.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 26 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told the house of commons tonight that Canadians trained under compulsory service could be sent to Alaska or the United States to help repel any invasion attempt. He pointed out that the government's pledge not to conscript Canadians for overseas service would not be a technical barrier to sending troops to the continental United States or the Alaska territory adjoining Canada.

King said he could send troops to either place under the war measures act, later having parliament amend the national resources mobilization act, and would do so in the event of invasion of North America and the consequent necessity of using Canadians on the continent outside of Canadian territory. The act now provides only for compulsory service within Canada or on its territorial waters.

King made his statement after interrupting a speech by Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson, who was criticizing the government's handling of the plebiscite by which it will seek release from pledges not to conscript Canadians for overseas service.

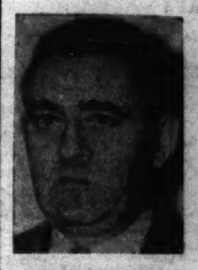
F. D. R. TO HOLD KNOX LIABLE FOR COASTLINES

Explanation of Raid Is Demanded.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—In the midst of a confusing disagreement between Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson over the cause of yesterday's air raid alarm over Los Angeles, President Roosevelt late today issued orders making Knox primarily responsible for protection of American harbors and waterfront facilities against sabotage or other subversive acts.



Rep. Leland Ford.

The order was issued shortly after a congressional demand had been made for an explanation of the conflict between the two "jittery" cabinet officers and as congressional committees were preparing to investigate the recent capsizing of the Normandie, now suspected of being the target of saboteurs.

Territories Are Included.

The President's order provided that the secretary of the navy take steps and issue necessary orders to accomplish the purposes of defending marine facilities in this country, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Waterfront facilities directly operated by the war department were exempted from the order.

At his press conference yesterday Knox laughed off the raid that disturbed the southwest coast. He said it was his opinion that 1,430 antiaircraft shells were fired at imaginary planes, insisting that no army, navy or enemy planes were in the air over the area.

15 Planes Over City.

At his press conference today, Secretary Stimson solemnly declared that as many as 15 aircraft, "probably commercial planes operated by enemy agents" caused the air raid alarm. He said his information was contained in a report to Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, from army officers in California.

The conflicts between the secretaries were further complicated this evening when government aviation officials reported that records of civilian flights on the west coast showed that no American commercial plane was flying in the Los Angeles area during the air raid.

Protests Pour In.

Rep. Leland Ford [R., Cal.], in an angry speech on the floor of the house, said that his constituents had swamped him with protests on the contradictory reports of the cabinet officials and were demanding an explanation.

In addition to irritation over the conflicting statements, reports from Los Angeles today told of general anger over the loss in production the alarm caused in airplane plants, the city's six blackout deaths, and the worst traffic jam in history.

Ford, calling for a "proper explanation" of the incident, asserted that the two cabinet officers evidently have the "jitters." He warned that such conflicts will destroy public confidence and break down public morale.

Suspects "Political" Angle.

"Why were unidentified planes fired on?" Ford asked. "This either was a practice raid, or a raid to throw a scare into 2,000,000 people, or a mistaken identity raid, or a raid to lay a political foundation to take away from southern California its industries.

"Our people ought to know whether this was a practice raid, whether it was a political raid, or what kind of a raid it was. The morale of California is extremely high and our people can take the truth, but they do resent this program of misrepresentation and wonder what it is all about. They are not jittery, and were not hysterical, but are beginning to believe that the army and navy are. The truth should be given in this matter."

Ford called for the appointment of a committee to summon Knox and Stimson to find out who is right. He said nothing short of a congres-

RED GUNS SHELL HUGE NAZI ARMY PENNED IN TRAP

Forces Breaking Up Under Attack, Moscow Says.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Feb. 27 (Friday)—(AP).—Russian cavalrymen, pushing on from the Staraya Russa area below Lake Ilmen, have reached the vicinity of Sustjevo on the Dno-Nevel railway, only 72 miles short of the Latvian frontier, dispatches from Stockholm said today. Fierce fighting also was reported in the Novgorod region, a key junction north of Lake Ilmen.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26 (AP).—Soviet forces in the strategic Staraya Russa area, 140 miles south of Leningrad, have closed a giant trap on the 2d German army corps under Gen. Brockdorf, dispatches from the front said tonight.

[A dispatch by another agency said that according to documents seized by the Russians the enemy forces surrounded originally numbered 96,000, but this total had been considerably reduced by heavy losses and by surrender of relatively large groups of men and officers.]

The trapped forces were being pounded in a battle, now two weeks old, for control of a vital area at the heart of a triangle formed by Moscow, Leningrad, and the Latvian border. Red artillerymen battered the encircled Nazis with a heavy fire, sometimes at ranges as close as a quarter of a mile. The German forces were declared to be disintegrating under the onslaught.

Fight in Bitter Weather.

Soviet Gen. Pavel Alexeivich Kurochkin, the man who led the encirclement and hourly is tightening the ring around the Germans, is said to be directing one of the most difficult offensives in recent military history.

The weather is extremely bad. There are blinding snows, icy marshes, and high banks in the wooded lake sector, offering every kind of operational problem for the 42 year old successor to Marshal Klementi Voroshilov.

In the final hours before closing the trap, the Russians inflicted a defeat on reserves thrown into the German lines, dispatches said, and elsewhere in this region further tore apart other surviving units of the smashed 16th German army.

The trapped Germans were pictured as trying desperately to break out, but meeting disaster. One of the units meeting such a fate was identified as the 56th regiment of the German 5th division.

In recent fighting the Russians said they had reconquered 147 settlements in the Staraya Russa area.

Claim Attacks Repelled.

BERLIN, Feb. 26 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Numerous thrusts of Russian forces have been repulsed by German armies on the eastern front, the high command said today. Important targets in the Leningrad area were reported shelled.

BIG NAZI FORCE GOES TO NORWAY, SWEDEN HEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 26.—Reports from Berlin today said Germany is prepared to deal with any attempt by Britain and her allies to send an expeditionary force to Murmansk, Russia. Large detachments of German troops have passed thru Denmark during the past week, en route to Norway, it is reported here.

German dispatches asserted that the United States and Britain have drafted plans for an attack soon on the northern Norwegian and Finnish coasts to obtain communications with Russia thru Murmansk.

HEADS POLICE GROUP.

William F. Halke, police chief of Glencoe, was inducted last night as the new chairman of the north shore division of the Illinois Police association. The ceremony was held at a banquet in the Kenilworth club.

CAN BEAT HITLER BY THE SUMMER, SAYS LITVINOV

Envoy Urges Allies to Open Two or More Fronts.

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Maxim Litvinov, Russian ambassador to the United States, declared tonight that he believed Hitler could "be destroyed by the summer."

In his first public address since taking over his post in Washington, delivered before the overseas press and broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting system, the ambassador warned that the opportunity for a summer victory over Hitler might be missed and said:

"Only by simultaneous offensive operations on two or more fronts separated by long distances could Hitler's armed forces be disposed of and that is why Hitler would dislike such operations."

Sees Spring Showdown.

Litvinov declared that the coming spring offensive of the German armies in Russia would be a make or break effort for the axis, and added that "we should like our allies and friends to see this as clearly as Hitler does and act accordingly."

He asserted he did not mean the united nations should concentrate their efforts on the Russian front to the detriment of all other fronts.

"Identical quantities of armed forces are not required on all fronts," he said. "Forces which cannot be used on one front should not be kept in idleness and inaction, but should be sent where they could be used.

"Next spring, on the eastern theater of military activities, the struggle with Hitler will reach its peak, and we should like to have the utmost possible aid by then.

Wants No Idle Armies.

"We should like all the forces of the allies to be put into action by then, and that, by then, there should be no idle armies, immobile navies, immobile air fleets. This applies also to military materials which should be sent to the places where they are most needed.

"We are proud that it has fallen to our lot to smash Hitler's war machine, but we by no means insist on exclusive rights. We are quite prepared to let others have a share in our pride."

Pointing to what already has been accomplished by the Russian armies, Litvinov said:

"We may therefore claim, with pardonable pride, that by our preparedness we have done yeoman service not only for ourselves but for all other peace loving countries."

HEAR RUSSIANS SEQUESTER JAPS' SOVIET HOLDINGS

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 27 [Friday].—Foreign diplomatic quarters here viewed with concern a report broadcast from Moscow early last night announcing that all Japanese holdings in soviet territory had been sequestered and placed under control of a commissar for alien property. The order came after two days of increasingly bitter radio broadcasts against the Japanese attitude.

No details of Japanese holdings anywhere in Russia were available here, but it was recalled that in 1926 the Russians ceded to the Japanese the petroleum exploitation of the northern half of Sakhalin island. It is believed the Russians' move strikes principally on the military plane against the Japanese, for Sakhalin forms an excellent aerial base for possible operations against the coastline of the Sea of Okhotsk, and should the Japanese continue to "overrun" the island, said one spokesman from Moscow last night, "protective measures would be extremely difficult to carry out."

To this increased tension between Tokio and Moscow—Japanese military attachés have been excluded from visiting the front lines for some weeks now.

TORPEDO VICTIMS TELL OF ATTACK ON A U. S. CUTTER

Stayed Behind to Save Wounded Seamen.

(The following dispatch, telling of the torpedoing of the United States coast guard cutter Alexander Hamilton, was released yesterday after being censored by the army and navy. The story's filing date was deleted. Previously, only the ship's sinking with a "moderate" loss of life had been announced Feb. 23.)

BY LEO BRANHAM.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP). — The crew of the coast guard cutter Alexander Hamilton conducted themselves like unruffled navy veterans when the ship was torpedoed off Iceland, officers of the vessel said, in telling of the attack. Altho most of the men only recently had enlisted, there was no panic or confusion after the terrific torpedo blast, the officers added.

The men ran immediately to battle stations after the torpedo struck and set the mechanism of the Hamilton's depth bombs on "safe" so they would not explode if the ship sank and thus endanger the men in lifeboats in the vicinity, I was told. Some of the sailors even stayed behind as the cutter sank to rescue those who were injured.

The officers, all of whom suffered from shock and exposure, told of the submarine's attack from their beds in an army hospital in Iceland.

No Warning of Attack.

No one saw the submarine or torpedo, these men said, and there was no warning of the shattering blast which occurred beneath the engine room and caused steam from broken pipes to spurt up thruout the mid-section of the vessel.

Ensign Sidney K. Broussard, who was officer of the deck at the time, said the explosion occurred on the starboard side of the ship at 1:15 p.m., shortly after the Hamilton had cast off from a navy supply ship she had been towing. The supply vessel had been disabled by engine trouble.

Broussard, who was on the port side, said: "All of the men ran to their battle stations and manned our guns. We fired two shots from one gun to attract attention and sent up flares into the air."

The Hamilton listed badly to starboard, then sank deeper into the sea. It remained afloat, however, for many hours. As the wrecked cutter was being towed into port, she suddenly turned turtle. A few gun shots from other ships sent her to the bottom.

Lifeboats Carried Away.

There were 15 men in the engine room. The officers did not know how many, if any, of these men escaped. The blast destroyed or carried away three of the Hamilton's seven lifeboats, so the uninjured men remained on the ship—some as long as an hour—while the injured were removed in the boats.

One hundred and one men were taken off by an American destroyer which pulled alongside the crippled Hamilton. This destroyer was one of two which had been only a few miles away.

"The group I was with was in a lifeboat only a half hour before we were picked up by an Icelandic fishing trawler," Lieut. F. W. Welch said. "Right after we left the cutter we picked up 17 men, two of them injured badly, out of the water. And boy, was that water cold. These men had been dumped into the sea when their lifeboat capsized in the rough sea. The waves were pretty high.

"When we reached shore — we thought we never would—about 40 of us were taken to a native Icelander's home, where we were given dry clothing, food, and first aid treatment."

Tow Lifeboat to Shore.

Broussard and Ensign Lawrence Bradley said another fishing boat towed their lifeboat to shore. They were unable to transfer seven badly injured men into the trawler because of the wild sea.

Eighty-four men were taken to the hospital immediately. All but the more severely injured were to be released in a day or so.

Welch said Seaman Howard Wolfe of Wisconsin [home town unidentified] and four other men were trapped in a closed and darkened companion way. All were badly burned by steam. Altho portions of his hands and arms were burned away, the officers related, Wolfe struggled with the compartment's steel doors and finally managed to free his companions, apparently hurt even worse, and himself.

"Satanic Cauldron."

A few men dropped into the wrecked and steam filled engine room—where boiling water slopped about as if in some satanic cauldron—when the floor of the room overhead was blown out.

Ensign J. B. Denny said he was asleep in his bunk. Awakened by the blast, he swung his feet from his bed into water knee deep. By the time he reached the ladder to the deck seconds later the water was waist deep.

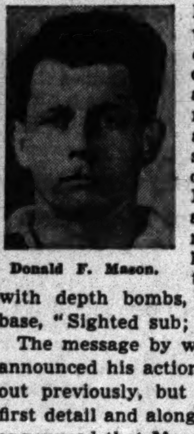
NAVY REVEALS HOW U. S. FLYER 'SIGHTED SUB AND SANK SAME'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—The story of how one submarine was sunk in the Atlantic battle area was reported today by the navy department. The attack was carried out by Donald Francis Mason, 28 years old, of Rochester, Minn., an aviation machinist's mate, who, after he had blasted the submarine with depth bombs, reported to his base, "Sighted sub; sank same."



Donald F. Mason.

The message by which Mason first announced his action had been given out previously, but today's was the first detail and along with this it was announced that Mason had been commended for meritorious conduct in action. The commendation told this story:

"While piloting a plane on patrol duty [he] observed the wake of a submarine proceeding submerged at periscope depth. He dropped two depth bombs which straddled the periscope. The conning tower rose clear of the water for a short period and then sank again. A large patch of oil soon covered the area. This attack was adjudged successful."

GEN. MITCHELL'S SON IN ARMORED FORCE SCHOOL

Fort Knox, Ky., Feb. 26 (AP).—Corp. John E. Mitchell, son of the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, has entered the armored force officer candidate school here.

The son of the army officer who campaigned so strenuously for a stronger air force came here from Fort Sill, Okla., where he had been attending the artillery school. He said he requested transfer to the armored force school because "it's more exciting and new." After a three month course here he will be eligible for a second lieutenant's commission.

INDICT LA SALLE CHURCHWOMAN IN $23,705 THEFT

Former Bank Employe Makes Confession.

Church and club circles of La Salle were chattering yesterday over the indictment and impending arrest of one of the town's most ardent church and club leaders, Miss Josephine Belcher, on charges of having embezzled $23,000.

It was only the day before the story came out that she had addressed the Ladies Aid of the La Salle Methodist church on the lives of Washington and Lincoln.

Miss Belcher, who is 38 years old and reported engaged to one of the town's wealthiest men, a junk dealer, has made full confession.

Bank Employé 20 Years.

For 20 years prior to last November the tall, dark, and handsome woman had worked for the La Salle National Bank and Trust company. Eight years ago she was appointed secretary to the trust officer, "my first position of trust," she said yesterday, and her defalcations began.

In sums of $50 and $75 she converted the bank's money to her use. Some of it she spent. Some of it she gave away to friends. It all went in small amounts, of which she kept no account, she said. Part of the money, she said, she spent on improvements to the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Belcher of near Peru, Ill.

Gets $10,000 in Three Months.

Last June, according to her confession, her defalcations totaled $13,650.53. By July she had taken another $550. More was taken in August, September, and October. Then, in October, she seized an opportunity to cover the entire transaction by entering in a trust account the sum of $75,138 instead of the correct $98,843, the difference representing the amount of her thefts, $23,705.

In November she was interviewed by a representative of the Chicago company that bonded her and an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. She signed a complete confession. Miss Belcher heard no more until newspapers announced yesterday that she had been indicted on seven counts by a federal grand jury in Chicago and that a warrant for her arrest had been issued. It had not been served late last night.

"I'm glad it has come to a head," she said last night when interviewed in the office of a La Salle accountant, now in Florida, whose business she has been conducting in his absence.

"I hope I don't get a jail sentence, tho," she added. "I can't imagine life without work. I've worked ever since I left high school at 18."

Miss Belcher was treasurer of the Methodist Sunday school until she confessed the thefts four months ago, then she resigned. She also had been adviser for the La Salle Woman's club.

After the interview she left with Herman Ramenfosky, the junk dealer, in his automobile.

JAP LANGUAGE TEACHING REAL U. S. BOTTLENECK

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 26 (AP).—A handful of linguists in five universities are at work on one of the tightest bottlenecks in the war program—the training of Japanese interpreters and translators who are needed in numbers by military and civil agencies of government.

Joseph K. Yamagiwa, a naturalized American who teaches the Japanese language at the University of Michigan, says existing facilities are sufficient to provide a mere trickle of men and women with even a vague knowledge of the subject.

Before a student can begin to read Japanese he must learn 1,800 basic symbols and pictographs, Yamagiwa says. Many Japanese vowel sounds are wholly unlike anything in the English language.

A smart student needs eight months to learn to speak simple sentences—like "What's your name?" It takes five to 10 years to learn enough to understand a radio broadcast in Japanese. A reading knowledge may be acquired in one to 10 years.

But, declares Yamagiwa, the occidental scholar must spend half a lifetime to become "well-versed in the Japanese language.

U. S. CONSULAR STAFF ESCAPES FROM SINGAPORE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—All members of the American consulate general at Singapore were safely evacuated from that city before its occupation by the Japanese.

The state department said today that Consul Gen. Kenneth S. Patton, Salem, Va., and his principal aids, had arrived safely in Perth, Australia. Their wives now are en route to the United States.

Members of the staff of the Rangoon consulate general also have been safely evacuated, the state department said. Consul Gen. Lester L. Schnare, Mondovi, Wis., accompanied the Burma government in its withdrawal to the north. Mrs. Schnare is in the United States.

The former American consul at Shanghai, Owen L. Dawson, Frost, Mich., who was recently on a business trip to the Netherlands East Indies, has left Surabaya for New Zealand.

M. P.S CRITICIZE ADMIRALTY CHIEF ON WAR AT SEA

Alexander Relates Navy's Blows at Axis.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Members of parliament, including former high naval officers, directed harsh criticism against Britain's conduct of the war at sea today even as First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander gave the house of commons a survey of what he termed the royal navy's "almost unbelievable accomplishments" in 1941.

The critics were aroused by the recent dash of the German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the cruiser Prinz Eugen from Brest to German waters, and by the sinking off Malaya of the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse.

Claim Cruiser Torpedoed.

The admiralty's announcement that the three Nazi warships had been crippled, failed to silence the critics. The admiralty announced the submarine Trident torpedoed and severely damaged a Prinz Eugen class cruiser off Norway, and that the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had been ascertained by aerial reconnaissance to be in repair docks at Kiel and Wilhelmshaven. The air ministry later announced the Kiel naval base was bombed last night and extensive fires started.

Rear Adm. Tufton P. H. Beamish, Conservative, went so far as to question Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement that the admiralty thought it better that the three German ships should be in German waters, not in Brest.

"I beg leave to doubt whether they [the admiralty] said any such thing, unless it was to support a wrong, disastrous policy forced on them—namely, divided control of sea power," he said. "That lies at the root of the disaster in the channel."

"Disgusted" at Progress.

Sir Roger Keyes, World war hero of Zeebrugge and creator of the commandos [invasion troops], advised Alexander, who he said had spoken complacently about the war work in the dockyards and shipyards, to go see for himself. Officers and men in the navy are "absolutely disgusted at the slow progress" of repair work, and men stand idly trying to draw out the work to get overtime pay, he charged.

He blamed the admiralty for crippling initiative of officers and recommended a shakeup in the admiralty to get away from "committee administration."

At this point a voice which some observers identified as that of Laborite Frederick Seymour Cocks interjected: "Dudley Pound!" [Admiral of the Fleet Sir A. Dudley Pound, first sea lord and chief of naval staff.] "He ought to be sacked."

Battle of the Seven Seas.

Alexander warned that the battle of the Atlantic had developed into a "battle of the seven seas" and said the Germans and Japanese threaten British sea power as never before. He explained that shipping losses have been mounting since December.

During 1941, Alexander said, 12,988 anti-aircraft guns were fitted on 4,843 ships and merchant fishing vessels, and these had already shot down 76 enemy planes and probably destroyed another 40 and damaged 89.

The royal navy, he pointed out, had to protect 2,000 ships at all times, but British losses in convoys now amounted to only about one-half of one per cent.

Gives Axis Ship Losses.

He claimed British aircraft, submarines, and surface ships in 1941 captured, sank, or seriously damaged no less than 2,500,000 tons of axis shipping.

Casualties to the fleet have been well replaced and the naval tonnage produced in 1941 was not far below that of 1916, while the output of merchant tonnage was very much greater than in 1916, Alexander said. The output of naval tonnage in 1916 totaled 475,378 tons, official figures show.

In the house of lords Lord Chatfield warned that if the Gneisenau and Scharnhorst now get out into the Atlantic nothing will be more difficult than to bring them to book with "our depleted navy and with many ships already sunk." People, he said, have not realized that the only way Britain can lose the war in a day or week is thru the navy.

"Three and one-half years ago," he said, "I left seven battleships and five carriers under construction." [Chatfield was first sea lord and chief of the naval staff from 1933 to 1938.] "As far as I know, only three have been completed today. Where are the others? We should be told."

REPORT BRITISH SUB HITS AXIS CONVOY IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP).—The admiralty announced today that a British submarine had made a successful attack on an enemy convoy of three supply ships in the Mediterranean, obtaining three torpedo hits. Further details were not disclosed.

Sinking Near Gibraltar.

ROME, Feb. 26 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—An axis submarine sank a 7,000 ton British freighter 40 miles off Gibraltar yesterday, a Lisbon dispatch to an Italian agency reported today.

Only "Occasional" Contact.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 26 (AP).—Sandstorms and heavy ground mist continued to hamper both land and air operations in the Libyan desert, British army headquarters reported today. It said there was only "occasional" contact with small patrols of axis forces. The RAF raided Bengazi, Berka, and Tripoli.

[Axis communiques reported widespread patrol activity in Libya and axis air raids on military objectives at Tobruk, Libya; Sidi Barrani, Egypt, and Malta, and claimed three British planes were shot down over Derna, Libya.]

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Peter Van Andezelde, 57 years old, was found shot to death yesterday on a cot in the basement of a building at 130 East 55th street, where he worked as janitor. A revolver was under the body.

U. S. SUBMARINES TORPEDO 4 MORE JAPANESE SHIPS

Hit Also Believed Scored on Enemy Warship.

BATAVIA, Java., N. E. I., Feb. 26 (AP).—Two more enemy troopships, a naval auxiliary, and a freighter have been torpedoed by United States submarines in an allied counteroffensive against Japanese invasion trains massing in these waters, the Dutch command announced tonight.

It added that American submarines had closed also with a Japanese squadron of cruisers and destroyers and, tho forced to dive before the results could be observed, were believed to have hit one of the enemy.

Continue Delaying Actions.

Afield, in the outlying islands of the archipelago, Dutch troops were continuing their persistent delaying actions—fighting on Celebes with unabated fierceness; falling back and abandoning Simpang in west Borneo but struggling on and ignoring a Japanese ultimatum to surrender or die, and quite possibly maintaining a rear-guard action, even on Amboina, which long since had been claimed by the enemy.

The probable fall to the enemy of the tin producing island of Bangka off southeastern Sumatra and of part of Benkoelen residency in western Sumatra was acknowledged, however.

It was disclosed, too, by an announcement that enemy storage yards had been bombed near Telokbetoeng, in extreme southern Sumatra, that the Japanese had thus pushed their Sumatra advance to a point just across the strait of Sunda—only 16 miles wide at its narrowest point.

Set New Fires at Palembang.

Telling of two successive days of raids against Palembang, the great and now ruined Dutch oil center in southern Sumatra, the Dutch reported that allied bombs had added great fires to those still raging there since the defenders first put the torch to $500,000,000 worth of property.

Enemy raids on Java were thus summed up:

Two airdromes in west Java: Two enemy planes shot down, two Dutch fighter craft lost, damage light.

Tandjong Priok: Two gasoline dumps set aflame; some enemy planes believed hit.

Surabaya, the great Dutch naval base in eastern Java: Altho the attack was in heavy force, no damage save to a shed and a house; seven civilians killed, 21 wounded; at least two enemy planes shot down, probably two more.

[Aneta, Dutch news agency, in a dispatch from Batavia said it had no information of reports that American flying fortress planes had made a new attack on Japanese ships concentrated off the Island of Bali.]

Raid Airdrome in Java.

TOKIO, Feb. 26 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Japanese air raiders struck again at Java yesterday, heavily bombing the airdrome at Kalidjatic and destroying 37 enemy planes in the air or on the ground, imperial headquarters announced today. Nine planes were lost.

AMERICANS CAPTURE JAPANESE OUTPOSTS IN ATTACK ON BATAAN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men on Bataan peninsula have suddenly taken the offensive, capturing numerous Japanese advance positions, and in one sector forcing the invaders to retreat several kilometers, the war department reported today. [A kilometer is .62 of a mile.] Main enemy positions were not penetrated, the communique said, but at last reports the fighting was still in progress and local advances continued.

The army communique said that Japanese forces on Mindanao had been reënforced by a detachment of Japanese marines. "Desultory fighting," it added, was in progress there.

Guerrilla fighting also was reported from central an dnorthern Luzon, where "small bodies of American and Philippine troops" were "continuing to harass the Japanese . . . with continued success."

At a press conference, Secretary of War Henry Stimson disclosed that the leader of 20,000 bolo-swinging Moro tribesmen on the island of Mindanao had pledged a "fight to the last" against the Japanese.

LAUDS AMERICAN FLYERS

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 27 [Friday].—Outnumbered, operating often from makeshift bases, virtually without weather reports, America's naval and air forces in the Netherlands Indies are daily performing acts of heroism and endurance, according to Vice Adm. William Glassford, commander of American naval forces in the southwest Pacific.

In one instance, he said today, a bomber of a squadron raiding a Japanese force on Celebes island was attacked by Japanese pursuit planes before the objective was reached. One motor was put out of action but the bomber pilot persevered and, while his mates fought off the Japanese planes with the bomber's machine guns, got over his objective and made successful hits.

The bomber's waist guns then jammed and the Japanese put the other motor out of action. Under constant attack, the plane made a landing in the sea and the crew jumped out and swam away. The Japanese planes flew away after riddling the crippled ship.

The six Americans swam back, salvaged the rubber life boat, got emergency water and rations, and destroyed the plane's secret gear. Then they paddled away from the sinking plane and fought wind, weather, hunger, thirst, and sunburn for six days and nights before finally drifting ashore on a small island east of Java.

GEN. MacARTHUR AND HIS MEN TO GET TAX RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his fighting forces won't have to file income tax returns or make payments on March 15. A joint senate-house conference approved an omnibus bill repealing "pensions for congress" in which Sen. David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] said a section was inserted for benefit of the fighting forces in the Philippines.

It provided that temporary relief from federal income tax laws "shall also apply to any person beleaguered or besieged by enemy forces," and Walsh said MacArthur and his men are the only group he knew about who could qualify under this section.

The special provision was inserted in legislation granting the temporary tax relief to all persons captured or interned by the enemy, missing in action, or on distant duty with armed forces. However, the returns and payments must be made when the war ends, or sooner if the exempted persons are able.

Nazi Prisoner of War Flees Canadian Hospital

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 27 [Friday]—(AP).—Lieut. Eckert Bruns of the German air force, a prisoner of war, broke thru a screen on the window of his room at Westminster hospital shortly before midnight last night and escaped. A widespread hunt for the 25 year old flyer, who had been in the hospital for three months as an epileptic, was begun immediately.

LIST 222 JAP VESSELS SUNK OR DAMAGED IN PACIFIC WAR THEATER

At least 222 Japanese ships have been sunk, probably sunk, or damaged in the entire Pacific theater, according to a tentative box score compiled Thursday by the Associated Press.

The totals are based on united nations' communiques and summaries. They do not include losses inflicted by British and Australian arms; on the other hand, lack of coördination of communiques makes it possible that some figures are duplications.

The allied box score of Japanese losses:

POSES AS CAPTAIN; ARRESTED.

Harold T. Nelson, 37 years old, of Zion, was arrested yesterday in Antioch after a physician and a priest had complained that he had obtained money and services from them without payment on the plea that he was a captain in the army.

NAMES IN WAR NEWS FROM THE PACIFIC FRONT

Telokbetoeng, or Betong bay, where allied flyers bombed Japanese storage, lies near the extreme east end of the vast Island of Sumatra. It connects with Sunda strait near its narrow point and the presence of Jap forces there constitutes a danger to Batavia, in easy reach of all kinds of planes.

* *

Sunda strait, which Japanese invaders apparently reached in their Sumatra drive, separates Java from Sumatra and is the main passageway out of the Indian ocean to the north. Much of the trade with China and the Malay peninsula passed thru it in prewar days. The strait is 16 miles wide at the north end; at the south end it is 65 miles wide. Java head, at the south, was one of the famous landmarks used by Yankee traders to China more than a century ago.

* *

Calcutta, which is preparing air raid shelters in preparation for possible Japanese attacks, is one of India's greatest ports. It lies some 80 miles from the mouth of the wide Hoogly river and its population exceeds 1,500,000. Most of the city lies on low flats not more than 20 feet above sea level and the climate is regarded as enervating for Europeans. It has adequate wharves, deep water anchorage, and repair facilities for large ships. Calcutta is noted for its modern water supply and sewerage systems.

Guam and Wake Captives to Reclaim Jap Wasteland

TOKIO, Feb. 26 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Hundreds of United States prisoners of war taken in the Japanese capture of Guam and Wake islands will be put to work Friday reclaiming wastelands, it was announced today. In the groups of 80 the men will work seven hours daily with commissioned and noncommissioned officers exempted.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AUSTRALIA SEEN AS IDEAL LAND FOR JAP DEFEAT

Map Shows Great Expanse Favors Home Forces.

Timely as a journalistic feature associated with the war now being waged upon many fronts is the revised color map of the Commonwealth of Australia that appears on the back page of today's TRIBUNE.

With virtually all their island outposts lost to the Japanese, the Netherlands Indies today are poised to make a determined fight to retain Java, the heart of the Dutch colonial empire. In the event Java finally is conquered the enemy may decide to make his principal drive deep into Burma and into India, with the hope of isolating China, or into Australia, with the idea of gaining complete control of the southwestern Pacific.

Unfortunate tho it might be temporarily for Australia, a Japanese decision to attempt to conquer this vast commonwealth most likely in the end would prove advantageous to the united nations fighting the axis. Australia presents what appears to be, in the view of military strategists, the ideal land in which to defeat the Japanese.

Unlimited Field for Operations.

In nearly all previous campaigns of British forces in this war the advantage has been with the enemy.

Australia, on the other hand, would provide an almost unlimited field for operations. Approximately the same size as continental United States, the great commonwealth in the southern hemisphere has fewer people than the state of Illinois. The northern coast of Australia, upon which the Japanese most likely would attempt to make their landings, is one of the world's most sparsely populated areas.

In the wide stretches of northern Australia the Japanese would encounter a type of warfare unlike any they have experienced. Swift mobile columns could strike them with lightning thrusts, recoil, and strike again. With their dogged tactics of advancing by sheer numerical superiority the Japanese would find themselves in the same situation that a great army of Britishers faced in South Africa in the Boer war, when they were outgeneraled time and again by a few thousand Dutch farmers.

12,000 Miles of Coastline.

Here the parallel ceases. The Boers had no hope of reënforcements. In a campaign in Australia the Japanese could not expect in the end to match the fighting power that the united nations could pour into the island continent. Australia has more than 12,000 miles of coastline. No army that Japan could put into the country could guard that many miles of coast.

The Australian soldier is brave and resourceful. Defending his native soil he would be at his best. His country provides him with vast distances in which he could operate at an advantage. The loss of ten miles or a hundred miles would mean nothing to him as he lured his enemy into a desolation from which there would be no escape once the tide began to turn.

Shows Railways and Products.

The map on the back page is a revision of a basic map presented in THE TRIBUNE more than a month ago. It shows the railways in Australia. These, if stretched in a single straight line, would reach about 28,000 miles. It shows [by means of symbols] the areas from which the principal products of the commonwealth are derived.

Distances from the principal ports of Australia to points in the outside world are shown in miles on the map. Of particular importance in relation to the war are the naval and air bases indicated on the map.

Newest of the naval bases is the one at Darwin, on the coast of the northern territory of Australia. This base already has been attacked by Japanese air bombers. It is only 400 miles from Timor, upon which the Japanese have made landings.

Naval Base; Defense Highway.

Two years ago the naval base at Darwin existed only on blueprints. Now it is being completed, with fortifications, in one of the greatest engineering feats of history. Nor is it built so compactly as to afford an easy objective for an enemy. So scattered and so well concealed are its defenses that the task of taking it would prove a formidable one.

Darwin, not long ago merely an isolated pearling village, was linked to the populous part of Australia in 1940, when a 650 mile military highway was built between the railend at Alice Springs, in central Australia, and the railend at Birdum, to the north. In 1941 this highway was continued on to Darwin, paralleling the railroad.

'Fight Like Hell': Dutch Urge; Stimson Praises Indies Defense

Welcome Java Aid

BANDOENG, Java, Feb. 27 [Friday]—(AP).—American, British, and Australian troops now in Java prepared to defend this allied outpost against the expected Japanese direct onslaught now number "many thousands," Lieut. Gen. Hein Ter Poorten, commander in chief of the Netherlands East Indies army, declared in a broadcast last night.

Gen. Hein Ter Poorten.

The Dutch commander, welcoming the allied forces, urged them—in English—"to fight like wildcats and fight like hell."

Admits Situation Is Perilous.

Gen. Hein Ter Poorten acknowledged that the situation of Java, with the Japanese closing in, was perilous. He said there was no reason for light hearted optimism, but added that on the other hand there also was no reason for pessimism.

Welcoming the British imperial and American troops, the Dutch leader said: "I know your gallant record in the history of fighting. I know I can rely on you Americans, Australians, and British to fight equally gallantly now alongside us Dutch."

Keep Japs from Getting Goods.

"The enemy," he said, "is at the end of long lines of communication, seeking desperately food and oil. . . . We are fighting for our existence and our families. Up to now our resistance has gone according to program. Nowhere has the Japanese new order succeeded in getting the products so badly needed.

"The Japanese will go hungry amid the smoking ruins, and the coming battle for Java will go according to plan also."

Wavell Injury Told

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Secretary of War Stimson said today that the united nations were making a "magnificent" defense of the Netherlands East Indies and had inflicted heavy losses on the enemy which he said the Japanese had not disclosed.

Gen. Sir A. P. Wavell.

"We realize fully the importance of the situation in Java and we are giving every bit of aid possible," the war secretary told a press conference.

Wavell Injured in Singapore.

In a tribute to British Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, Stimson reported that the southwest Pacific commander in chief sustained a broken rib in an aircraft accident on a visit to Singapore the day before Singapore fell.

Wavell, he said, proposed to visit the Bataan peninsula fighting front in the Philippines also, but Gen. Douglas MacArthur advised in a message not to take the risk.

"The commander of the united nations forces has shown himself worthy of the character of the men he commands," Stimson said.

Stresses Reënforcing Problems.

Stimson stressed the difficulties of reënforcements, notably the vast trans-Pacific distances and the necessity to ship fighter planes to the scene of action.

Air power, he noted, involves establishment of anti-aircraft defenses for bases, air raid warning services and runways, and other facilities to keep warplanes in the air. The Japanese, Stimson said, gained a great advantage by completing these preliminaries in Indo-China before the war started.

HOBO GAMBLING PLACE IS RAIDED; 34 MEN SEIZED

Thirty-four men were arrested late last night in a gambling raid on a room in the rear of 603 Madison street. The room had another entrance at 8 South Jefferson street. Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan made the arrests after three of his men entered the place disguised as hoboes.

Three men on the outside were arrested for steering patrons into the place by advertising poker, craps and blackjack games to passersby as far as a block away. Five more men were seized as dealers, and Wilfred Downey, 50 years old, of 660 Madison street, was held as the keeper. The rest of the 34 were patrons.

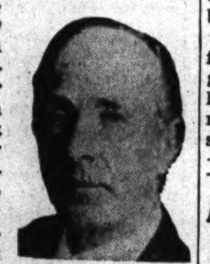
Sub Victims Strip 2 Dead Companions to Keep Warm

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP).—Survivors of the Canadian corvette Spikenard, torpedoed and sunk during a submarine attack on a convoy in the north Atlantic, spent 18½ hours adrift on a half submerged float, it was revealed tonight. They buried two companions at sea after stripping them of their clothes to cover their own shivering bodies. All but eight of the crew of 67 men aboard the corvette perished in the torpedoing.

FOR THE DAY LORD LONDONDERRY IS $222 THE POORER

But Makes Some Charges Against Dublin.

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP).—While Lord Londonderry, in the house of lords, was implicitly accusing Germany of using Dublin as a weather station to guide her U-boats, a crown counsel today at Newtown, County Down, was charging his lordship with contributing to Britain's shipping problem thru a wedding gift.



Lord Londonderry.

Londonderry, the seventh marquess of that Irish line, pleaded guilty thru counsel at Newtown, in Northern Ireland, to a charge of violating building regulations and was fined £50 and cost of £5 and 10 shillings [a total of $222].

Alterations to a House.

He had been accused of making structural alterations without a license—a $6,800 repair job on a house as a wedding present for one of his daughters. Regulations prohibit expenditures of more than $2,000.

In his statement of the case, the crown solicitor said that seamen were losing their lives to bring building materials into the country and that the regulations had been drawn to prevent materials from being put to private use.

"Sunk Off Northeast Coast."

In the house of lords, where Londonderry sits as Earl Vane, the peer deplored the activities of axis legations at Dublin, "including their weather reports" to Berlin. "We frequently read the phrase, 'sunk off the northeast coast of Ireland'—we all know what that means."

Draft Rumanians from 12 to 70 to Help Feed Nazis

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 26 (AP).—Rumania, whose task in the axis program for 1942 is chiefly one of supplying Germany with food, is mobilizing all persons between the ages of 12 and 70 for an agricultural program in Bessarabia, the Swiss telegraph agency reported today from Bucharest.

PRISONER'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accident was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Gilbert Hayes, 35 years old, colored, of Robbins, killed Tuesday when he fell from a fourth floor washroom window of the Criminal court building. It was testified he apparently tried to escape after being sentenced to six months in jail for petty larceny.

AUSTRALIAN RAIDERS SET FIRE TO JAPANESE AIRDROMES ON RABAUL

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 26 (AP).—Planes of the royal Australian air force last night flew thru a violent electrical storm to attack airdromes on the Japanese occupied part of Rabaul, New Britain Island. Fires were reported to have been spread among buildings on the island fields.

Two enemy planes were destroyed on the ground, a communique said.

Another communique reported that Japanese planes again reconnoitered the important north Australian port of Darwin about noon today. No bombs were dropped.

Meanwhile, Australia continued the full mobilization of its manpower. The government ordered that all Australians between 16 and 65 years of age register under the national service scheme within the next month.

ROBERTS REPORT MISUNDERSTOOD, SAYS STANDLEY

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 26 [Special].—Adm. William H. Standley, retired, a member of the commission that drew up the Roberts report on the Pearl Harbor attacks, said here today that the report had been "misunderstood or misinterpreted."

The impression had been created, he declared, that relations between Adm. Husband Kimmel and Lieut. Gen. Walter Short during the days preceding the attack were "so strained that the two officers passed to opposite sides of the street to avoid meeting."

"The exact contrary was the fact," Adm. Standley said. "A careful reading of the report will show that Kimmel and Short conferred for three hours on Nov. 27, that they conferred again on Dec. 1, and again on the 2d and 4th. Their relations were most friendly. Coöperation between the army and the navy was at the fullest, and you can make that as strong as you want to. That was the fact. The other interpretation is wholly false."

WINDSOR TO VISIT MIAMI TODAY TO DISCUSS ISLANDS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—The duke of Windsor, former monarch of the British empire, will arrive in Miami tomorrow to discuss with naval authorities the defense of the Bahama Islands of which he is royal governor.

It will be his fifth visit to the United States since his abdication as king. This trip will be the second without the duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, who dislikes flying.

The duke will be the guest of George McDonald, eminent Catholic layman with the rank of papal marquis, at the Roney-Plaza hotel, Miami Beach.

SAYS U. S. PLANES DOWN 13 JAPS WITHOUT A LOSS

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—United States "wildcat" fighters in a recent engagement destroyed 10 Japanese fighters and three bombers without a single American loss, indicating superiority of United States personnel and equipment, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said in a letter made public today.

The secretary did not identify the battle. In the letter, to the Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation, whose employés' craftsmanship he said "adds effectively to tip the scales of warfare in our favor," Knox wrote of the air battle:

"This information from reports officially received directly after combat operations definitely indicates superiority of United States personnel and equipment."

Soldiers Now May Wed Without C. O.'s Permission

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—The army has repealed a regulation requiring that soldiers obtain the permission of their superior officer before getting married War Secretary Henry L. Stimson announced today.

SUSPECT MEXICO BASE IN AIR RAID ON LOS ANGELES

Neighboring Republic Is Searched for Craft.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26 (Special].—Support for the theory of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson that planes over the Los Angeles area early Wednesday morning were commercial ships came today, soon after the theory had been slapped down by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, from Rodolfo Salazar, consul general of Mexico, who said that no restrictions whatever have been placed as yet on commercial flying in Mexico.

Since no commercial or private planes are permitted in the air over California with the exception of the scheduled passenger flights, it tonight was believed that if there were planes which were fired on by anti-aircraft artillery here they probably took off in Mexican territory.

Broad Search in Mexico.

An extensive search was being conducted thruout Baja California and the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa today.

Mexican military flyers have redoubled their vigilance, according to information reaching Los Angeles today from below the border where Gen. Lazaro Cardenas is commander in chief of Mexican land, air, and naval forces.

Two large, privately-owned landing fields adjacent to Los Mochis in the state of Sinaloa have been under the eyes of military authorities for some time after a report leaked out that Nazis and their sympathizers were congregating in that section. One of the fields belonged to the Johnson Sugar company.

200 Miles from San Diego.

Increasing vigilance has been directed in that area and in the state of Jalisco since Gov. Silvano Barba Gonzales of that state yesterday called to the attention of President Manuel Avila Camacho the fact that axis forces are working furiously to spread propaganda intended to convince Mexicans that if they support the axis in the war there may be an opportunity for Mexico to recover the territory lost to the United States in 1848.

On the peninsula of Baja California there are many large salt beds which in dry weather make excellent landing fields. One is about 200 miles south of San Diego.

AMERICAN BORN JAPS HIT BY NEW REMOVAL ORDER

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26 [Special].—With demands for action against enemy aliens increasing since the "attack" on Los Angeles, plans were disclosed here today to designate additional prohibited areas from which will be ousted not only enemy aliens but "any American born Japanese we think necessary."

Tom C. Clark, alien control coördinator, said that Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt, western defense commander, is preparing detailed descriptions of the additional military areas and said they should be ready for designation by Saturday.

"We do not plan any mass evacuation," Clark said. "The deadline will be set with a view to allowing them time to move voluntarily. When the deadline is reached, we will take out all aliens and any American born Japanese we think necessary."

At San Diego, Norman Neukom, assistant United States attorney, said orders to move all San Diego county Japanese, including those of the second generation, "somewhere east of the Sierras," will be issued, possibly within 48 hours. He reported that soon the entire San Diego waterfront area may be prohibited to enemy aliens.

Kenya Court Cuts Sentence of Peer in Securities Case

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Supreme court reduced today to one year of imprisonment the sentence of Lord Carbery of Kenya and Pebble Beach, Cal., who was convicted of selling United States securities without consent of the governor. He originally was sentenced to two years at hard labor.

BARON VON OPEL 'ARRESTED BY FBI AS ENEMY ALIEN

Seize Rich German, 3 Others in Florida.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Baron Fritz von Opel, wealthy Palm Beach and Nantucket, Mass., yachtsman and shooting enthusiast, was arrested by federal bureau of investigation agents tonight as a "potentially dangerous alien."

At Miami R. G. Danner, in charge of the FBI office, declined to identify the baron by name, but did say two German aliens and two of Hungarian extraction had been arrested at Palm Beach. From an unimpeachable law enforcement source, however, it was learned that Baron von Opel was one of the Germans arrested.

Find Guns, Ammunition.

Danner added that "a quantity of guns and ammunition were seized at one of the residences involved in tonight's raid."

The guns and ammunition, said Danner, came within the provisions of material which the President's proclamation prohibited aliens from having in their possession. The four persons arrested will be turned over to the immigration service for a hearing to determine whether they should be interned, Danner said.

Father Germany's 'Henry Ford.'

Von Opel's father, manufacturer of the Opel car, sometimes has been called "the Henry Ford of Germany."

The baron has participated in several skeet tournaments at the Miami club and also is known in yachting circles as the owner of the Tipsy Porpoise.

The arrest of Von Opel brought to 64 the number of persons arrested in this area by the FBI this week. Earlier arrests included a former German countess and an Italian prince.

37,021 ALIENS GET IDENTITY BLANKS; DEADLINE NEARS

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen reported yesterday that 37,021 enemy aliens in this area have applied for identification certificates since the registration began Feb. 9. There are at least 10,000 more who must file applications by 9 o'clock tomorrow night, the deadline for registration, Kruetgen said.

All German, Italian, and Japanese nationals, 14 years and older, who have not fully acquired citizenship, must apply for the identification certificates. Those who fail to do so face internment for the duration of the war.

Registration thus far at the 10 postoffice stations, where applications are accepted, follow:

Postoffice.	Applications.
Main postoffice	6,870
Old postoffice annex	3,964
830 North Clark street	4,357
2300 North Pulaski road	1,692
3750 North Kedzie avenue	4,077
2419 Monroe street	4,726
1859 South Ashland avenue	1,350
2938 East 92d street	2061
4101 South Halsted street	3,669
4850 Broadway	4,255

Application forms are available at all postoffice stations. The applications must be filled out and turned in with three full face photographs two inches square. Enemy aliens later will receive from the department of justice cards bearing their photographs and fingerprints.

GOVERNOR WARNS POLICE OFFICERS OF WAR DANGERS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26 (AP).—Gov. Dwight Green told city and county law enforcement officers today that the midwest presents "an important target for sabotage—and even for air raids." The police officials convened to discuss methods of traffic control during the war emergency.

"When we speak of sabotage and other subversive perils from within, we are not raising the bugaboo of needless fear," the governor said. "Surprise and treachery are the weapons upon which the desperate axis powers rely. God grant that no such danger strike, but if it does, never let it be said that we were unprepared to meet it. Vigilance is the price of safety and never must this vigilance be relaxed."

STEAL TIRES AND WHEELS.

Burglars yesterday broke into a storage garage for new cars at 2436 Green Bay road, Evanston, and stole the tires and wheels from three new automobiles. The loot was valued at $300.

F. D. R. WILL HOLD KNOX LIABLE FOR COAST DEFENSES

Los Angeles Asks Raid "Explanation."

Mexico Base Possible.

Other California representatives reported that they had received protests from west coast officials and other constituents against Knox's assertion that no planes were in the air. All protests asserted that Knox's statement was a great blow to morale.

Stimson refused to guess where the planes he said were operated by enemy agents were based. In military circles it was held possible that the planes were based in Mexico as well as hideaways in California. Stimson said that every effort is being made to smoke out the hideouts.

None of the planes dropped bombs. Stimson said. He reported that not one of the planes was shot down by the anti-aircraft barrage and that no casualties were suffered by American forces. No American planes took to the air against the planes.

Barrage Lasted an Hour.

The secretary refused to explain why American planes failed to take to the air to engage the unidentified planes. He said the army report gave no explanation of the point.

The anti-aircraft barrage was fired from 3:12 a. m. to 4:15 a. m., Pacific wartime. Military experts said that army or navy planes should have been brought into action within an hour.

Stimson praised military and civilian defense authorities of the area for their efforts during the alarm, saying, "it's better to be too alert than not alert enough."

Flew at Varying Speeds.

Stimson read a report from the army headquarters of the Los Angeles area, which said that the craft were probably commercial planes which may have been rented because they flew at varying speeds up to 200 miles an hour at altitudes between 9,000 and 18,000 feet and dropped no bombs either explosive or incendiary.

Stimson said that the flight was probably conceived by enemy agents for the purpose of discovering the locations of anti-aircraft batteries, and for the purpose of demoralizing the public.

He declined to take issue with Knox's statement that the raid was a "false alarm." He took his stand on the army report.

KILLED IN FALL DOWNSTAIRS.

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Kate Kanrath, 90 years old, member of a prominent Galesburg family, died today of a broken neck, when she fell downstairs.

INDICT JAP WHO RETURNED DRAFT CARD TO BOARD

The federal grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging Robert A. Chino, 23 years old, 5346 Harper avenue, with failure to keep his draft registration card on his person. Bond was set at $5,000 and Chino, unable to supply the amount, was kept in the county jail. If convicted, he is liable to maximum imprisonment of five years, a fine up to $10,000, or both.

Chino, son of a Japanese, returned the card to his local draft board because, he said, he was a member of the War Registers' league and would not fight under any circumstances.

Another member of the league, David R. Nyvall, 20 years old, 1460 East 57th street, has been indicted for refusing to register for military service.

Park Policeman's Suicide Laid to Worry over Loans

Park Policeman Lester Fenton, 36 years old, probably killed himself because of worry over money owed loan companies, a coroner's jury was told yesterday. After Capt. William Doyle of the Gresham station gave his testimony the jury returned a suicide verdict. Fenton was found dead at 86th street and Winchester avenue Wednesday, a bullet thru his heart and his service revolver near by. He lived at 1137 West 78th street with his wife, Mary, and a daughter, Mary Beth.

Spring Conditioning that's TAILORED TO YOUR CAR!

Come in Now for a FREE Inspection by Authorized Factory-Trained Mechanics that Will Show Exactly what Attention YOUR Car Needs.

HOW'S YOUR CLUTCH ACTION? Did you know that a clutch that is not operating properly can result in too-rapid tire wear? That's one of the things our tailored spring servicing catches.

ARE YOUR WHEELS IN LINE? Misaligned front wheels not only wear tires rapidly but may interfere with proper car control. One of many instances where it's better to check up and be sure.

WANT LONGER TIRE LIFE? When switching tires, do you remember the spare? If you'll let us switch your tires, working the spare in where it can best be used, each tire out of the five you have will be on the road only four-fifths as much as usual. Net result: Longer life from the same full set.

GOOD BRAKES MEAN SAFETY PLUS. Brakes ought to be kept in proper adjustment for safety reasons alone. Beyond that, brakes that are "out" can also result in unnecessarily increased tire wear. For best results, let Buick men adjust your Buick brakes to Buick factory specifications.

LICK-AND-A-PROMISE spring conditioning won't do this year, mister!

You've got something more important to think about than just changing oil and grease—you've got a whole car that will have to see you through the duration, and you can't afford to overlook any part of it.

That's why Buick spring service is tailored to your own particular car.

We change oil and grease in the regular way, of course—we check batteries, cooling systems, wheel alignment and other routine matters.

But engines burn less gas when they run efficiently. Tires go further when clutch and brakes are in proper adjustment.

Your whole car lasts longer when it is conditioned as a unit—especially when trained Buick specialists do the job.

So we write your spring conditioning ticket to fit your car's needs—not to make up a ready-made "package" according to average requirements.

The cost is no higher than for a comparably good job anywhere else. It's actually lower in the long run, because it pays to have a job done right—pays to have work done before wear and tear get started.

Drop in for a FREE check-up by our authorized factory-trained mechanics and let us detail the service your car should have this spring.

COPS CLASH WITH CHORINES IN N. Y. BURLESQUE BAN

Mystery Over La Guardia Crusade Deepens.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—Skull cracking and shin kicking were averted today when cops and chorus girls clashed as an aftermath of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's order closing three burlesque houses.

Police stepped into the controversy when chorines, rendered jobless by the closing order, began circulating petitions urging reopening of the theaters.

Petitions had been spread out on tables in the open lobby of one of the darkened theaters, the Republic, and signatures were being solicited from passing crowds when several policemen popped up. They ordered the chorus girls to get out and a sizzling verbal battle ensued.

One insult was leading to another, observers reported, until the policeman on the beat called the station house and received orders to let the burlesque people continue with their petitions. But half a dozen officers remained on the scene to break up the crowds on the sidewalk.

Crusade Mystifies City.

While Broadway seethed over what is regarded as a censorship threat to other branches of the theatrical industry, as well as to burlesque, mystery deepened over the reason for the mayor's sudden crusade.

John G. McCormack, a lawyer and chairman of the Citizens' committee appointed by the mayor to police the burlesque theaters, could give no reason for the mayor's action. He said the committee had recommended licenses be renewed for all three theaters in the belief "the burlesque situation is better than it was even two years ago." He said the burlesque performances in New York were "much cleaner" than in Boston, Philadelphia, and other cities.

License Commissioner Paul Moss denied the theaters licenses on the basis of letters received from church groups.

No Indecency Specified.

The letters stated general objections to the burlesque type of entertainment, such as the strip-tease act, but did not specify any particular act or performer as offensive.

This was noted today by the American Civil Liberties union, which announced its support of the burlesque theaters in the forthcoming court fight for their reopening.

"We are for any theater's right to hold a license unless it is convicted in a court of law for obscenity or some other violation," declared Roger Baldwin, director of the union.

Morris L. Ernst, attorney for the burlesque interests, is expected to file a brief in Supreme court asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the reopening. Ernst, who has been La Guardia's personal attorney, said yesterday the mayor is obsessed with "war hysteria."

'Ghost' Plant Makes Tanks; Corn to Shells in 16 Months

Monsters Pour Off Line

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Fourteen months ago a Chicago company which serves the railroad industry started diffidently on a job which seemed impossible. It was going to make combat tanks for the American and British forces.

Army ordnance had asked it to get to work fast. There was no time to build a modern plant and install new machinery.

It had a plant in Chicago's back yard [location is withheld by request of army ordnance] which had lain rusting and decaying since the early thirties—a casualty of the depression. It was renovated and some used and some new machinery installed. In four or five months operations were started with 45 men. Combat tanks for the British forces in Libya gradually began to take form. Orders from Washington came to step up production.

Employs Thousands Now.

Yesterday the Chicago ordnance district demonstrated to a group of newspaper men what industry can accomplish under the stress of war.

From this once ramshackle, rusting hulk of steel and bricks are emerging 28 ton tanks of latest design with guns ready for action.

The plant, with several assembly lines some 1,400 feet long, resounded with the whir of metal cutting machinery and the pounding and thumping of presses. Several thousand men now work where 45 began haltingly to fashion the first tanks. In a few months production will be doubled and redoubled and more, according to ordnance officials. In a few months several more thousand men will move into buildings not yet rehabilitated.

A Depression Ghost.

Reflecting the speed with which the job has been accomplished, the assembly lines start in a drafty, rattling building which still has the haunted appearance of those "ghost" factories which spotted the nation's cities only a few years ago.

Also—demonstrating the rapidity with which American tank design has advanced, riveted, angular M-3 tanks move side by side on parallel assembly lines with the newest streamlined M-4s with their 75 mm. guns in revolving cast steel turrets protruding from hulls of the same metal.

"That's the best darned tank in the world," said the plant superintendent, patting the thick, rounded hull of an M-4 with a craftsman's respect for a job well done.

Many Beating Schedule.

In reporting on industry's progress in converting facilities to wartime production, Col. Donald Armstrong, deputy chief of the Chicago ordnance district, declared that arms makers in the district have done a "magnificent job." Twenty-one per cent of the contractors are ahead of schedule, 17 per cent are on time, and the remaining have been delayed primarily because the navy and air corps have been given priority on machine tools.

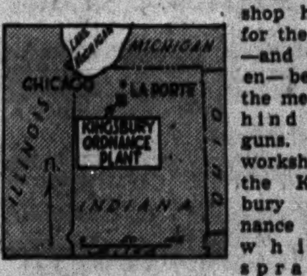
Col. Armstrong said the district has let 1 billion 317 million dollars in ordnance contracts since June, 1940, and that this total will pass the 2 billion dollar mark in six months. He predicted that the flow of armaments will expand so rapidly that storage of the equipment will soon become a serious problem.

"The tank situation is most encouraging," Col. Armstrong commented. "Bottlenecks which formerly impeded progress have now been worked out. We can be proud of industry's achievement."

10,000 Load Projectiles

BY WARD WALKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 26.—The government has opened a new 45 million dollar workshop here for the men—and women—behind the men behind the guns. This workshop is the Kingsbury Ordnance plant which sprawls over a 20 square mile tract of sparsely wooded land seven miles south of La Porte.



The metamorphosis from cornfields to shell loading lines has been completed in 16 months by Bates and Rogers, contractors. Six loading lines are turning out projectiles. Like the Wilmington munitions works south of Joliet, this plant is operated by private interests—Todd & Brown, Inc.—under the supervision of the government represented by Maj. Edward J. Thomas, commanding officer.

More than 500 Buildings.

Maj. Thomas yesterday conducted 35 newspaper men on a tour of the tract.

The KOP, as the workmen call it, includes more than 500 buildings, widely separated and built according to the latest government safety specifications.

There are 70 miles of roadways thru the area and a like mileage of railroads, connecting with the Baltimore and Ohio, the Grand Trunk, the Wabash, and the Nickel Plate.

Seven hundred and fifty police patrol the 10 separate units within the outer fence of the KOP, and floodlights blanket the entire area. The plant generates its own electricity in three strategically located Diesel powered generators and supplies its own heat. Ten Diesel locomotives, equipped with two way FM radio sets, do the switching within the works.

10,000 Employed, 20,000 Later.

In addition to the railroad radios, which enable the engineers to keep in constant touch with the dispatcher, the guard and fire forces and the construction crews are equipped with two way sets.

Approximately 10,000 persons are employed in the plant, including many women. Officials said that eventual employment would number 20,000, of whom 40 per cent would be women.

Like the Elwood branch of the Wilmington works, KOP confines its activities to assembling and loading shells. Those assembled here, however, range only from 20 mm. aircraft cannon shells to 105 mm. howitzer and gun shells.

Assemble Shells Ready to Fire.

The parts of the shells—casings, fuses, and explosives—are brought to KOP, placed on assembly lines that resemble those of the automobile industry, and when the operation is finished the shells are ready for front line duty.

The influx of workers into the area has created a serious housing problem that the government is endeavoring to meet thru the proposed construction of 3,400 homes on U. S. highway 6 on the southwest corner of the tract.

HALIFAX DEFENDS BRITAIN'S POLICY TOWARD ALLIES

Denies Islands Sit Back and Let Others Fight.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26 (AP).—Great Britain shipped 9,000 planes and 3,000 tanks abroad in 1941 at "appalling risk" to the safety of the home front, Lord Halifax said tonight in answer to accusations that Britain "leaves the fighting to her friends."

Some of that material played a vital part "in the historic defense" of Moscow, the British ambassador said in a speech before the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"In 1941 we got 2,000 aircraft from this country, but we sent more than 9,000 overseas," he declared. "We imported 200 tanks, but we sent abroad 3,000. We have had to take appalling risks with the safety of Great Britain by sending vital war material at critical times to other theaters of war.

Guards Fill Two Jobs.

"I hear it said that Britain sits behind 3½ million bayonets in her island fortress and leaves the fighting to her friends.

"Two million of those soldiers are home guards whose full-time work is in war industries. The other million and a half have to defend something like 3,000 miles of coasts and 90,000 square miles inside them.

"I do not think that the idea of the British Isles being overinsured is one that would be accepted by any responsible military opinion."

Lord Halifax said 70 per cent of the empire's casualties on land were borne by the isles and "at sea they have been heavier still."

RAF Aid to Russia.

The RAF made daylight raids over western Europe all last summer to draw away from the Russian front as many enemy fighter planes as possible, the ambassador said, adding:

"That form of help cost us about half the number of fighter pilots alone that we lost during the whole battle of Britain in 1940."

Earlier in the day the ambassador received an honorary degree as doctor of canon law from the divinity school of the Protestant Episcopal church of Philadelphia.

Fugitive Who Surrendered Is Pardoned by Gov. Green

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26 (AP).—John Deuben of Detroit, Mich., truck driver who in 1940 returned voluntarily to Pontiac prison to make amends for his escape in 1921, was granted a conditional pardon today by Gov. Dwight Green. The governor's office said Deuben had been assured of reemployment as truck driver for the James Vernor company at Detroit. Deuben, sentenced to a 10 year term in 1921 for a Chicago robbery, escaped from Pontiac prison after serving seven months. Nineteen years later he gave himself up. He had served two more years when his pardon was announced today.

ASSAILS MONTH'S SHORE LEAVE FOR PRESIDENT'S SON

House Member Calls Him 'Teacher's Pet.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—A charge of "teacher's pet" hurled on the house floor today provoked a storm of debate over the granting of a month's special shore leave to naval Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, following an operation for appendicitis on Feb. 10.

Rep. Pheiffer.

Rep. William T. Pheiffer [R., N. Y.], who made the charge, read from an Associated Press dispatch of yesterday which quoted Capt. G. E. Robertson, commanding officer of the Brooklyn Navy hospital, as saying that young Roosevelt is in "fine condition" and will be released from the hospital soon. He has been ordered to remain ashore for a month, the dispatch said, for a routine checkup before rejoining the Atlantic fleet.

Four Sons in Service.

Franklin is one of the President's four tall sons who got themselves commissions in the armed forces before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. James is a captain in the marines; Elliott is a captain in the army air corps reserves, holding a desk job on active duty, and John is an ensign in the naval supply section, a post to which he asked to be assigned, according to an explanation by his mother, because he does not like bloodshed.

In addressing the house on young Franklin's shore leave privileges, Pheiffer noted that the President's son holds his commission "by virtue of his accident of birth." The granting of the special leave is an example of what causes resentment and discontent in the country in wartime, he said.

Hits "Silver Platter" System.

"If the sons of poor families of your district or mine had recovered, as has Lieut. Roosevelt, they would be put back immediately into service," the New York representative asserted. "This simply symbolizes the vicious system whereby commissions are handed out on silver platters and where sons of prominent men are given favored treatment in the armed forces."

The chamber's leading White House stalwarts were stung into immediate reply, charging Pheiffer with "sniping" and "trifling with the morale of the people."

Majority Leader John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] insisted that every son of the President is seeking hazardous war duty.

Rep. Edwin Hall [R., N. Y.] arose to defend Pheiffer, asserting that he, too, favors consideration for the rank and file of the armed forces.

DEATH IN STREET HELD MYSTERY.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of death from undetermined causes in the case of Richard Peters, 59 years old, 4401 Keokuk avenue, a retired plasterer. Peters was found dead Feb. 16 on the street car tracks at Montrose avenue and Broadway.

SENATORS URGE U. S. TO INTERCEDE FOR SELF-RULE TO INDIA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—The state department is being pressed today to ask Great Britain for an immediate pledge of post-war self-government for India.

Influential members of the senate foreign relations committee, it was learned, made the demand on Breckinridge Long, assistant secretary of state.

When the subject was raised by Sen. Robert La Follette [Prog., Wis.] during a closed committee session yesterday the recommendation was said to have had the active support of most of the eleven members present.

La Follette was reported to have told Long that, in his opinion, a wholehearted war effort could be expected from India only if Great Britain gave definite assurances immediately that India would have actual self-rule after the conflict ends. India now has a measure of local self-government, but her leaders have been seeking dominion status.

LONG, HARD WAR IS PREDICTED BY RICKENBACKER

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 26 (AP). — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, flying ace of the first World war, told naval flight students here that "this will be a long hard war," but predicted an allied victory "won by the men in aviation."

Addressing personnel of the United States Naval Reserve aviation base, Rickenbacker, now president of Eastern Air Lines, said:

"Our operations are far, far away. The supply routes are difficult. It takes 100 tons of shipping to maintain the necessities for every single fighting man in the Phillippines. For 100,000 men it take 1,000,000 tons of shipping to provide the equipment with which to fight."

Emphasizing the importance of air training, Rickenbacker warned: "don't think that after the first fifty, hundred or two hundred hours in the air you're a helluva good flier. In the last war we found that some of the greatest stunters of them all flopped when they faced combat."

BROOKS PLEADS FOR SACRIFICES TO BACK TROOPS

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 26 [Special].—All-out war efforts by civilians to match the sacrifices being made by the thousands of young men in the armed services was urged tonight by United States Sen. Wayland Brooks. He addressed a patriotic dinner sponsored by the Adams County Women's Republican club in Hotel Lincoln Douglas. More than 500 attended, and the appeal of Sen. Brooks was heard as well by a large radio audience.

After reviewing other wars in which America has fought for freedom, but which he said cannot compare with the struggle facing this nation today, Brooks declared: "I want you to feel and to know how gigantic is the course to which you must devote yourselves. The government is saying to able bodied men, 20 to 44 years of age, 'you are going to serve in the army.'

"It is not right, it is not decent, it is not honorable that we let the government send a single man to fly a plane, drop a bomb or man a ship unless that soldier knows when he goes that we have a united nation behind his sacrifice when he takes his place in the line."

SENT TO PRISON AS CONFIDENCE GAME OPERATOR

Dawn Taylor, 30 years old, was sentenced to 1⅓ to 2⅓ years in prison yesterday by Judge Harold G. Ward of the Criminal court on his plea of guilty to a charge of operating a confidence game.

The complaining witness was Miss Geraldine McLees, 35, formerly of Cascade, Ia. She said she met Taylor last April, and that he persuaded her to invest $9,500 in fake oil stock. He used the money, mostly on dice games, it was charged. Then he was drafted.

Miss McLees lost track of him until last fall, when he telephoned her from Camp Bowie, Brownsville, Tex., where he was an army private. She traced the call and brought about his arrest.

RECALLS 'FREE FRENCH' AGENTS FROM N. AMERICA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, "Free French" leader, has recalled to London two of his agents in North America, it was learned today. Those recalled for consultation are Vice Adm. Emile Musilier, chief of the "Free French" forces on St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands, and Adrien Tixier, "Free French" agent in Washington, D. C.

It is underjstood that Muselier, who took over the two islands off Newfoundland last December, will not return to the islands. There has been a conflict on whether the "Free French" should maintain administration of the islands and the American state department has been asked to agree to a compromise whereby the "Free French" forces would leave the islands while plebiscite is conducted by neutral authorities. On Christmas day the islanders voted 98 per cent in favor of "Free French" rule, altho this vote was called unfair.

URGES BUILDING SMALL AUTO AS DEFENSE ASSET

Asserts Workers Require Easy Transportation.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., Feb. 26.—Holding that adequate transporation is as important to our war effort as stockpiles of raw materials, Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., today urged production of a small reasonably priced automobile after national arms production is under way. He believes that automobiles will be wearing out to such an extent by 1943 that production should start in that year.

He said such a car should be stripped of all nonessentials and should not weigh more than 2,200 pounds.

Suggests Tire Problem Solution.

Frazer said that the lack of rubber presents a problem, but this should be solved as substantial amounts of synthetic rubber are produced. He suggested that the all purpose car be equipped with tires of the smallest size. He said by using a tire of 5 inches diameter as compared with the 6 inches diameter of the standard tire used on most popular makes of automobiles a savings of about 4 pounds per tire could be made. This would amount to about 1,600,000 pounds of rubber for 100,000 cars.

Willys' huge Toledo plants are now 100 per cent in war production as they were during the last war. Among the company's products is the famed "jeep," a small combat motor car used for "motorized cavalry."

"We are bending our entire effort to the production of arms," Frazer said in his simple office in the Willys plant. "But we know that in a few years there will be a lot of people wanting automobile transportation. As every one knows, our economic system is geared to the automobile for transportation.

Calls Transportation Essential.

"We ought to maintain transportation for those who actually need it, altho we will have to forget about pleasure transportation. It should be recalled that in the Civil war the morale of the south was broken when the Yankee soldiers took away the horses and mules of the people. That ended the transportation of the southerners."

Frazer said this is the time to plan for future transportation needs, when there still exist a few assembly lines which could be set aside for future use.

"Should a transportation emergency arise," he continued, "I believe it would be better to build new cars than to try to repair a lot of old ones.

Comfort but No Frills.

"I recommend that the Victory car be neither a midget nor some sort of cycle car, but a small comfortable automobile from which all luxuries and frills have been taken. No wool should be used in the upholstery. No rubber should be used except for tires and insulation. All decorations would be out. I believe the engine should be similar to the four cylinder job with which we power the 'jeep.' It's very economical of fuel."

In stressing the advisability of building a limited number of such cars when the need arises, Frazer said the automobile and the truck can contribute greatly to the war effort in a number of ways.

Makes for Good Environment.

The automobile permits the location of a worker at a machine in a factory in the best possible environment, he said. The automobile makes it possible to locate factories where there is plenty of light and fresh air and where working conditions are cheerful. It takes the place of local transportation systems.

The truck brings materials to the machine and takes the finished products away with facility.

The automobile enables the worker to get to the machine in the proper physical and nervous condition to operate it properly, Frazier added. It enables him to avoid packed buses and street cars and frees him from transportation system schedules. Frazer said this independence of local or other formal transportation contributes to the well being of the worker, enabling him to run his machine more efficiently.

Four of the boys who ranked highest in the campaign, which began Dec. 6, were given medals. They were:

LEE URGES LAW FOR REVIEW OF AGENCY RULINGS

State Rep. Noble W. Lee [R., 5th] told the legislative department of the 2d district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday that he would propose a bill to provide review of decisions of the administrative law bodies of the state at the next session of the legislature. The meeting was held in federation headquarters at 30 West Washington street.

"As the war emphasizes action we're providing more and more governmental machinery and enhancing and accelerating the growth of a government jungle of ramifications," Lee said. "The development of these quick acting agencies is dangerous to fundamental human liberties and the progress of the war."

Lee suggested that a time limit be put on emergency legislation. "We have got to learn a lesson of self control and self denial," he said. "We must stop overlooking the means in seeking the end. Our trends should not be toward the expedient but toward the fundamental."

Tramp Rapist Executed for Slaying N. Y. Woman

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP).—Smiling George Joseph Cvek entered the execution chamber at Sing Sing prison at 11:01 o'clock tonight and three minutes later had paid with his life for the murder of a Bronx housewife who had befriended him. The 24 year old vagabond, who was convicted of strangling Mrs. Catherine Pappas, 34, and who admitted robbing or raping at least 14 women in eastern cities, whispered responses to the prayers of the prison's Catholic chaplain as he was strapped in the electric chair.

NEGRO WOMAN NAMED MEMBER OF AIR PATROL

Miss Willa Beatrice Brown, a pilot with 550 flying hours to her credit, yesterday became the first Negro member of the Civil Air Patrol in Illinois. Her papers arrived from Washington, D. C., with approval of the Federal Bureau of Identification, and she later was notified by Jack Vilas, the Illinois wing commander, that she had been accepted.

Miss Brown holds a limited commercial flying license and is a director of the Coffey School of Aeronautics at Harlem airport. She also teaches aviation mechanics in Chicago public schools.

Vilas said that Miss Brown has been assigned as adjutant to the 111th flight squadron, which will be an all-Negro CAP group based at Harlem airport. The squadron will have 25 pilots, several light planes and four army primary training biplanes. Vilas said that 1,560 Illinois pilots have applied for CAP membership, but only 400 have been accepted.

HENDERSON SEES SUB-DEPRESSION LIVING STANDARD

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson predicted tonight that the "level of living" in the United States would quickly fall below the lowest point of the great depression because so much of the nation's productive capacity would be devoted to war. In a speech prepared for the Overseas Press club and for broadcast over MBS, he said that war production would cost the country more than 50 billion dollars this year and at least 75 billion in 1943.

"In other words, in 1942 as our contribution in the war of the merchandise of death, we are prepared to deliver a greater quantity of goods than this entire nation had to keep it alive in 1932," Henderson declared.

"It means that we stand today staring at the grim prospect of inflation. It means that the level of living within a few short months will be not much above 1932 and that in 1943 we shall surely fall below 1932."

HENDERSON FACES SENATE INQUIRY ON U. S. RUBBER SUPPLY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Chairman Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] of the senate defense investigating committee announced today that public hearings concerning the rubber supply would open next Thursday with Leon Henderson, price administrator, as first witness.

Henderson, Truman said, will testify on "the extent to which rubber will be made available for nonmilitary uses and the steps which he will take to apportion it fairly."

"The committee is not satisfied that adequate steps were taken to meet the rubber situation," Truman said, "and is making a detailed study to make sure that adequate and practicable steps are taken to assure the largest possible supply of rubber as soon as possible."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SENATORS DOUBT U. S. CAN EXPEND VAST WAR FUNDS

Fear Backlog Grants F. D. R. More Power.

of the empire spent 4 billion. At the end of Britain's present fiscal year on March 31, 1942, the direct expenditures of all the British empire, excluding our own lend-lease contributions, will have reached approximately 35 billion dollars, he said.

No Lend-Lease Repayment.

The Wisconsin senator said the agreement entered into by the United States and Great Britain last Monday for the settlement of lend-lease obligations after the war contemplates no repayment to the United States.

"I do not believe any person can read the agreement . . . without coming to the conclusion that in so far as the persons who sat down to negotiate and who ultimately signed the agreement [Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador] are concerned, there is not contemplated at any time, now or in the future, any payment or repayment by Great Britain or any lend-lease country," La Follette said.

Lend-lease appropriations to date, including the pending bill, total 18 billion, 410 million dollars, not counting the transfer of war materials purchased under army and navy appropriations, La Follette added. He expressed the hope that "some day we shall be able to negotiate an instrument which will be as generous to the present generation and to the oncoming generations in the United States as we are proposing to be generous to the beneficiaries under the lend-lease program."

"If the British empire can never repay the astronomical sums which have been advanced to her under the lend-lease program, how can we expect to fry even greater sums out of the hides of this and future generations?" he asked.

La Follette conceded that in time of war congress must surrender enormous powers to the chief executive. "But there is one power which the congress does not have to surrender, and that is the power over the purse strings," he said. "Congress does not have to appropriate more money than is necessary or than would be spent in a reasonable length of time in the future. I desire to say that it is my firm conviction that congress has already built up a huge backlog of appropriations which if congress were not to appropriate another dollar of money would run the war for a considerable period of time."

Apprehensive, But not Opposed.

La Follette said he would not oppose the bill, but wished to express apprehension "that in the first place the money we are appropriating will not be translated into materials of war, as is anticipated; and, in the second place, that congress is unnecessarily stripping itself of power by the appropriation of these vast sums of money which place the executive in a position where it is not necessary to give an accounting to the congress for some time to come."

Sen. McKellar assured the senate that the production of aircraft, tanks, guns, and other war equipment is increasing at a remarkable rate.

Action Is Deferred.

The senate deferred action on the appropriation bill until next Monday because of a controversial amendment offered by Sen. Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] on behalf of the farm bloc. Thomas' amendment would prohibit the use of funds made available by the bill to purchase or otherwise acquire agriculture commodities held by the Commodity Credit corporation at prices below parity.

A senate bill passed yesterday over President Roosevelt's opposition forbids the Commodity Credit corporation to sell its huge stocks of farm commodities at prices below parity. However, products could be transferred to the war and navy departments and the lend-lease administration under the gigantic appropriations carried in the pending bill, and Thomas' amendment would plug this possible loophole. If it is approved, not even the army and the navy and the lend-lease administration may buy the government's own agriculture products at prices below parity, but must buy them in the open market.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union and members in Chicago have invested $750,000 in defense bonds and stamps, Samuel Levin, manager of the Chicago joint board, said yesterday.

Sale of bonds in the 7th federal reserve district yesterday had mounted to $650,224,000, the Federal Reserve bank announced.

Sale of both bonds and stamps thru the Chicago postoffice are exceeding $250,000 a day, Postmaster E. J. Kruetgen announced. Total sale of bonds thru the postoffice stood yesterday at $26,535,411 and stamp totals at $9,187,648.

Thru The Tribune Public Service bureaus in the tower at 435 North Michigan avenue and at Madison and Dearborn streets $281 worth of bonds and $119 worth of stamps were sold yesterday.

NELSON TO TELL PEOPLE WAR JOBS IN RADIO TALKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson will broadcast to the nation Monday night. In this and three subsequent talks, a spokesman said, the war production chief will "hand out assignments to all classes of citizens, telling them what they can do to help win the war."

"Mr. Nelson will spend most of the time examining the allegation that there is too much smugness and complacency in the country, and that people are confused about what they can do to help the war effort," the spokesman said.

The first address will be directed primarily to management and workers in the war industry, it was announced, and the later talks will be aimed at other segments of the population.

A TIMELY HINT: MAN LONG LIVED WITHOUT SUGAR

\ Two Lump Man Traces Commodity's History.

If you've quit worrying about the tire ban and you're starting in on the sugar shortage, take the advice of Paul C. Standley, curator of herbarium in the department of botany at the Field museum: "Forget it."

Look back into the history of man and you'll be comforted, says Standley, himself a two lump man and an authority on the history and manufacture of beet and cane sugar.

"From the national concern about the shortage, one would suppose that man could not exist without sugar," says Standley. "Perhaps this is almost true nowadays, for last year the people of the United States each consumed an average of about 96 pounds.

Without It For Centuries.

"But up to 40 years ago the Russians used no more than two pounds per capita annually. And for thousands of years highly civilized peoples of Europe and the near east managed to live healthfully without any sugar."

For specific examples, Standley turns back to the ancient Romans and Greeks. Sugar was first brought back by the legionnaires from their campaigns, he says. At the fabulous Lucullan banquets in Rome there wasn't a sugar bowl on the table.

Standley believes that sugar cane flourished in southeastern Asia from man's earliest existence, but, he says, it did not become well known until hundreds of years after the beginning of the Christian era.

Called "Sweet Salt."

When it first was taken to Europe it was called "sweet salt." It was taken to Spain by the Arabs about 700 A. D. and then grown along the Mediterrean coast. It is said to have reached Mexico in 1553.

"Cane sugar was introduced into England about 1466, but it did not come into common use until about 1580, when importations began from Brazil by way of Portugal. By 1790 English consumption was 20 pounds per person annually."

RAIDERS ARREST COMPANY HEAD; SEIZE MACHINES

Policemen from the state's attorney's office raided headquarters of the Winner Sales company at 3400 Armitage avenue yesterday afternoon, arrested the president of the firm, Hyman Salkind, and confiscated 18 machines of the "race horse" variety, described as thinly disguised slot machines.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Freedman, who obtained search warrants before making the raid, sent Salkind to the detective bureau, where he was charged with possessing gambling devices and released in bonds of $150. Nineteen employés of the firm were served with subpenas requiring them to testify before the grand jury. Freedman said that until Jan. 24 the Winner company had had several hundred machines operating in taverns and stores.

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

In selecting vegetables from the war garden for storage there are certain important rules to follow to insure their remaining fresh and palatable.

Only the best and most perfect specimens should be put in storage. They should be handled carefully to prevent bruising, as a cut or bruise is likely to start decay. The vegetables should be neither old nor immature, and should not be handled when they are wet.

Do not allow the vegetables to freeze before they are stored, as they will not keep well. All fruits and vegetables should not be stored under the same conditions as some will require cool, dry storage, while others demand warm, dry storage.

The Way to Store Cabbage.

Cabbage can be stored away until late January or February providing the weather does not become too warm. It should be placed in the root cellar or pit in November. Harvest the cabbage with the roots intact and replant it in moist sand. This will help to preserve it. Cabbage demands temperatures around 34 degrees Fahrenheit with a relative humidity of 80 to 85 per cent.

Root crops, including beets, carrots, turnips, rutabagas, salsify, parsnips, and winter radishes, require low temperatures of 32 to 34 degrees with a relative humidity of about 95 per cent. They require little air circulation. Do not store small or immature roots as they will dry out and shrivel. Pile them on the floor or in boxes where they can be covered with moist earth or sand. Beets should have about one-half inch of tops left on them to prevent "bleeding."

Onions should be kept in cold, dry storage. Leave at least an inch and a half of stem on the onions.

Tomatoes Also Can Be Kept.

Tomatoes will keep until Thanksgiving or later if well matured green tomatoes are brought into the cellar or placed under cover. They must not be frosted before they are stored. If placed on shelves where the temperature is between 50 and 60 degrees they will ripen over a six or eight week period. Some gardeners pull up the entire plant and hang it in the basement.

Squash and pumpkins should have the stem left on and care should be taken not to bruise them. They require a warm, dry room where the temperature remains between 40 and 50 degrees.

Celery and head lettuce will keep for several weeks if they are replanted in moist sand or dirt. The temperature in the storage room should be as near freezing as possible for the best results. The foliage should be kept dry, and old and diseased leaves should be removed before storing.

Many of these vegetables may be seen in their natural surroundings in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's war garden at the National Flower show on March 15. The vegetables were started from seeds in the Vaughan greenhouses and will be transplanted into a typical back yard war garden at the show.

[This is the last of a series of articles on how to make a war garden. The articles will be reprinted in booklet form and will be placed on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices. The date of sale will be announced later.]

A GIRL'S VALOR STANDS ALONE IN STREET CAR

Miss Rose Doble, a time clerk at the R. R. Donnelley & Sons Printing company, stood yesterday in an Archer avenue street car on the way to her home at 6542 South Artesian avenue. The car was crowded. None of the men sitting near her offered her a seat.

At Western avenue Miss Doble fainted. Sergt. Albert Ledden of the Brighton Park police station took her home. Miss Doble said it wasn't anything. She had fainted because of the loss of a pint of blood she had given to the Red Cross at 624 South Michigan avenue just after work.

ENVOYS SHIFTED TO BOLSTER LATIN AMERICAN FRONT

7 Posts Affected; Three Raised to Embassies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—President Roosevelt today raised the United States legations in Bolivia, Eucador, and Paraguay to the status of embassies in recognition of the three nations' actions in severing relations with axis powers.

The move, which by reciprocity elevates the Washington legations of the three nations to the status of embassies, was designed to further the "good neighbor" front against the axis powers. At the same time Mr. Roosevelt shifted and filled four diplomatic posts in Central America and Columbia.

Mr. Roosevelt acted by sending the nominations of four ambassadors and three ministers to the senate.

Designated to be first ambassador to Bolivia is Pierre de Lagard Boal of Pennsylvania, now minister to Nicaragua.

To Ecuador and Paraguay the President nominated for ambassadorships the men already serving there as ministers. These are Boaz Long of New Mexico, in Ecuador, and Wesley Frost of Kentucky, in Paraguay.

Young Man in Important Post.

To be ambassador to Colombia the President selected Arthur Bliss Lane of New York, now minister to Costa Rica. He succeeds Spruille Braden, who was assigned to Cuba.

Lane, who is only 47 years old, will be one of the country's youngest ambassadors. His post in Bogota will be important because of Colombia's vital position in hemisphere defense.

A resident of Brooklyn, Lane was educated in France and at Yale university. He was in the Connecticut National Guard during 1915-'16. He started his diplomatic career as secretary to the American ambassador to Italy during 1916-'17. He has held foreign service posts in Rome, Warsaw, London, Paris, Berne, and Mexico City. He has served as minister to Nicaragua, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Jugo-Slavia, and Costa Rica.

Succeeded by Scotten.

Robert M. Scotten of Michigan, at present minister to the Dominican Republic, was nominated to the Costa Rican post to be vacated by Lane. Replacing Scotten will be Avra M. Warren of Maryland, now chief of the visa division in the department of state.

As a replacement for Boal in Nicaragua, the President designated James B. Stewart of New Mexico, now consul general at Zurich, Switzerland.

DOCTOR DOUBTS 'TRENCH MOUTH' IS CONTAGIOUS

Doubt that the dental infection known as "trench mouth" is contagious was expressed yesterday by Dr. Theodor Rosebury of New York, speaking in the Palmer House before the 78th annual midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society. He suggested that experiments to determine its possible contagion be started whenever the infection breaks out in an army camp.

"It has not been demonstrated that the infection is a communicable disease," said Dr. Rosebury, who is a bacteriologist at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons. "The evidence of man-to-man transmission which has been reviewed is entirely circumstantial.

"Since the disease has been prevalent among soldiers, and is likely to become so again, it is important that the question be answered to justify the use or lack of use of isolation and other sanitary precautions in handling outbreaks."

DREAM HOUSE? EX-WIFE FINDS IT A NIGHTMARE

The trouble with her dream house, Mrs. Margaret Andres, 41 years old, said yesterday, is that it's no dream.

It isn't painted.

The attic's not finished.

The doors are loose.

And footprints of her former husband, William, are all over the inside walls.

Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker told Judge Rudolph F. Desort of Superior court they opposed granting a requested reduction in the $20 weekly support payments made by Andres to their client until he patched up the dream.

Andres, a carpenter, was in arrears $2,400 a year ago, the Beckers said, and Mrs. Andres offered to reduce the amount by $1,000 if he built her a house at 8771 South 78th court, Oak Lawn. She furnished both lot and material. Andres built the home, she said, but hardly in professional fashion. She said she sees his footprints everywhere she looks because before putting up the inside plasterboard walls he walked all over them.

Judge Desort ordered a further hearing next Thursday.

30 HIGHWAY AIDS HIT IN HATCH ACT TRIAL; 11 CLEARED

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26 (AP).—A federal civil service trial examiner was asked tonight by attorneys of the United States Civil Service commission to report to that group an opinion that 30 officials and employés of the Illinois highway division were guilty of violating the Hatch anti-politics act during the 1940 election campaign.

The examiner, James V. Irwin, began preparation of his preliminary report on the 10 day hearing after Chief Commission Attorney Lawrence V. Meloy asked that charges be dropped against 11 of the original 41 defendants.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

THE FARM SURPLUSES.

The senate, by a vote of 50 to 23, has approved a bill which would forbid the government to sell any of its accumulations of farm products at less than the parity price. Mr. Roosevelt had expressed disapproval of the measure. In a letter to Vice President Wallace, read in the senate, the President had explained that the bill, if enacted, would raise the price and reduce the supply of meat and other animal products and would thereby invite an inflationary rise in wages and all other prices.

It is curious that Mr. Roosevelt did not include in his letter the most persuasive of all reasons for disposing of the surpluses now. Prices are pretty high today and there is reason to believe that the accumulated crops of previous seasons can be sold and consumed in the months to come without causing the markets to break disastrously. The war has presented to the farmers of the country an opportunity to clear the elevators and warehouses of the grains and cotton which have been overhanging the markets all these years. If the accumulations remain in stock when the war is over and there is likely to be a post-war depression, the effect on farm prices might well be disastrous.

It is true, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace are themselves largely responsible for the situation in which they now find themselves. They put forward a dangerously unsound agricultural policy for the purpose of buying the farm vote for the New Deal. Now the political machine they created and the vested interest they fostered have turned against them. What has happened was predictable and predicted. Give any section of the community a blank check on the treasury and it is altogether certain that the figure which is written in will be larger than had been expected. Assure any economic interest in the country for a decade that it is the peculiar object of the government's favor and the time will come when that interest will come to believe that its welfare is more important than the welfare of any other group or of all other groups together.

The farmers and their representatives cannot be blamed too severely for over-reaching. They were told all along that they could do so in good conscience.

LOS ANGELES FUROR.

All that is certain concerning Los Angeles' big air raid alarm is that it has the cabinet's two retreaded Republicans pounding their canes on the floor and issuing contradictory statements.

Secretary Knox's comment that it was "just a false alarm" produced indignant statements from Los Angeles civilian defense heads, who asserted that he was destroying the morale of their air wardens. The statement aroused general anger in the city which lost hundreds of thousands of man hours in the airplane plants, suffered six blackout deaths, and had one of the worst traffic jams in its history.

Secretary Stimson countered with a circumstantial statement that perhaps as many as 15 unidentified planes were over Los Angeles, flying at various speeds below 200 miles an hour, and that anti-aircraft guns had fired 1,430 rounds without hitting anything. They were not American army or navy planes, the secretary said. He hazarded that they may have been commercial planes flown by enemy agents to test anti-aircraft defenses. If so, the test seems to indicate a need for more target practice.

If there is anything funny about the cabinet contretemps, Los Angeles fails to see it, and neither do the people elsewhere in the country. Aside from any military ineptitude that may have been displayed, the incident betrayed in Washington a lack of coördination and a continuing, irresponsible tendency to sound off without thinking that does not contribute to the nation's peace of mind.

TINSEL AND VERMOUTH.

The Washington season is the merriest in years. The war department has ordered officers to appear in uniform if they attend a social gathering of more than three persons. The navy reported a large turnout at cocktail parties to toast the launching of the battleship Alabama.

This tinsel and vermouth must be maddening to the hundreds of young men who voluntarily donned their country's uniform and found themselves assigned, thru no request of theirs, to duty in Washington. They realize well enough that the only post of honor is in the battle line or training field. In a sober, hard working capital they might solace themselves by the thought that some one must do the paper work and duty is still duty, even tho inglorious.

But even this satisfaction is denied them by the skulkers and cravens who by flaunting the uniform of the army and navy in Washington drawing rooms and New York night clubs bring discredit on patriots and draft dodgers alike. These cowardly butterflies are engendering a bitter national anger that will not be stilled until they are stripped of their finery or shipped off to face the dangers that the men who deserve to wear the uniform seek by preference.

THE FORGOTTEN LAW.

Attorney General Biddle has written a letter saying that he won't prosecute railroads for violating the anti-trust laws in carrying out the orders of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Several things can be said about this extraordinary letter. The first is that until a few years ago no one would have expected the government to prosecute citizens for carrying out the government's orders. It remained for the New Deal to play that particular kind of dirty trick when it indicted the oil companies for practices introduced at governmental request.

The second thing to be said is that the letter indicates pretty clearly that Mr. Biddle regards it as his privilege to approve violations of law when he feels like doing so. Congress could have and would have amended the law to take account of the war situation but these days nobody bothers about such details. Ours is no longer a government of laws. We are governed according to the whim of administrators.

BATAAN PASSES THE HAT FOR A BOMBER.

Mr. Roosevelt in a talk with the White House reporters answered a question which was so sardonic that it might have startled the nation. It should have. MacArthur's men on the Bataan peninsula, orphans of the American foreign policy, are reported to be taking up a collection to buy a bomber. An American community, isolated in the Philippines, is trying to do its bit to win the war.

These men are laughing as they die and they use the American sense of humor to emphasize the ridiculous. Mr. Roosevelt was reminded by his questioners that stories from the Philippines must pass the censor and, therefore, was it not to be inferred that the commanding officers agreed with their men in this grim joke? Mr. Roosevelt replied that if he knew how to get a bomber to Gen. MacArthur the general could have one.

Men of the American-Philippine forces on the peninsula expect no bombers and no fighters. They certainly can expect to get no reënforcements. What they'll get from Washington will be congratulations and praise for what they have done.

Mr. Roosevelt has also said that even if the war materiel and naval vessels in Pearl Harbor had not been plastered down like a lot of canceled postage stamps there would have been no change in the far western naval situation. That is, no assistance could be extended the Philippine defenders and they were to be left on their own in the war which the Washington authorities had perceived as impending and for which they had not prepared.

When the American secretary of state issued his ultimatum to Japan MacArthur's men were already in another Alamo. They couldn't be rescued and they couldn't be reënforced. The planes they had were nearly all destroyed immediately. Now Mr. Hull is down with what is politely called the asthma. But while MacArthur's troops entertain themselves with the comedy of a community effort to buy a bomber—needing at least 500 bombers and 2,000 fighters, with which they might save the Philippines and conquer Japan—we read that American bombers and fighters are doing a great job for Queen Wilhelmina's East Indies and for King George's Burma. Both of these fights are being lost. The Dutch have done pretty well because they, like MacArthur, had planned the best use of the defenses they had at their disposal. We know nothing to contradict the British parliamentary criticism that the defeat in the battle for Malaya and Singapore was the result of long standing colonial corruption and incompetence. We know the stuff of which the people of England are made. They could take the punishment which the Singapore troops refused.

Mr. Roosevelt does not tell us where our bombers and fighters are going. They pop up when they are heard of in the territory of his royal friends. We hear of American bombers and interceptors fighting against great odds in Java and of American volunteer fighters doing extraordinary work in the defense of Burma. Our troops and ships have gone to the territories of King George of England and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. The influence of the refugee kinglets is plainly disclosed. But Gen. MacArthur can get nothing.

An unprepared nation took on a war in two oceans and is forced to abandon its outposts. It has dispersed its forces in various other parts of the world, and is being attacked on both its seaboards. Gen MacArthur is supposed to be fighting a delaying action. That's what Mr. Roosevelt calls it. Delaying what? Delaying the dispatch of Japanese troops to the East Indies or to the Asiatic mainland, delaying a further and more powerful concentration against the possessions of other peoples, or merely delaying his own destruction?

He is not apparently fighting a delaying action to permit American reënforcements to reach him, because our war government says that there isn't any way of getting any relief to him. The spokesmen of our war government say there never was any chance of getting relief to him if war broke out. His careful preparations for what he would have to do, brilliantly executed in extremity, have enabled his American and Filipino troops to put up a magnificent fight.

If American congressmen were as frank and uncompromising in their criticism of the American conduct of the war as British parliamentary critics are of the British performance, the burden of responsibility would be lifted out of the fog of censorship to the great betterment of the American prosecution of the war.

The American people thruout their history have known what it is to start a war disadvantageously, to correct their mistakes, and end with victories. They didn't do this by concealing facts or suppressing criticism. They didn't do this by crying treason at fellow countrymen who were determined that the war should be fought with everything the nation possesses and in the manner best calculated to get the quickest results.

Editorial of the Day

AS TO GUAM.

[Indianapolis News.]

The administration spokesmen who believe that it was the duty of the American people to hold a national referendum on what time to blow reveille in Hawaii are now blaming the people for not establishing a navy base at Guam for presentation to Japan. They blame congress for not siding with the navy department faction that wanted to expose an American force on this handful of land which is farther west of Hawaii than Hawaii is west of San Diego.

Guam's value was fixed during the war with Spain. An American cruiser fired on its fort. The Spanish commander put out in a boat and apologized to the cruiser commander for not having enough power to return the salute. Upon being told that war was on and there were shells in the booms, he apologized again for the failure of his government to keep him up to date on the trend of history and gladly handed the defense of the island over to the accommodating Americans.

Japan always protested that the use of Guam, which is near some Japanese islands, as a naval base would be regarded by the Japanese people as a threat against Japan. The advocates of its fortification never had anything else in mind. They wanted a display nearer the Japanese mainland than Hawaii to show the strength of the United States. They never thought that it might show the weakness of the United States. They never even thought that about Pearl Harbor.

NATURE'S LOST MASTERPIECE.

The historical jumble in the South Pacific reminds us that in our grade school geography book New Guinea was alleged to possess the highest mountain in the world. A contributor has asked us to give this matter some attention; he recalled that this prodigious peak was Mount Hercules. . . . Yes, indeed, that name used to fascinate us, and we daydreamed about a cloud-piercing colossus which towered over an unmapped wilderness, making Mount Everest seem like a runt. The textbooks credited Mount Hercules with 30,000 feet or more above sea level.

• • •

But good old Hercules isn't there any more. Modern reference works, including the faithful Britannica, give New Guinea several mountains in the 15,000 feet class, but do not mark Hercules on their maps. They speak of Mount Carstens, 16,400 feet; Mount Wilhelmina, 15,312, and Mount Idenburg, 15,150. That is high and handsome alpine stuff, perpetually snow-capped, in any man's country, but when compared to the ancient Hercules it is disappointing.

• • •

We crave for information about our lost prodigy. Who put Hercules on the maps and made such astonishing claims for it? Who took it off and buried it darkly by dead of night without informing the press of this sensational erasure? We hope that some historical geographer will emerge from his chartroom and tell us this story.

• • •

We will hazard a guess about it. Mount Hercules was in former German New Guinea, now under Australian mandate. Its reputation for world supremacy in the school books of 1890 was merely German propaganda. . . . It is a pity, however, that such a masterpiece of Nature should be completely lost.

TO THE PARKING LOT.

Some knew you when both oats and corn
Upon your countenance were born,
When timothy bedecked your face;
Ah, then you proudly held your place
Among those who stood at the helm
As food producers of the realm.

Some knew you when upon your breast
You held huge structures as a test
Of your endurance. Little men
Swarmed in and out the stone-made pen
(As rabbits swarm within a hutch),
Producing little, talking much.

And later on (the buildings razed),
We look upon you bare yet glazed
With surface adamant and cold,
Which little romance doth unfold;
Your fate now, as days roll along,
Is to be trampled by the throng.

Who knows but what in coming days
The kine upon your brow may graze,
Or once more you'll hold golden grain,
Or gardens, welcoming the rain?
In all events you'll likely not Continue as a parking lot.

A Replacement for Father Dearborn?

Fort Dearborn day, the 139th anniversary of the issuance of orders to Capt. John Whistler for the establishment of a military post at the mouth of the Chicago river, is approaching [March 9]. H. A. Musham, chairman of the Fort Dearborn Memorial commission, thinks that something should be done to perpetuate the memory of Capt. Whistler, and writes:

"Chicago is often represented by cartoonists as a fuzzy-looking character called Father Dearborn, who is entirely out of keeping with the city. I would like to suggest that Capt. Whistler should be substituted as a symbolic figure. He could be referred to as Capt. John.

"Capt. Whistler built the fort which became a haven of security in the wilderness for the pioneers who soon settled around it. Thus he determined the site of the city. He was a good soldier and a capable officer, and Chicago can be proud of him as its First Citizen. His son, Merriwether Lewis Whistler, was the first white child born in Chicago [1805]."

[Born Feb. 27, 1807.]

Haven-high among our bards his name belongs,
Untouched of time and scathed of no man's scorn,
Whose words were gentlest, sweetest, of the songs
That in New England's golden prime were born.
Behind the clouds the sun's still shining seemed
The happy emphasis of all he wrote:
Ballad and legend alike that challenge themed;
Lyric and sonnet carried that linnet's note.
Miles Standish, Hiawatha, Evangeline,
"The Building of the Ship," "The Children's Hour":
How desperately, in times like these, we lean
On such unspent reserves of inner power,
And from remembering hearts raptly salute
Their fame unflown, their music never mute!

Tournament of Names: The Winner!

Probably he called her "Allie" for short.

A BOILER FACTORY IN THE HEAD.

PERSISTENT head noises are bothersome. Each patient has his favorite description of the nuisance—"the ringing of bells," "the hissing of steam," "the buzzing of bees," "the shrill chirping of crickets," etc.

Many of us have observed the disorder following a cold or after taking a medicine—for example, quinine. Such episodes pass, as a rule, coincident with the disappearance of inflammation or with the discontinuance of the drug.

But, now and then, the symptom will persist. In many instances, hearing is impaired. Ofttimes the disturbance is so great that the individual can scarcely think. Nervousness is increased and minor manifestations, chiefly about the head, may be exaggerated.

A few years ago Furstenberg suggested that edema [swelling within the inner ear] was responsible in some cases. He placed his patients on a diet free from salt in an effort to withdraw the excess fluid. Numerous sufferers responded very well. The plan continues to benefit many victims. On the other hand, others will not be assisted in the slightest degree. Can anything be done for the members of this latter group? Yes! and in spectacular fashion.

A recent proposal is that of Davis and Rommel, who found that many of these patients would be helped by the drug, prostigmin. When this compound was administered in small doses, either by mouth or by hypodermic, improvement occurred in a high percentage of cases.

Other physicians have confirmed the results. In one series of 20 victims, where increasing deafness was accompanied by roaring sounds, two-thirds of the number were restored practically to normal. In an additional 21 per cent, the noises became less noticeable. It should be understood, however, that there was little if any effect upon the ability to hear.

What is this chemical? It is closely allied to physostigmin, a drug which is widely used by eye specialists. It is supposed to aid the carrying of messages by nerve fibers and is our chief reliance in myasthenia gravis—a condition wherein the connection between the nerve and the muscle is apparently broken. It is also employed in the treatment of acute and chronic glaucoma [hardening of the eyeball].

It seems to exert an influence on the circulation within the auditory apparatus. At any rate, many of those who have been afflicted with tinnitus for months or years have experienced considerable relief.

While no one can say exactly why this remedy is useful, the fact that it is of value in muscle weakness leads to the conclusion that it may revive dormant nerve sensibilities and, at the same time, bring more blood to the parts. It goes without saying that no one should take the preparation without competent medical counsel and supervision.

TIME OUT OF MIND.

M. C. writes: I am somewhat disturbed mentally. It is hard to explain but my mind is haunted by "time." How can I overcome this annoyance?

REPLY.

In your case, as Shakespeare put it, "time is out of joint." You can also follow the instructions of the Bard of Avon and put "time out o' mind."

The very thought of the passing of moments—a part of infinity—is overwhelming. Rather than allow your mind to speculate, attempt to take advantage of "each shining hour." Keeping busy is the answer.

A MALE CHARACTERISTIC.

A. J. writes: My young brother, who is very tall, thin, and nervous, is always expectorating. This annoys the rest of the family and we tell him he can train himself out of it. Are we right?

REPLY.

It may be merely a bad habit. On the other hand, some trouble within the sinuses, the bronchi or the lungs may be present. A checkup is advised, with the aid of an X-ray film.

BABSON ON TIRES.

Goshen, Ind., Feb. 23.—Every citizen should read the report on the crude rubber and tire supply by Roger Babson, setting out his findings on above subject. Mr. Babson is not alone in his conclusions. Other men well up in the rubber industry of our country report similar findings and hold with him that the rationing now in force is far too severe, based on facts available, and is unreasonable and unwise. Certainly the rules now in force will result in dishonesty, favoritism, great loss of revenue to state and federal governments, a slow down in defense industry and undue hardship to civilians. Mr. Babson is right when he assumes that the great majority of American citizens are ready and willing to coöperate by cutting all unnecessary and pleasure driving, and the conservation of our crude rubber supply, but he should have added that they are reticent and slow to accept blindly this absolute denial of tires enough to carry on their business and in many cases a denial to gain a livelihood. The rationing authorities and the above reports sharply conflict and both cannot be right. What is the truth? Is it not time to find out? Congress is our elected representatives and our only protection against fictitious shortages, unwise and unnecessary rationing.

STRIKES.

White Pigeon, Mich., Feb. 24.—Mr. Roosevelt in his fireside talk Tuesday night appealed to the unions to keep at work. Small wonder that these strikes are constantly being declared to plague him. His labor policy, and nothing else, has laid the groundwork for what is happening now. The unpatriotic union chiefs who don't care a whoop when or how the war ends, or whether it ends, have got the bit in their teeth and pay no attention to his pleas. Why should they when the President's policy has put them in control? Some future President will have the job of righting this frightful misuse of power and it will be a tough one. Mr. Roosevelt and his labor board are sowing a crop of troubles that future generations will have to reap, and chief among the sufferers will be the labor unions themselves.

WHAT THE JAPANESE WERE SAYING 20 YEARS AGO.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—I have just come across an article in an old scrapbook printed by THE TRIBUNE, April 9, 1921:

"Pekin, April 9.—Propaganda regarding a probable American-Japanese war is being spread in north China by the Tsman Jih Jao, a powerful Japanese organ printed in Chinese at Tsinan-fu, the capital of Shantung. The writer of a series of articles on the subject quotes Bernhardi as saying the war would end in a draw, but adds that 'the Philippines and other American possessions in the Pacific could be occupied by the Japanese army, but this would probably not be wise as great sacrifices would be necessary.'

"The writer says the war would very likely last 10 years and he recommends economy and conservation in the use of Japan's resources, power, and energy in preparation for a bitter conflict.

"'We should do our utmost to preserve peace in China and Siberia so that we can fulfill our mission in this world and establish the foundations of an everlasting empire,' he said. 'The people should be united in working for the development of war industries and daily necessities so that in case of an emergency there would be no shortage. Should these conditions be fulfilled we would have nothing to fear from a war with America, which must be limited to the waters of the Pacific.'"

DOUBLE TIME.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—After reading the article in today's issue entitled "250 War Plants Idle as Workers Ask Double Time," my blood pressure was up 100 points. What would these same fellows say if MacArthur and his men would refuse to fight more than eight hours unless they received time and one-half or double time.

And while the defense workers were idle, the Japs were shelling their own state of California. If their homes and the plants in which they work are shelled they really will have something to worry about, and it won't be longer hours.

AIR CORPS EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Why does the army air corps persist in calling high school graduates to enlist, and then hand the applicants an examination which only about one out of 10 or 15 will ever pass?

All over the nation they keep crying they need pilots, navigators, and bombardiers. Yet I have noticed that only the college students still seem to be leaving for training. What about the statement an illustrious spokesman in Washington made: "The war will not be won with Phi Beta Kappa boys"?

I was supposed to leave on Jan. 27 for training and had quit my job. Then the "screening exam" came up. I am still here. The last 75 questions of the exam were too complicated for me to pass. They were on gun and airplane mechanisms. I took a general high school course. I graduated in 1939 with an average of 91.78 and a ranking of 7th in a class of 205. I am not brainless, yet I was asked questions I never encountered in my whole life.

2. "Even if the attack had not been made [on Pearl Harbor], your map will show that it would have been a hopeless operation for us to send the fleet to the Philippines thru thousands of miles of ocean, while all those island bases were under the sole control of the Japanese."

MINOR'S ASSETS.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I became 18 years of age in October, 1941. For eight years my aunt has been legally appointed my guardian. When my parents died I was left a small estate.

1. Since I am no longer a minor, what court procedures, if any, must I go thru to become sole controler of my estate?

2. Does my aunt retain any control over it even now that I am of age?

3. Am I free to draw any of this money out of the bank when I feel I need it, without going thru any court procedure?

1. The guardian should secure court approval of a final account.

2. If she has the assets in her possession, presumably they are in her control. It is not clear what question you intend to ask.

3. It seems probable that the bank would insist on the closing of the estate before they would permit you to withdraw the money. The bank is the best source of information as to what they are willing to do.

HOUSE SHOCKED BY UNPRINTABLE ICKES' LETTER

Missive Assails Publisher for Editorial.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—The house of representatives listened in shocked silence today to the reading of a letter written by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes assailing an editorial printed last July in a small New England newspaper. The language, said many members, set some sort of a new record, even for Ickes, noted for his unrestrained expressions.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman.

Signed by the secretary in his capacity as a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet, the missive was addressed to Robert M. Sperry, publisher of the Bridgeport [Conn.] Life. Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], who read it into the record, termed it an example of the manner in which Ickes has created disrespect for high official position.

The Ickes Letter.

The letter follows:

"Washington, D. C.
"February 2, 1942.

"Mr. Robert M. Sperry,
"Publisher, Bridgeport Life,
"Bridgeport, Connecticut.
"Dear sir:

"A man whom I do not know has sent to me a tear sheet from your issue of Saturday, July 26, 1941. My correspondent speaks of your 'filthy mind and paper,' and he also seems to think that you are a coward. Undoubtedly he is right on all scores. The impression seems to be that the filth in this editorial surged up from the cesspool that passes with you for a mind. However, it doesn't much matter whether you actually wrote the thing or not; as publisher you are responsible.

"I don't know you and I had never heard of you until this letter came. Now, altho I still have never met you, I feel that I know you very well as a cowardly, skulking cur."

Then the letter in unprintable language said that Ickes, in his mind's eye, could see Sperry eating filth and rooting for morsels of food in a pig sty.

The letter closed with:

"It is undoubtedly perfectly natural for you to think the putrid thoughts which you naturally express in the language of the gutter.

"Very truly yours,
"HAROLD L. ICKES,
"Secretary of the Interior."

Fumigation Suggested.

Hoffman said he regretted having to add such material to the enduring records of congress but said he believed the matter worthy of the attention of the house. He added he did not know what the original editorial contained but on the basis of Ickes' reply he urged steps to "disinfect, fumigate, and, if possible, render innocuous" the secretary's utterances.

The editorial titled "Lindbergh vs. Ickes," stated that the name of Charles A. Lindbergh would live longer in the minds of the American people than would Ickes'. It said Lindbergh rose to fame thru courage and ability while Ickes owed his prominence to political appointment. It also said that after Ickes departed from the Roosevelt cabinet it probably would require something more than having a baby to land him on page 1 again.

Sperry said he has had so many requests for copies of the editorial that he is having it printed in pamphlet form.

Ickes' letter was published in the Feb. 14 issue of the Bridgeport Life, Hoffman told his colleagues, together with a reply from Publisher Sperry.

Editor's Reply to Ickes.

The Life's reply to Ickes follows:

"Editor's note—Had this letter been written by an inebriated derelict from the slums the language used would have caused it to be relegated to the waste basket, but written as it was by a supereducated member of the President's cabinet, we pass it along to show the revengeful temper of its author. . . .

"His [Ickes'] opinion of editors and the press has been well established. The freedom of the press has long been one of his pet peeves. Mr. Ickes has proved in his letter that should President Roosevelt ever drop him as he did Jim Farley he can get a job as columnist on a tabloid or run Walter Winchell a close second on the radio. His vocabulary in the lower brackets assures him this. . . .

Ickes "Going Places" as Writer.

"With what little freedom there is left to the press, Mr. Ickes, permit us to maintain that we have a right to think that, if we hurl a stone at a gang of dogs, the one doing the yelping is the one we think we hit. So, keep on writing, you are going places. The place we will leave to your own selection.

"It has just been announced that from now on all speeches to be delivered by members of the cabinet must first be given the once over by Mr. Archibald MacLeish, head of the new Office of Facts and Figures. It might not be a bad idea to include the editing of letters before they are mailed."

THE QUESTION.

What in your estimation is a sure sign of spring?

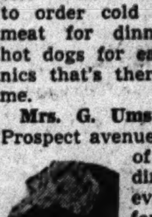
WHERE ASKED.

Van Buren and Dearborn streets.

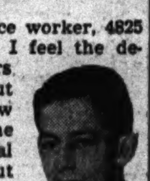
THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. C. M. Westfal, housewife, 4246 Westminster street, St. Louis, Mo.—Long before the birds start singing and the buds start blooming I can tell that spring is on its way just by noticing the people who are trying to rush the season with their new spring clothes. Then I know that spring will be here in another month.

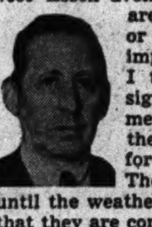
Morton Michelson, meat cutter, 2915 West 64th street—Many of my meat customers get spring fever early in the year and don't feel quite like the ambitious cooks they were in the winter. When they start to order cold cuts of meat for dinner and hot dogs for early picnics that's thermometer enough for me.



Mrs. G. Umstot, housewife, 10308 Prospect avenue—There's a huge bed of jonquils below my dining room window and every spring I watch for the first green sprout. The jonquils brave the cool spring weather earlier than any other of my flowers. Once in a while they get here before the spring is here to stay but that's a sure sign it'll be here.



Jack W. Nelson, office worker, 4825 Gladys avenue—When I feel the desire to stay outdoors and do nothing but breathe deeply I know that spring is in the air. It's not the real spring fever I get, but I definitely feel that work is rather unimportant at this season of the year.



Harry Troubb, manager cigar store, 7660 Essex avenue—Whether women are dressed for summer or winter makes little impression on me, but I take it as a serious sign of spring when men start to discard their winter overcoats for lighter spring ones. The men don't do this until the weather is warm enough so that they are comfortable that way.

Genevieve Lama, assistant research statistician, 3525 West Medill avenue—If I never was able to get out where the green things grow I'd know spring was on its way by doing a little window shopping. When the windows are full of new straw hats in the latest spring pastel shades I know it won't be long now.

THEATER KILLER INDICTED; FACES AN EARLY TRIAL

Slaying of Girl 'Horrible Mistake,' He Says.

First steps in a move to bring Clarence McDonald to justice for slaying Dorothy Broz, his 17 year old high school sweetheart, were taken yesterday by Cook county's prosecuting authorities.

After a 90 minute hearing late in the afternoon, the grand jury voted a true bill charging him with murder. Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne of the Criminal courts announced immediately afterward that the indictment would be returned before him at noon today. McDonald probably will be arraigned for his first court hearing on Monday and State's Attorney Courtney's assistants promised an early trial.

Shows Signs of Remorse.

McDonald remained in a cell in the county jail all day yesterday. For the first time since his capture early Wednesday morning he showed definite signs of remorse for the shooting which occurred Tuesday afternoon in a balcony of the Palace theater, 159 West Randolph street. Dorothy was an "All-American" student at Morton High school, Cicero.

"If I had my life to live over again," McDonald said, "this never would have happened. I made a horrible mistake."

He also told interviewers he hoped he "would get the electric chair."

There was evidence yesterday that the boy's defense may be based upon a plea of insanity.

Statements that McDonald was mentally unbalanced were made by Attorney Donald D. Rogers, who said he would take steps to keep the slayer from being tried. Rogers said he would show the boy was insane thru examination of him by disinterested psychiatrists.

Seven Witnesses Testify.

Only seven witnesses were called before the grand jury. They were Sergt. Francis Donohue of the coroner's investigating staff; Capt. Thomas Duffy, and Lieut. J. W. McCarthy of the police department; Emil Broz, an uncle of the slain girl; and three witnesses from the theater, John Beres, 1203 Lill avenue, and James Consadine, 4047 West End avenue, ushers, and Thomas Bresnahan, 6408 South Seeley avenue, a patron.

GRANDMOTHER, 38, IS RAPED AS TWO CHILDREN SLEEP

While her two infant grandchildren slept in the room, a widowed grandmother of 38 years was raped early today in her flat at 5427 Lake Park avenue by a giant Negro. The woman was waiting for her two daughters, mothers of the two babies, to arrive home, and had left her door unlocked.

The Negro, who, she said, was 6 feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds, burst thru the door and threatened her with a knife. After he had raped her he bound her with lamp cords and fled.

The victim managed to free herself and was taken to Chicago hospital. The babies were both girls, one 2 years old and one of 7 months.

2 UNION AGENTS SURRENDER IN SLUGGING CASE

Walter O'Brien and Michael Healy, business agents of local 710 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], surrendered yesterday at the detective bureau in response to warrants charging them with the goon slugging of Oakley Lester, 38 years old, an Elgin meat distributor.

Lester was beaten Monday while taking a load of meat from a wholesale house at 224 North Peoria street. The day was decreed a holiday [after Washington's birthday on Sunday] by the union. Lester worked, nevertheless, because the government had urged work as usual, he said.

O'Brien and Healy were accompanied by their lawyer, Charles A. Bellows, when they surrendered. They posted bond of $3,000 each, and refused to make a statement. They will be arraigned in Felony court today, but Sergt. George Barnes of the police labor detail said he will ask a continuance.

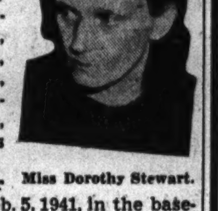
WOMAN ADMITS PART IN SLAYING OF LANDLADY, 76

Dorothy Stewart, 27 years old, confessed yesterday that she participated in the murder of Miss Elizabeth Connor, 76, in the latter's rooming house at 32 Bellevue place a year ago. Miss Stewart's sweetheart, John T. Ballard, 36, an ex-convict, previously confessed the crime, naming her as his accomplice.



Miss Dorothy Stewart.

Miss Connor was strangled Feb. 5, 1941, in the basement of her home. Ballard, a janitor she discharged a few days earlier, was suspected immediately. He was arrested in Detroit, Mich., two weeks ago with Miss Stewart, and both were returned to Chicago Wednesday.

Questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Francis T. McCurrie, Ballard reaffirmed previous confessions, but Miss Stewart insisted she was innocent. Suddenly she broke down. She said she helped Ballard tie Miss Connor, but had no other part in the crime. She said they did not intend to kill the landlady.

NEPHEW OF LATE NEGRO PUBLISHER CLAIMS WEEKLY

Owns All but 3 of 2,500 Stock Shares, He Says.

Sole ownership of 2,497 of the existing 2,500 shares of stock in the Robert S. Abbott Publishing company, publishers of the Chicago Defender, Negro weekly paper, was claimed yesterday by John H. Sengstacke, a nephew of Robert S. Abbott, who died Feb. 29, 1940.

Sengstacke, in a petition filed with Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court, by Attorneys David J. A. Hayes and Nat M. Kahn, asked permission to correct an inventory of Abbott's estate showing Abbott as owner of the stock in question. Sengstacke, Attorney James B. Cashin, and Mrs. Edna R. Abbott, the widow, are executors of the estate.

Widow's Protest Pending.

Mrs. Abbott has pending a petition in the same court asking that Cashin and Sengstacke show cause why their authority as executors should not be revoked.

Sengstacke's petition sets forth that Abbott regarded him as a son, paid for his education, and in September, 1934, placed him in charge of the publishing company. In January, 1935, the petition continues, Abbott transferred the 2,497 shares of stock, par value $100, to Sengstacke.

The stock remained in Sengstacke's possession until December, 1937, the petition continues, when Abbott asked for its temporary return for use as collateral in connection with a loan to meet some personal obligations. Abbott died, the petition says, before the stock was returned.

Explains Inventory Signing.

According to the petition, Sengstacke, as an executor, signed the inventory stating that Abbott had owned the stock only after assurances from Attorney Cashin and John B. Dickerson, an attorney hired to represent both Sengstacke and Mrs. Abbott, that if he failed to sign it he could be held in contempt of the Probate court but that if he signed he would in no way jeopardize his claim to the stock.

According to Abbott's will, dated subsequent to the claimed stock transfer, ownership of the paper is vested in the three trustees until 1956, after which time the estate is to be divided among the widow, Sengstacke, and two sisters of Abbott, with Mrs. Abbott getting one-third.

Judge John F. O'Connell set March 30 for a hearing on both Sengstacke's and Mrs. Abbott's petitions.

The petition, filed by Attorney Anna Svatik, states that Dr. Liebig, born in Germany of American parents, has applied for a commission in the naval medical reserve corps, but that he cannot get his license to practice medicine because of a department of registration and education ruling a year ago refusing to recognize medical colleges outside the United States and Canada.

SHERIFF CAPTOR OF JACK RUSSELL IS KILLED IN DUEL

Political Opponent Also Dies in Shooting.

Ozark, Ark., Feb. 26 [Special].—Sheriff Champ Crawford and Jim Wilson, his opponent for office in 1940, killed each other today in a gun duel that flared suddenly when they met in a barber shop here.

Sheriff Crawford.

The sheriff was widely known for his daring and resourceful capture of Jack Russell, a desperado sentenced in Chicago in September, 1940, to 199 years imprisonment for a kidnap-murder.

Crawford was being shaved in the barber shop of Mollard Jacobs when Wilson walked in, according to the account given by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Mark E. Woolsey.

Yells "Let's Talk It Over."

"Wait a minute, Jacobs," Wilson announced, "I'll finish this man."

"You're all wrong about this, Jimmy," shouted the sheriff, rising from the chair. "Let's talk it over."

But Wilson had passed the talking stage in their disagreement. Both drew guns and began shooting.

Sheriff Crawford got on the trail of Russell after the outlaw escaped in July, 1939, from an Oklahoma state penitentiary guard and committed a series of kidnapings, robberies, car thefts and finally a murder.

Killed Man in Illinois.

His slaying victim was Billy Scott Hamilton, 23 years old, whom he kidnaped near Pittsburg, Kas., and held prisoner for two days. He slew him near Ringwood, Ill.

Russell was hiding out in a fishing camp near Cass, Ark., when Sheriff Crawford learned of his whereabouts. The sheriff, dressed in overalls and carrying fishing tackle, went to the camp and pretended to be fishing.

The sheriff called to the man in the cabin that the gasoline tank of his car was leaking. When the desperado appeared the sheriff jammed a .45 pistol against his ribs and the manhunt was over.

5,000 WPA MEN TO BE AVAILABLE FOR FARM LABOR

Five thousand WPA workers who have had farm labor experience will be available to serve as farm hands this spring in Illinois, it was announced yesterday by Charles P. Casey, state WPA administrator.

The switchover from project work to private farm employment is expected to aid in preventing a shortage in farm labor due to the war. The WPA workers are to be paid the prevailing wages in each county. The wages, according to farm leaders, vary from about $40 to $45 monthly in addition to housing and food.

No WPA employé will be permitted to remain on the WPA rolls if he refuses employment at the prevailing wage scale and under reasonable working conditions, Casey declared.

The WPA plan for assignment of farm workers calls for persons who have had farm experience, but when this supply is exhausted other workers qualified by related experience then will be called to do farm work.

SIX FINED AFTER NEW TRIAL IN VOTE FRAUDS

Six election officials pleaded guilty to fraud charges growing out of the April, 1938, primary election before Acting County Judge Russell W. Keeney and were fined yesterday. All had been given new trials after appeals to the Appellate court from sentences handed down by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. The high court ruled that Judge Jarecki, himself a candidate in the primary in question, could not properly try the cases and that the sentences were too severe.

The six and their fines are: Paul Lidovsky, 1459 South Hamlin avenue, and Eugene Steiner, 1505 South Ridgeway avenue, $100 each, and Mrs. Rose Fishman, 1518 South Lawndale avenue, $25, all of the 33d precinct of the 24th ward, and Oscar Tucker, 3626 Grenshaw street, Nicholas De Fabio, 3638 Grenshaw street, and Hyman Feigenberg, 1135 Independence boulevard, $100 each, all of the 5th precinct of the 24th ward.

The six served as Democratic and Republican judges or clerks, and all but Mrs. Fishman had been sentenced to jail by Judge Jarecki.

RADIO LINKS U.S. FIGHTING MEN TO FOLKS BACK HOME

W-G-N Listener Posted in Trinidad Writes.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

One of the strongest ties with home among the men in the armed forces serving abroad is radio. A letter came the other day from a former neighbor in Evanston who is now serving as a naval officer in Trinidad. The all wave portable radio he took with him from Chicago is the envy of all his associates, he wrote.

Every evening, he continued, they listen to the news, including local happenings, from W-G-N and other Chicago stations almost three thousand miles distant. These transmissions, he said, come in perfectly on the standard broadcast band. For world news they rely on the Halifax and London short wave stations.

A letter came to Tom Gootee and Vern Mills, engineers at NBC, the other day from two Chicagoland soldiers, one from Harvey and the other from Rockford, stationed in Hawaii, telling about hearing the radio technicians when they appeared on the Milkman's Music hall on WMAQ. The soldiers told of the clear reception of the Chicago program at Bellows field in Hawaii altho they used only a small commercial receiver with a five foot antenna.

From Johnston Island, American outpost 750 miles west of Honolulu, yesterday came an air mail S. O. S. to E. F. McDonald Jr. in Chicago.

"Can't live without a radio here," wrote Private Marshall Humphries. "Send me a short wave set."

Other Chicagoans have had similar letters from soldiers and sailors outside of the United States—from Alaska, from Iceland, and aboard ships on North Atlantic patrol. They tell the same story—how good it is to have a link with home thru radio.

Many of the men abroad also are hearing American network programs rebroadcast for them thru American short wave stations which reach all around the world.

CLARA BARTON'S STORY TOLD ON W-G-N PROGRAM

The story of Clara Barton, "angel of the battlefield" and founder of the American Red Cross, was unfolded last evening during the W-G-N program, "Americans at the Ramparts," with the French star, Annabella, as the narrator and Alice Hill playing the rôle of the famous woman.

Dedicated to the army and navy nurses, a number of whom were present in the audience along with employés of the Charles A. Stevens company, the cast also included Muriel Bremner, Bob Bailey, John Larkin, Mason Moltzner, and Reese Taylor.

Annabella, currently appearing in "Blithe Spirit," is the eleventh famous person to appear on this series which each week are dedicated to branches of the armed forces.

Wins a Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MRS. XENA ZAHORIK.

Judge Rudolph F. Desort in Superior court granted a divorce yesterday to Mrs. Xena Zahorik, 20 years old, 1303 South California avenue, from Robert Zahorik, 20, a riding instructor. Mrs. Zahorik, thru Attorney Herbert J. Theisen, testified that they were married July 31, 1941, and separated Aug. 5 after Zahorik had mistreated her and told her he wanted a divorce.

RELATIVES ASK INDIANA FARM SLAYING PROBE

At the request of Chicago relatives of Samuel Bowsher, found shot to death at his farm home near Freedom, Ind., last Feb. 5, Don Peebles, attorney for the public administrator, and Frank Lyman, Probate court clerk and a friend of Bowsher, appeared before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday to seek further investigation of Bowsher's death. Jack Rubens, investigator for the public administrator, also urged a further probe.

Bowsher, whose death was termed a "probable suicide," was shot in the temple and thru the chest. Judge O'Connell was asked to authorize use of money from the $25,000 in assets found in Bowsher's safety deposit box in a Chicago bank to finance the investigation. If the request is granted a ballistics expert, a pathologist, and other investigators from Coroner A. L. Brodie's office will be sent to Indiana with the consent of officials of that state. Judge O'Connell will hear the petition today, when the widow's attorney will be present.

BAN ON AMATEUR RADIO LICENSES IS LIFTED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Acting at the request of the army and navy departments, the Federal Communications commission resumed today the issuance of amateur radio operator licenses.

Officials said the resumption did not affect its prohibitions against operating amateur stations. The army and navy said the issuance of licenses to qualified persons would aid them in the classification of men for radio duty.

The commission discontinued the issuing of amateur operator licenses at the outbreak of the war, but continued examinations. Approximately 1,500 applicants have completed the examinations and are now qualified to receive licenses.

Before the war 65,000 persons held amateur operator licenses.

THE MAN whose handwriting appears today on every bottle of Old Taylor is generally known as "the father of bottled in bond whiskey."

It was he who led the crusade to have the strictest whiskey standard in the world written into law—a standard which nothing less than 100 proof straight whiskey can meet.

And since the day this came about, no other kind of whiskey has ever been made in the Old Taylor distillery.

Such whiskey is costlier to make. There's no short-cut to age or excellence. These can be obtained only by art and skill and the passage of time, investment in barrels and bonded warehouses.

But we believe the result is worth its cost to us and to you. For it is the finest bottled in bond whiskey which the late Col. E. H. Taylor Jr. knew how to make—or which we can make today.

Try it and you will see how fine that really means.

WIDOW ON STAND ACCUSES RIVAL IN WINDOW KILLING

Tells Court of Assault While on Sidewalk.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 8.)

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Lu Rayne Mattingly put her baby daughter down today and strode firmly to the witness stand as the state's star witness in its effort to send Mrs. Caroline Payne to prison for the murder of the baby's father.

The overflow crowd in the corridor pressed forward for a glimpse. Those at the rear clambered upon chairs.

Calmly the black eyed defendant picked up a fountain pen to take notes on the testimony of her successful rival for the love of Charles O. Mattingly, who was shot to death last July 5.

Mrs. Mattingly was wearing a pink and white dress beneath her blue coat. A petite woman of 33, she appeared small as she drew near Mrs. Payne, who is 44.

Mrs. Mattingly spoke in a voice audible thruout the courtroom when she accused Mrs. Payne of attacking her near the Mattingly home in Indianapolis four months before the Mattingly wedding.

Tells of Street Beating.

Mrs. Mattingly, in response to questions by Prosecuting Attorney Sylvan Tackitt, testified that her larger rival seized her by the neck, beat her with a large purse, and then threw her down and pounded her head upon the sidewalk.

Mrs. Mattingly said she was secretary to Mattingly, $7,500 a year counsel for the Indiana Public Service commission, when he married her on May 5, 1940. This was less than a year after he had ended his 17 year romance with Mrs. Payne, business manager of a Bloomington newspaper.

The afternoon before the shooting, Mrs. Mattingly said, she and Mattingly drove to Bloomington from their Indianapolis home, passing the residence of Mrs. Payne. They went to the home of a friend, Gus Nickas, where they sat in the kitchen at an evening sandwich lunch.

Tells of Fatal Shooting.

The prosecutor directed her to tell about the shooting, done by an unseen person from beneath the kitchen window.

"We heard a report," Mrs. Mattingly said in a level voice. "We thought it was firecrackers." Then her voice broke and she burst into tears, but quickly regained her composure. "Charley slumped," she said. "He cried out: 'She got me.'"

Previous witnesses have testified that Mattingly accused Mrs. Payne as the person who shot him.

When Mrs. Mattingly left the witness stand Tackitt and Robert F. McCrea, his deputy, rested the state's case.

State witnesses have testified that a woman rode to the neighborhood of the shooting in a taxicab from Mrs. Payne's home about the time of the shooting and that this same woman returned by cab to the Payne home. The state also has produced testimony that Mrs. Payne was seen in the vicinity of the shooting. Ballistics experts have identified one of the guns which Mrs. Payne kept as the weapon with which Mattingly was killed.

Mrs. Payne's attorneys, Q. Austin East and J. Frank Regester, will begin her defense tomorrow.

MAYOR INDICTED IN LOS ANGELES FOR MISCONDUCT

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26 (AP).—The county grand jury returned an indictment today accusing Mayor Fletcher Bowron of wilful misconduct in office. The charge if proven, would carry as its only penalty removal from office.

The accusation climaxed weeks of investigating charges of wire tapping in connection with city and county investigations.

Among nine other city and county officials named on similar charges was Chief Deputy District Attorney Grant Cooper.

Named with Cooper were Wallace Jamie, one-time Chicago investigator of the so-called "Secret Six" and former FBI agent, who for two years has conducted special investigations for the mayor's office but who recently resigned; Police Chief C. B. Horrall, Deputy Chief Ross McDonald, Clifford E. Clinton, civic leader and restaurant owner; Police Chemist Ray Pinker, Police Capt. Paul Harrison, and Police Lieut. G. Bruce Gourley.

Friend of the Yanks

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

LOWERED VISION REQUIREMENTS.

Many persons were confused by the nation-wide announcement last week that vision requirements of the army had been lowered to permit the drafting of additional thousands of selective service registrants unable to qualify under the original requirements.

Typical Letter Quoted.

The following letter is typical of many received on the subject:

"I don't see how the army can expect to make fighting men of registrants with such poor vision. Why, if I were to lose my glasses during a battle, an enemy soldier could approach within handshaking distance before I could recognize him as friend or foe."

Last week's announcement stated briefly that, from now on, the army will accept men with minimum vision of 20-200 in each eye without glasses, correctible to 20-40 in each with glasses. This minimum vision is only 20 per cent of normal. The previous army requirement was minimum of 20-100 in each eye uncorrected, correctible to 20-40 with glasses.

For Noncombatant Service.

A point which last week's announcement did not bring out is that registrants with uncorrected vision between 20-100 and 20-200, while they may be drafted, will be taken only for noncombatant service and not as fighting men. This will include duty with such units as the quartermaster corps, medical corps, ordnance corps, and in zones away from the combat areas. Combat soldiers still will be required to have minimum vision of 20-100 in each eye without glasses, correctible to 20-40 in each eye with glasses.

This is made clear in a bulletin from Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, issued this week to state selective service directors.

[Tomorrow: Older Men Under the Draft.]

QUESTIONS.

H. J. S. writes: "I am planning to join the army air corps as an aviation cadet and would like to know how long I must wait between the time I pass my preliminary tests and the time I begin training."

ANSWER: A month is the average time.

L. L. writes: "I am a citizen of the United States and registered for the draft on Feb. 16. Can I join the Royal Canadian Air force?"

ANSWER. No. There now is an agreement between the United States and Canada to the effect that neither country will accept men from the other nation for military service.

C. K. writes: "I recently moved into a new neighborhood and am now in a different draft board district from the one where I originally was registered. Does my old draft board still have jurisdiction over me, or will I be taken over by the new board?"

ANSWER: Notify your old board of your change of address. It will continue to handle all matters pertaining to your registration and classification. You need not notify the board in your new locality.

K. B. T. writes: "During the last war I ran away from home and enlisted in the army under an assumed name. After completing my term of service I was given an honorable discharge. However, when I registered Feb. 16 I used my legal name. Now I wonder if I did right inasmuch as my army discharge papers show another name."

ANSWER: When you are sent a selective service questionnaire to fill out you will find a space in which to put other names by which you have been known. Also in the space relating to former military service I suggest you mention the name under which you formerly served.

Mrs. J. K. writes: "I would like to know to whom I can write to obtain the address of a relative who has been in the navy for some years?"

ANSWER: You might write to the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Include in your letter all pertinent information such as his full name, age, last known address, and where he enlisted and when. Give your relationship to the party and the reason for the inquiry. It may take several weeks before you receive an answer.

Rule Civilian Gas Masks Must Meet Army's Standard

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Gas masks for civilians must be as good as those for soldiers in the front lines, the War Production board ordered today. It prohibited manufacture of any civilian masks which failed to meet standards of the army's chemical warfare service. Some masks now being offered for sale are ineffective against certain gas formulas, official sources said.

RAPS SENDING 19 YEAR OLD FELONS TO ST. CHARLES

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26 (AP).—Two judges whose courts deal with youthful offenders recommended today that the legislature repeal the 1941 amendment permitting felons up to 19 years of age to be sentenced to the State Training School for Boys near St. Charles.

County Judge Francis Vonachen of Peoria contended most of the problems of discipline at St. Charles involved boys in the over 16 age group. Felons and delinquents over 16, he said, should be sent to the newly constructed training school, cell type unit, at Sheridan.

Similar views were expressed by Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Cook county Juvenile court in discussions before the Gunning legislative commission which will submit a report and recommendations for dealing with juvenile crime problems to the 1943 session of the general assembly.

Judge Vonachen also said there should be "much closer supervision" of boys paroled from St. Charles. He recommended that legislation be enacted to permit dependent boys, not guilty of criminal offenses, to be kept in foster homes at county expense.

HEAD OF AURORA FIRM DIVORCED BY RENO COURT

Mrs. Ely von Schlegell divorced Victor von Schlegell, president of the Insulating Products company of Aurora, in Reno, Nev., yesterday. She charged desertion. Custody and support of their sons, Victor Jr., 18 years old, and Robert, 16, now in eastern schools, was decided in an out of court agreement.

The Von Schlegells were married June 15, 1922. Newspaper accounts of the marriage recalled the unsolved Joseph B. Elwell murder. Elwell, wealthy whist and turf expert and friend of Von Schlegell, was slain in his New York apartment June 11, 1920.

Von Schlegell was questioned. The night before the murder, he and Elwell were together. With Elwell was Viola Kraus, Von Schlegell's socially prominent ex-wife, who just had divorced him. With Von Schlegell was Miss Ely Hope Anderson. Her identity was concealed for a time and she was known as "the mysterious girl in black." Von Schlegell married her two years later.

Are your suits for spring all wool?
Do your suits for spring have vests?
Just how complete are your suit stocks?
Can I still get imported woolens?
What about suit prices?
What's the outlook for fall, 1942?

To help you plan your clothing purchases, The Store for Men gives you this brief summary of the situation in this store and our interpretation of trends in the clothing industry as we see them today.

All of our suits for spring are all wool, possessing the durability, the distinction, the supple texture and the draping qualities that you, as a discriminating man, appreciate.

Since our suits were ordered long before wool conservation was even proposed, our suits for spring were made with vests, with the exception of a few strictly sports types.

Our stocks are as complete as they were last spring. You'll find all of the celebrated fabric ranges that we have featured in the past.

We can offer you fine imported woolens. The imported worsteds and twists for which The Store for Men is famous are still available.

Prices show very little increase over last year.

As to the fall, it's too early to predict. However, we have great faith in the skill and ingenuity of the men in the clothing industry with whom we work. While it is not a certainty, we believe that it will be possible for us to offer you, even in the fall, attractive fabrics in well-styled models, reasonably priced, that will maintain your appearance and help maintain your morale.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

INTERRUPTED ESCAPE.

Delia frowned. There was at least an hour. You could do a lot in an hour. She said.

"What is this, please? Are there other houses near?"

Ina looked down at her hands. She had long, pale fingers which moved continually, weaving in and out, twisting. She said in a choked voice:

"I can't tell you."

"Because if there are——"

Ina interrupted her passionately.

"It's no good—I can't do anything!"

"I don't want you to do anything. I only want a chance to get away. You can help me to do that."

"I can't—I can't!"

Delia leaned right forward and caught at the twisting fingers.

"Do stop saying 'I can't!' Just think what you'll feel like when they've murdered me and you wake up in the night and you think you might have stopped them. You'll feel like a murderess—any one would—and when your husband comes home there'll be awful secret between you always. Do you think you'll be able to stand it?"

Ina shook her head.

"No—it would kill me."

"Then let's have a stab at getaway. You go down and talk to them about something—anything. Get up an argument. Let them think they've got to persuade you. I'll come down after you and get out of a window in front of the house. They're at the back, aren't they? Give me five minutes, and then let them think you've given in. Say you must go back to me. But you won't go upstairs—you'll get out of the window, and we'll get away. See if we don't!"

"No—no—" The words were just a broken murmur. The hands pulled away from Delia. Then in a sharp whisper she said, "He's going to gag you."

Delia's spine crept. She said:

"Nonsense!"

Ina stared at her with pale, miserable eyes.

"He said I was to tell you. He said you mustn't resist, and you must tell them whatever it is they want to know. And then you will be all right."

"I should be dead," said Delia in a scornful voice. "The very minute they got what they wanted they'd want to get rid of me. You must see that."

Ina got up off the bed and backed away from her. When she got to the door she stood there for a moment staring. Then she said:

"No—no—they'll let you go. He said they would," and ran out of the room.

"I might as well expect help from a jellyfish," Delia told herself. For the moment she was more exasperated than frightened. Before the daylight went she had found out as much about her surroundings and the position of the house as the view from the windows could afford. This room looked upon the garden, a rambling old fashioned place with a great many trees in it. There was no sign of any other house, and no possibility of climbing out of the window. When she leaned out she could hear the men's voices from the rooms below.

She slipped into a front bedroom and looked out from there. If there was a road, the house stood back from it and it could not be seen. There was a graveled drive, more trees, and a great many shrubs. The window was much too high from the ground to make her feel that she would have any chance of reaching it without a broken limb. As to the time honored expedient of tearing a sheet into strips and making a knotted rope of the pieces, it was entirely impracticable without Ina Long's connivance, since she was never out of the room for more than five minutes at a time. If Ina did connive, it was quite unnecessary, and it would be so much simpler to walk downstairs and get out of a window on the ground floor.

But now what? Ina was a washout. The one and only person she could rely on was Delia Merridew. It was up to Delia Merridew not to get murdered. In the first place because it would be so rotten for Antony, and secondly because—well, because—— She put Antony first, but she was prepared to risk Antony and herself for the other reason. But she wasn't prepared just to sit here in bed for 70 crawling minutes until Cornelius came and put a gag in her mouth, and took her away to goodness knew where, and tried to make her tell him something she didn't know. It was a most revolting thought. The only alternative that presented itself was to carry out the plan she had proposed to Ina, but with Ina left out of it.

There wasn't much chance of its succeeding. She faced that. With Ina to shut the consulting room door and hold the men's attention for five minutes, it would have been a certainty, but without Ina it was about three to one against it coming off. All the same she was bound to try. The best time for her to try and get away would be as soon as they had gone into the dining room to have their meal. But that meant she would have to get out at the back. She wouldn't dare risk the other front room just across the hall. The window might creak——

The next half hour was dreadfully long. She kept thinking, "Perhaps I'd better go now," "Why didn't I try it before?" She got as far as the door once and stood there listening. And heard one of the men cross the hall. Ina Long came up every few minutes. The last time she brought a cup of soup. Her face was flushed as if she had been cooking. She said something about men making a lot of work in the house and went out again. Delia thought, "Now they'll be having their supper. She's been cooking it."

She drank the soup. Then she put on her coat and went to the door again. She opened it and listened. In about five minutes she heard Ina go thru to the front of the house. Then she heard her come back and call out to the men, and she heard them all go back across the hall.

She thought, "I'll count 100, and then I'll go." All the time she was counting her feet and her hands were getting colder and colder. When she said 99, a stab of fear went thru her like a knife. She said 100, and came out on the landing in her stocking feet with her shoes in her left hand. The really frightful thing was that one of the stairs creaked and she wasn't sure which it was. It was quite near the top, because she had heard it every time any one went up or down. It might be the second step, the third, or the fourth, or even a little farther down, but not much.

She sat down on the top step and lowered herself sitting to the next. Things don't creak so much if you can spread your weight. The second step was all right. She came down on the third, and heard it give a muffled creak. The stab went thru her again. Had any one heard it? They couldn't. It was only a ghost of a squeak, and her coat had smothered it.

She moved to the fourth step, and then got to her feet. The stair turned half way, and as soon as she got round the curve she could see into the hall. It was of a good size, square, with the front door facing her and two other doors opening off to the right and left of it. An octagonal lantern hung from the ceiling. Its glass panels had been covered with green paper, but it gave enough light to see by.

Delia came down the rest of the way. Just before she reached the bottom she saw that the dining room door was ajar. She could see a bright crack running all the way down from the top to the bottom of the jamb. No, not a crack. It was wider than that—two inches—a handsbreath——

The door wasn't ajar, it was opening. She jumped the last step and ran to the back of the house. It wasn't any good—she knew that. But you have to try. If the consulting room door had been open—but it wasn't. They had shut it. Even as she wrenched at it, Barend's hand came down on her shoulder with a weight like doom. It held her, turned her round, kept her there pressed back against the door to face him.

Then, before either of them could speak, the sharp sound of an electric bell came rasping thru the house.

The sound was repeated. Barend Roos brought his hand down hard over Delia's mouth. He must have turned the knob of the door, for she felt it give way behind her. Next moment they were inside the room in the dark with the door ajar, and she was being held so tightly that she could neither move nor make a sound.

In the dining room Ina Long had got to her feet, but Jimmy Nash was before her at the door. He had drunk a lot of whisky, but it would have taken a good deal more to have drugged his sense of danger. He caught Ina by the arm, his face pale and his eyes blinking.

"What's at the bottom of the garden?"

She said, "A kind of lane. It's a right of way."

He gave her a push towards the hall.

"Call out and say you're coming! I'm off. Make a bit of time for me!"

RESTAURATEURS DEVISE WAYS TO CONSERVE SUGAR

They're Not Waiting Until Rationing Begins.

BY KAY FLETCHER.

Chefs and food directors of Chicago's restaurants and hotels aren't waiting until sugar rationing is upon them to make plans for conserving sugar.

I walked thru several service doors and talked across some food desks and found the same report: "We have no sugar shortage yet." But, as Fernand Pointreau, executive chef of the Hotel Sherman, said: "We can't just wait until it happens." His first step is to watch production closely, making, for example, only as many pies as will be used, no more. Another is to use less icing on cakes. Instead of being overgenerous with ice cream, Chef Pointreau's assistants are measuring portions accurately and denying it to the kitchen help. Pointreau is using glucose in fruit sauces, but believes it may be one of the first sweets to be rationed.

Mentions Brown Sugar.

I asked him about the use of corn sirup and honey as possible sugar substitutes.

"For such a large kitchen as we have here, they are hard to get," he replied. However, he did mention using brown sugar, adding: "You know it has more flavor."

Many with whom I talked mentioned discontinuing use of lump sugar on the table, because many persons carry it away with them.

One exception to this ban on lump sugar was made by Otto Eitel of the Bismarck hotel, who contended people are in the habit of taking, say, two lumps or two teaspoons of sugar, regardless of the fact that the lumps are smaller measurement and that they use 5 per cent less sugar when lumps are provided. He observed that few persons carry off the loaf sugar.

"Waste has been reduced to a minimum," Mr. Eitel said. "One thing we're working on is to avoid carelessness, such as dumping sugar into the salt by mistake when bowls and containers are emptied at the end of the day.

Number of Cakes Cut.

"We've reduced the number of frosted cakes and are serving fewer sweet rolls, still keeping up our quality. Our chefs are being more careful about accurate measurements, too."

Leonid Remisoff, head of the food department of the Thompson restaurants, told of a new product with which they are experimenting, consisting of honey, corn sirup, and sugar. "It will be used in part with sugar for pie filling," he said. He finds that corn sirup is hard to obtain in large quantities. "People are going to have to get along with less sweet desserts," he remarked. He thinks that his restaurants may have to glaze cakes and rolls instead of frosting them.

Carlo Camerano, manager of the bakery at Henrici's, told of plans to use cerelose [corn sugar], which is one-half as sweet as cane sugar. He has found it successful in bread dough, coffee cakes, and pie dough. He also plans to cut down on icing of coffee cake, and may change frosting to one-third part honey, two-thirds part sugar.

Drake Eliminates Waste.

Louis Auffret, chef at the Drake hotel, told me his staff is being more careful about use of sugar and is eliminating as much waste as possible. He expressed the belief that in the future he may have to serve less sweet desserts and probably smaller portions.

Harding's has done something unusual at its cafeteria in the Allerton hotel, according to Miss R. Beatrice Hughes, director of food supervision in Harding's restaurants. A tiny cork bearing an American flag has been placed in the opening of sugar containers at each table.

Harding's experimental kitchens are buzzing with activity on new appetizing honey and molasses recipes, Miss Hughes said. Prominent signs are being displayed in all dining rooms and cafeterias which read: "Please help us conserve on sugar."

Mrs. Helen Wing of the Normandy House told of many tempting recipes she and her staff have worked out already, such as honey apple pie, baked apple with honey, honey crisp, and a honey dressing for fruit salad.

I found a humorous poster there by Artist Edgar Miller, who has done the unusual decorating at the Normandy House. The verse at the bottom of the poster said,

If your sweet tooth you restrain,
Then the axis strives in vain.

Other dishes Mrs. Wing mentioned were French toast with honey, brown sugar or maple sirup, a southern pecan pie utilizing honey, and a honey custard pie. She had a good suggestion: Many foods that seem to require sugar, such as grapefruit, often taste good with salt instead.

Lamb Shanks Are Delicious and Easy to Prepare

Lamb shanks are wonderfully good. They're an economy cut and easily prepared. The lamb shanks shown here were prepared as follows: Tuck a tiny sliver of garlic in each shank. Then dredge with flour and brown in hot lard. When browned on all sides, add 2 small onions, sliced; 1 small bay leaf, and ½ cup water. Cover tightly and cook in a slow oven or over low heat on top of the stove for about 1½ hours. Make a gravy of the drippings and serve with the lamb. Buy one lamb shank for each person to be served.

It's a Good Idea to Store Some Grated Orange Rind

So many recipes for quickbreads, cookies, cakes, and frostings call for a bit of grated orange rind that it's a good idea to keep some on hand. Next time you're peeling oranges for breakfast, salads, or desserts grate the rind first; then store in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator until ready for use.

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

BY MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Serve apricot-grapefruit ice along with the main course or save the treat until dessert time. A No. 2 can of mashed grapefruit segments, combined with a tall can of apricot nectar and a cup of confectioners' sugar, will make about a quart of ice, when frozen.

* * *

What's hidden in those crispy, golden brown fritters? Ruby-red cubes of jellied cranberry sauce, that go so well with the Sunday roast. Try them soon!

* * *

A soggy crust won't improve the taste of a custard filling, so bake the pie in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for the first ten minutes to set the crust, then finish the baking at moderate temperature.

* * *

Making sandwiches for a crowd? A handy pair of kitchen shears will trim the meat to fit the bread, with less effort than it takes to wield a knife.

* * *

If the inside of the teakettle has been wearing a coat of lime, fill it with equal amounts of vinegar and water, and bring to a boil. Let stand for several hours, or overnight, until the deposit can easily be scraped off with a wooden spoon. (Wash the inside of the kettle frequently from now on, and this procedure won't be necessary.)

* * *

A few bits of pimiento, added to a medium white sauce, will pep up leftover vegetables, and appetites, too.

* * *

Homemade doughnuts are good enough for company dessert, if they're chocolate flavored ones. Add 2 squares of melted chocolate, a teaspoon of vanilla and a fourth cup more sugar to your standard recipe, and frost the doughnuts lightly with a plain or chocolate icing.

* * *

All set for a tender, mouth-watering steak? If you are, don't buy one less than an inch thick, or it'll appear frizzled, not broiled.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Lenten menus need a little special attention if you want to serve a variety. Then consider fresh and frozen smelt or fresh lake herring for thrifty items. Also in the reasonable price class are fresh and frozen sauger pike, winter caught whitefish from Canada, frozen yellow pike, and frozen halibut. You'll find good shellfish, too, and both shell and shucked oysters, and frozen shrimp.

You may have a slightly difficult time making up your mind which bargain to choose at the meat counter this week-end.

Best meat buys are lamb shoulder roast, rib roast of beef, leg of lamb, lamb rib chops, and pork loin roast. What more could you ask in a choice for Sunday dinner? There are excellent offerings in chickens, too, including stewing and frying chickens.

Steak Prices Attractive.

This is another week-end with attractive steak prices. In some stores round, sirloin, club, and porterhouse steaks are all being sold at one moderate level. Many stores are featuring round, swiss, and sirloin steaks, with club and porterhouse only a few cents higher.

Here are some economy cuts that can be prepared in many appetizing ways: breast of lamb, lamb stew, boiling beef, and short ribs of beef. Don't overlook hamburger or chuck roast of beef.

Cooked hams, whole or half, are not expensive. Some stores are offering smoked ham, a seven pound shank at a reasonable price. Pork sausage, frankfurters, and sliced bacon cost a moderate amount of money. If you buy slab bacon, you can save 5 cents a pound.

Variety in Vegetables.

You'll like the vegetable and fruit man this week because he has cabbage, carrots, spinach, endive, and escarolle, sweet potatoes, and celery cabbage that won't cost you much and avocados, apples, grapefruit, oranges, and rhubarb to please your economical eye.

Beets are higher and broccoli, too, but the latter's quality is quite good to make up for it. Cauliflower is now almost in the luxury class. There is a good supply of celery at its same reasonable price, both golden heart and pascal varieties.

Both green beans and cucumbers are high. Collards, mustard greens, and turnip tops have risen, but dandelion greens keep last week's price. Green peas, which took a slide last week, are up again. Lettuce is up a few cents, but considering the low prices you've been paying, it is still very reasonable.

Tomatoes Less Expensive.

White potatoes show a slight downward trend on wholesale markets but may not show any change at your grocery. Tomatoes are less expensive, tho still pretty much of a luxury. Buy a bunch of good crisp radishes for an economical color note in your salad.

D'Anjou pears are moderately priced. And here's good news for you, especially if you have been wanting a different fruit on the menu: Shipments of honeydew melons and nectarines have arrived from South America! The nectarines are only for those who have a large food budget, but for this time of year the honeydews are amazingly moderate. You'll have to pay more for strawberries this week.

A Way to Give Variety to Lunchbox Sandwiches

Give a little variety to those lunchbox sandwiches with a filling like this: Mix a few caraway seeds or celery seeds with cream or cottage cheese, add salt to taste and enough cream to make the mixture spreadable.

Ideal Starter for Lenten Lunch

A piping hot soup gives a substantial start to the lenten lunch. To make this creamy version melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add ½ cup canned whole kernel corn with liquor, and saute in the butter for 5 to 8 minutes. Add 1 can condensed mushroom soup and 1 cup water. Heat thoroly and add chopped pimiento for garnish. (Serves 3 to 4.)

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Today's prize of $5 goes to Mrs. Floyd I. Ruble, Elizabeth, Ill., for this all-in-one salmon loaf. A vegetable, salad, and dessert served with the loaf make a complete meal.

Salmon and Rice Loaf.

1 1-lb. can red salmon, drained
3 cups hot cooked rice, blanched
2 tablespoons butter
Juice of ½ lemon
3 eggs, well beaten
Salt and pepper to taste

Flake the salmon and add the rice, which has been thoroly drained and to which the 2 tablespoons of butter have been added. Add lemon juice and season to taste, and fold in the well beaten eggs. Turn into a buttered loaf pan, into the bottom of which a strip of buttered paper has been fitted. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 45 to 50 minutes, or until the loaf has cooked thru completely. Unmold and garnish with lemon slices and parsley.

Have you submitted your favorite recipe? Write it in standard recipe form and give all the directions, completely and accurately. It may win a $5 prize. Send it to the Mary Meade Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

THESE OATMEAL WAFFLES MAKE BREAKFAST TREAT

Oatmeal Waffles.

[6 waffles.]

2 cups evaporated milk
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
2 eggs, separated
6 tablespoons butter, melted
½ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Mix milk and vinegar. Stir in oatmeal and let stand two hours, or overnight in a cool place. Add beaten egg yolks. Beat well. Add melted butter. Stir in flour which has been sifted with the soda, baking powder, and salt. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a hot waffle iron and serve with molasses butter cream.

Molasses Butter Cream.

¾ cup molasses
¼ cup butter
½ cup evaporated milk

Combine ingredients. Cook slowly about 10 minutes to make a smooth sirup. Cool before serving.

An Effective Garnish.

For an effective and edible garnish for chops or meat patties, roll small buttered carrots in parsley, and group them at intervals on the platter.

LESSON IS GIVEN ON PREPARATION OF PIE FILLINGS

Deals with Fruit, Custard, Cream, and Chiffon.

[This is the fifteenth in a series of lessons on cookery appearing on these pages.]

BY RUTH COOK STEWART.

Probably more women have difficulty with the crust than with the filling of their pies. But a runny or overstiff filling spoils the pie as surely as tough or soggy pastry.

Pie fillings can be classified into groups: fruit [fresh, canned, or dried], custard, cream, and chiffon.

FRUIT PIES.

Because fruits vary so much in the amounts of sugar and water they contain, it is difficult to lay down a rule for the proportion of ingredients to be used in a pie filling. Juicier fruits pack down more and need more thickener than less moist ones. Tart fruits require more sweetening than do the naturally sweet ones.

About 3½ cups of fresh fruit is the usual proportion to fill out a 9 inch shell nicely. You will need to use 4 cups of very juicy fruits, such as berries, while 3 cups may be enough if the fruit remains solid when cooked.

Several Thickeners Possible.

The thickener may be flour, cornstarch, quick cooking tapioca, or even sifted cracker crumbs. From 2 to 2½ tablespoons of tapioca or cornstarch will thicken this amount of fruit, and 2½ to 3 tablespoons of flour or crumbs will be needed. Sugar or other sweetener will vary from ¾ to 1¼ cups, depending on the tartness of the fruit. Tasting and experience are the only sure guides to the correct proportion of sugar. A little salt, about ⅛ teaspoon, and butter, 1 or 2 tablespoons, are added for flavor. With very bland fruits, 1 or 2 tablespoons of lemon juice may be added to the filling, and some cooks add a tablespoon or two of water to very dry fruits.

When canned or cooked dried fruits are used rather than fresh ones, small proportions are used all the way around. You'll find that 2½ cups of drained fruit will be enough in this case and that the sugar may be cut down to ½ to ¾ cup. The amount of thickener used is cut down very slightly if at all, since ½ to ¾ cup of juice is added to the drained fruit and this liquid must be thickened.

Butter Dotted Over Fruit.

The usual method of putting fruit fillings together is to arrange the fruit, which has been mixed with the combined dry ingredients, in the pastry lined pan. Some cooks prefer to sprinkle part of the thickener on the bottom of the pastry, then top with fruit and the remainder of the thickener mixed with sugar and other ingredients. The butter is almost always dotted over the fruit before the top crust or lattice strips are adjusted.

In order to have a high enough temperature to bake the crust properly and still have a long enough cooking time to cook the fruit thru, two baking temperatures are used. A hot [450 degrees] oven is used for the first 10 minutes of baking, then the temperature is lowered to moderate [350 degrees], and the baking is continued for 20 to 30 minutes longer.

CUSTARD PIES.

The filling for a custard pie contains much the same proportion of ingredients as does a large baked custard. To fill a 9 inch plate, 3 cups of milk, 4 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon flavoring are needed. These ingredients are blended with the slightly beaten eggs. As in fruit pies, a high temperature [450 degrees] is used for the first 10 minutes to set the crust, and the baking is continued at a moderate temperature [350 degrees] for about 30 minutes longer. The custard may be tested by inserting a knife, which should come out clean when the filling is done.

It is almost impossible to prevent some soaking of the crust in a custard pie. The only way to avoid this yet devised is to bake the custard separately at 350 degrees in a greased but unlined pie plate of exactly the same size as the one in which the pastry shell is baked at 450 degrees. The finished custard is then very carefully and gently slipped out of the pie plate into the crust. With a good firm custard this isn't nearly as difficult as it may sound.

CREAM PIES.

Cream pie fillings, as well as those for chiffon pies, are cooked on top of the stove and put into baked pie shells. A cream pie is made with milk and thickened with flour or cornstarch [or both] and eggs.

Usual proportions for a cream pie are 2 cups of milk, 2 or 3 eggs, ⅝ cup sugar, ½ cup flour, or 3½ tablespoons of cornstarch [or 3 tablespoons of each], 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 teaspoon of vanilla, and ¼ teaspoon of salt.

The thickener and sugar are mixed together and stirred into the scalded milk, which is then cooked over boiling water with constant stirring for 10 or 15 minutes, or until thickened. A small amount of this mixture is stirred into the slightly beaten eggs, which are then added to the remainder of the custard.

Flavoring Is Added Last.

After the eggs are added, 2 more minutes of cooking with constant stirring will be required. The butter and vanilla are added at the last, and the filling is then turned into the baked shell to cool.

If you like a meringue topping for your pie, use only the yolks of three eggs in the filling, reserving the whites for the meringue. When no meringue is used, two whole eggs are sufficient for the filling. To make a meringue, the whites are beaten until stiff but still moist enough to slide around in the beating bowl. One-third cup of sugar is gradually beaten into the whites. After the meringue is spread over the pie, it is toasted until delicately brown in a moderate [350 degree] oven. This should require about 15 minutes.

CHIFFON PIES.

There is no general rule for the proportions of ingredients used in a chiffon filling. But some sugestions about putting the filling together may not be amiss.

Most chiffon fillings consist of an egg, flour, and starch thickened mixture which is cooked on top of the stove. Less thickener is used than for custard or cornstarch pies, and a tablespoon of softened, unflavored gelatin is dissolved in the cooked mixture to give it extra firmness when chilled.

To give the fluffy texture, characteristic of a chiffon pie, stiffly beaten egg whites are folded into the cooked filling just before it is turned into the baked pie shell. The egg whites blend more readily if part of the sugar used is folded into them, as in making a meringue. To prevent breaking down of the egg whites the filling must be partly cooled before they are folded in. If permitted to cool too much, however, the filling will be too stiff to mix readily with the whites. The filling should be warmer than lukewarm, yet the pan should be cool enough to touch, when the egg whites are added.

Chiffon pies must of course be thoroly chilled, to set the gelatin, before they are served. Sweetened whipped cream is the usual topping for such a pie.

[The next cooking lesson will take up the making of baking powder biscuits.]

NEED EGGS IN YOUR DIET? TRY SERVING THEM IN A CUSTARD

If the family's tired of breakfast eggs and omelets, keep up that "egg-a-day" requirement for a well balanced diet by serving a baked or boiled custard occasionally. There's lots of nourishment and plenty of appeal in this coffee flavored dessert.

Mocha Custard.

[Serves 6.]

4 eggs, beaten
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup strong coffee
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter, melted

Combine ingredients in order given and pour into custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] for 25 to 30 minutes, until firm. [When a knife, inserted into the custard, comes out clean, it is done.] Cool and serve.

Letters of Lonely to Sally Reveal Longing for Pet Birds

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Some time ago a reader offered a parrot and a love bird to any one interested and able to care for them. The response was enormous, and many of the letters were pathetic in the extreme. They came from all parts of the city and suburbs, from people of all walks of life and of all ages.

From a handicapped woman: "I'm 53 and very hard of hearing. Like most people in my position, I am forced to live in a world of my own."

In a childish scrawl: "I am not a shut-in, but a little girl of 11. My mother works all day, and I am alone most of the time."

From an elderly man: "For my many lonely hours I do need the companionship of at least one little pet—in a world where others have whole houses filled with loving human companions."

Many of the letters came from mothers of large families. One woman wrote: "My children are grown and have little need of me, since they are all married and in homes of their own. I am so lonely, and would love the company of a little bird."

Still other letters came from men and women who are working to support elderly parents or children for whom they could not purchase pets, but who realize how difficult it is for those who are left at home alone.

In the majority of cases any type of bird will be welcome.

FASHIONS

By ANGELA

Get yourself that little suit you have promised yourself and be ready for the first warm day of spring when it comes. It won't be so many weeks before we will begin to notice a new warmth to the sun and a softness to the breeze. And until that day you can get plenty of wear, joy, and comfort by wearing your suit under your winter coat or heavy topcoat.

Such a topcoat is illustrated at the upper left of the accompanying sketch. It is a medium blue 100 per cent wool topcoat . . . loose fitting to wear comfortably over that suit we're talking about. Slit pockets are worked into the long vertical seams which are eventually released to form plaits. The trick about the coat is the natural wolf collar that can be removed or replaced to satisfy the whim of the moment simply by zipping on and off. In the little sketch directly below the artist has given you an idea of how the coat appears when it is deglamorized.

A harmonious partner to the blue coat is a classic suit made of a vanilla plaid wool. It is identified as a vanilla plaid because the background color is a light vanilla color with soft muted pattern of blue and tan. If you are interested you can buy the jacket or skirt separately and match them up with plain companion pieces.

The plain suit is a wool gabardine, remarkable for its inexpensive price tag. The jacket is fully lined with a rayon satin. And the color is a dark beige or military tan . . . comes only in the one color. Under $14.

Together with the other classic items mentioned today it wouldn't do to fail to include the blouse of the same classic simplicity . . . soft tailored collar, and long sleeves with French cuffs. [Cuff links included.] The material is a rayon seersucker in brown, blue, or green and white stripe. This fabric is one that is easily laundered and still more easily ironed. Under $4.

City Captured by Piatigorsky and His Cello

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Gregor Piatigorsky is one of the biggest men in music whether his height [nearly seven feet], his rank as a cellist [one of the top three], or his devotion to musical ideals [see next paragraph] is considered the determining factor.

If he is convinced of the importance of a new work he is willing to introduce it, even tho the idiom be unpopular and the chance of scoring a big personal triumph very slim. When he ducked thru the door leading onto Orchestra hall's stage last night to make his annual appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, he came not as an exponent of any of the familiar and sure fire pieces, but as a man determined to interest Chicago in the frightening new concerto of Hindemith.

As it happened, he had his personal triumph, too. At the end of the concerto Piatigorsky and his cello [it suggested a big man carrying a baby by one leg] marched back and forth to the stage to acknowledge audience applause. Not until an encore had been granted [an excerpt from the third Bach sonata] did the applause subside.

The new Hindemith concerto turned out to be an imperiously original, intensely serious work which is not quite as hard to grasp on first hearing as the reputation of its composer would suggest. Its themes, no matter how stern and awe inspiring their jagged contours may be, nevertheless possess a certain cold glow and an immediate communicative power that give a listener something to start with.

It is in the treatment of these ideas—the way in which the complex structure of the piece is made to grow out of them—that the principal obstacle to complete comprehension is to be found.

Frederick Stock conducted the concerto and two other items—the prelude from the suite, "Königskinder," and Beethoven's fourth symphony. He surrendered the baton to David Van Vactor, a member of the orchestra's flute section, for the première of the latter's "Gothic Impressions."

Considered as a study—always competent and often arresting—in contrasting sonorities and tempos and rhythms, the "Gothic Impressions" could well be dismissed as "interesting." However, on the basis of the composer's past performances, one may reasonably hope that the piece possesses an evocative power which repeated experience with it will disclose.

The Beethoven fourth symphony is one of the Chicago Symphony orchestra's masterpieces. The men's handling of the serenely contoured melodies of the slow movement and the chattering, cheerful woodwind passages of the finale help add up to one of the concert hall's most enchanting experiences.

Shops Display Spring Brides' 'Filmy Extras'

BY REA SEEGER.

Spring brides, despite the haste in which most of them must assemble a trousseau, will probably patriotically skimp on all frills and fancies except the all important bits of fine lingerie and flattering negligees. With strictly practical clothes of superb and unquestioned quality for the daytime wardrobe, clothes that must, if necessary, wear and wear and wear and not hint at the date of original purchase, these lovely filmy extras become extremely important. So some of the new finds just unpacked and hung about for shopping approval will cause not a little excitement.

There is a dull crêpe hostess gown that is breathtakingly romantic. . . . It clings to the body lines, ties at the side and features one of the best dressmaker ideas of the year, an extra threefold section at both sides where it is tied. This additional yardage adds even more graceful charm to the flaring skirt. The romance is achieved with long wide-at-the-wristline sleeves that are positively alive with dozens of small silk tassels attached in an all-over design. The neckline is a flattering deep vee. Pale blue, shell pink, and chartreuse and cool snowy white provide a good color choice.

Another long sleeved beauty is also in white, with delicate pale pink sequin shape discs along the shoulder and down the center of the sleeves in a two-inch wide band formation. Another boasts a midriff belt section embroidered in seed pearl beads and pastel colored bead contrast. This model comes in white and pastels and is especially young looking, because of the high round neckline and the midriff belt.

Gay printed jerseys, crêpes, and smooth rayons are eye-catchers, because of the gigantic size of the designs and the dashing color contrasts.

THE QUESTION:

What do you do for Dry Sensitive Skin?

THE ANSWERS:

Ruth Miller, bakery clerk—As a bakery clerk, I meet many interesting people every working day—especially the unusually attractive young lady who told me the secret of her fascinating complexion. She recommended all of the PEAU SECHE preparations, and, without knowing it, has made me another PEAU SECHE booster.

Adeline Fogel, housewife—My sister and I had been looking for a good skin soap when Peau Seche was introduced to us quite accidentally. One of our out-of-town friends wrote to us asking if we would buy her a few boxes of Peau Seche Superfatted Soap, since she was unable to buy it in her small home town at the time. We just took the hint and purchased Peau Seche for ourselves, too, and are more than delighted with the results. We are now using Peau Seche face powder and creams, and find them excellent.

Minnesota Girl to Be Bride of Scotson Webbe

BY JUDITH CASS.

"DR. AND MRS. HENRY MICHELSON of 4400 Freemont avenue, South, Minneapolis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margery, to Ensign Scotson Webbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albion Scotson Webbe of Winnetka," reads an announcement of interest in Chicago as well as in Minneapolis. The wedding is planned for March 7 in Minneapolis.

The ensuing weeks will be particularly busy ones for Ensign Webbe as he is being graduated today from the navy supply corps school in Boston, and must report for duty on the Saturday following the wedding. Ensign Webbe is expected at home on Sunday, and will go to Minneapolis next week, accompanied by his parents, who cut short a holiday in Florida to return home, and sister, Miss Margot Webbe, who is to be a bridesmaid.

Several Chicagoans to Be Members of Bridal Party.

Several Chicagoans will go north to be in the bridal party. They are Ensign James Stanton of Wayne, who is to be best man, and Ensign Frederick T. Creigh, Cribben Wilkenson, and Arthur T. Sullivan Jr., ushers. Also ushering will be David Palmer Close of New York and Robert Michelson, brother of the bride. The wedding will take place in St. Luke's Episcopal church, the Rev. Frederick E. Tyner officiating, and a small reception for the families and closest friends only will follow.

Miss Michelson has many friends here, for she often has visited the Webbes, the last time during the Christmas holidays. She is a graduate of Bennington college, and is a provisional member of the Minneapolis Junior league. Ensign Webbe was graduated from North Shore Country Day school and from Williams college, class of 1938. He was engaged in business in North Platte, Neb., and in Boston before enlisting in the navy.

Mrs. Whiting Hagey and William Rufus Abbott Jr. are to be married quietly next Tuesday in the Astor street home of Mrs. Hagey's mother, Mrs. A. Harris Whiting. Only the immediate families will be present at the ceremony at 12:30 o'clock and the breakfast following. The Rev. Adolph Bohm of the Edgewater Presbyterian church will officiate. Mr. Abbott's parents, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Abbott, are not coming from Florida for the wedding, but Mr. Abbott Jr. and his bride will visit them in Melbourne while on a wedding trip in the south. Mr. Abbott and his bride will live in Wilmette.

Sculpture and Architecture in Next Arts Club Exhibit.

Sculpture and modern architecture will form the theme of the Arts club's next exhibit. To open a showing of the works of Ossip Zadkine, Eric Mendelsohn, and Ernst Barlach, the club has sent out cards for a preview and tea from 4 to 6 o'clock next Friday.

Mrs. Edward B. Smith, who is in charge of the tea, will have Mrs. Tiffany Blake and Mrs. Albion Headburg as her co-hostesses. Mrs. John Wentworth has been commissioned to "do" an appropriate tea table.

So far the club has not heard whether Mr. Zadkine or Mr. Mendelsohn will be able to come for the opening. The former artist is well known to Arts club members, for he gave a private exhibit there in January, 1931. His head of a black boy is a permanent fixture of one of the club's cocktail rooms, and this piece of sculpture will be reproduced on the cover of the little catalog to be distributed to guests next Friday. Mr. Zadkine, who will be represented in the show by his gouaches and sculpture, was born in Russia, studied at the Ecôle des Beaux Arts in Paris, and now lives in New York.

Mr. Mendelsohn, a native of Germany, now lives in New York. The photographs of modern buildings, which he has designed in Germany, England, Palestine, and Russia, are being circulated by the Museum of Modern Art in New York. The third artist, the late Mr. Barlach, is best known for his statue of "The Singing Man," which will be shown at the Arts club along with his lithographs, woodcuts, and drawings.

Two Parties in Addition to Usual Symphony Teas.

In addition to the usual teas following the Symphony concert on Friday afternoons there will be two gay parties today, a tea Mrs. James R. Offield is giving for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wrigley Offield, from 4 until 6 o'clock in the Offields' Astor street home, and one Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is giving for Zlatko Balokovic, violinist, and Mme. David Van Buuren, formerly of Brussels, a member of the national board of the YWCA. She is to speak at a luncheon meeting of the Loop "Y" tomorrow, and Mr. Balokovic is playing at a Jugo-Slav benefit on Sunday in Orchestra hall.

The former Edna Headley of Cincinnati, O., and Wrigley Offield were married a year ago last January, but this afternoon's reception will be the first formal entertaining Mrs. Offield has done for her son's wife, due to one cause or another. Only women have been invited to the tea. Young Mr. Offield, an accomplished aviator,

Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

[This is the first of a series of articles which will appear in this column on how women can help in the war effort thru the salvage of waste materials.]

What American woman wouldn't be glad to wrap a bomb for the enemy? Every woman can do this without much effort and at the same time help a worthy charity or obtain some pin money for herself. But how? will be the question every woman reading this will ask, and the answer is simple—SAVE PAPER. Save every bit of it that comes into your possession—every bit, that is, except waxed paper, cellophane, or butcher shop paper. These latter cannot be salvaged, but every other kind of paper can be made into new paperboard in which to pack shells and other ammunition, tank and airplane parts, and foods.

Paper, of course, is not the only article that our war factories need, for old rags, scrap metals, old rubber, and grease also are necessary to make the weapons our fighting men need to win the victory for which each and every American must be willing to make any kind of sacrifice.

Nathaniel Leverone, director of general salvage for metropolitan Chicago and Illinois, is asking the cooperation of every woman in the state in carrying on this gigantic task that lies ahead. Industrial salvage already is operating on a large scale, and in some communities householders have started a campaign not only to save and to conserve, but to clean out attics and basements.

It is vitally necessary, however, that every woman, especially the housewives, immediately start to take part in this war effort. "Get in the Scrap" is the war cry, one in which the hundreds of thousands of women who have been saying since Pearl Harbor, "I'd like to do something to help win the war," can join wholeheartedly.

Junk dealers pay for salvaged material but there are six charitable agencies in Chicago—and there are others all over the state—that collect such materials and use the money for their own upkeep. A list of the Chicago agencies is given at the end of this column. Junk dealers are listed in the Chicago classified telephone directory. Volunteer salvage committees are being formed all over the state; information about them can be obtained from Mr. Leverone's office in room 3120, 20 North Wacker drive, telephone Andover 3600.

Because many old metals are not in a pure state, may be attached to other different metals, and may not be easily salvageable, the prices which housewives can get for them may vary considerably. However, the following table shows in a general way the prices paid for junk, or salvage, as the materials now are called:

Material—	Price.	Unit.
Newsprint ......$	.40	per 100 lbs.
Magazines	.50 to .60	per 100 lbs.
Rags	.01 to .01½	per lb.
Lead	.04	per lb.
Red brass........	.07 to .08	per lb.
Yellow brass....	.05 to .06	per lb.
Aluminum	.06 to .07	per lb.
Copper	.07	per lb.
Zinc	.04	per lb.
Scrap iron	5.50 to 6.50	per ton

There is so much variation in the quality and kinds of old rubber that no reasonable estimate can be given of prices paid for it.

In the case of household greases, all butchers in the Chicago area have been asked to buy strained grease from housewives at a minimum of 4 cents and a maximum of 5 cents a pound.

Newspapers should be stacked in large bundles and tied two ways. Magazines printed on glazed papers should be put into separate bundles. Cardboard boxes should be opened and laid out flat and tied in bundles. Small waste paper should be stuffed into boxes or burlap bags. Paper, metal, rubber, and rags should not be put into the same container. A collection of waste paper should reach a height of about five feet, which will be about 100 pounds in weight, before a collector is asked to pick it up. Apartment dwellers who find it difficult, or impossible, to collect salvage in such large amounts, can see that what they assemble reaches the proper destinations thru janitors or building superintendents.

William L. McFetridge, president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union and general president of the Building Service Employés' International union, is Chicago chairman of the salvage drive and is enlisting the cooperation of the 10,600 janitors in his organization. No paper is being burned, Mr. McFetridge believes, in any of the apartment buildings in which janitors dispose of the trash collected by tenants, and George Tobey, manager of the Chicago Building Managers' association, feels certain that no office building is burning paper now. Until the drive for salvaging paper for defense was started, most of the buildings—apartment and office—burned their waste paper, but every janitor and manager has had instructions to discontinue this.

Women who live in houses usually have burned their burnable trash in basement or back yard incinerators, too, but this is a practice that must be stopped, for paper is one of the materials needed the most in this fight for freedom in which we are engaged. Mr. McFetridge is going to distribute cards to the janitors to be filled in monthly, showing exactly how much and in what way they have disposed of the salvaged materials from their buildings.

It may be that a woman's auxiliary will be formed by Mr. Leverone and the executive secretary of his department, Ben Regan, to formulate some sort of plan whereby housewives can keep track, too, of what they are able to contribute to this effort to put back into production paper, rags, scrap metals, and old rubber.

The following Chicago charitable organizations will be glad to call for salvaged materials.

Salvation Army, 717 North State street, Superior 1430.

Catholic Salvage bureau, 3414 South Michigan avenue, Calumet 6025.

Goodwill Industries, 2425 South Wallace avenue, Victory 7337.

Ballet Theater Rated Best of Recent Years

BY CECIL SMITH.

When we first became acquainted with Ballet Theater, during the opera season of 1940, the company stated its aims in terms of the development of purely American dance. Since that time the group has undergone both a change of management and a radical shift in ideology, until it now advertises itself as "the greatest in Russian ballet."

The revised and Russianized Ballet Theater made its Chicago bow in the first of five week-end performances at the Civic Opera house last evening. In large measure its claim to supremacy in the field of Russian ballet is surely justified. Whatever patrons may think of the new repertory [and every ballet except "Swan Lake" and "Les Sylphides" is new], no comparably perfect ballet organization has danced here since the first years of the then still undivided Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

Indeed, Ballet Theater almost suffers from an embarrassment of riches in its personnel. Apart from Alicia Markova and Irina Baronova, there are accomplished and charming ballerinas almost without number; and while the masculine contingent is not quite so striking, at least there are a number of strong and well trained dancers to share the principal burdens with Anton Dolin.

The company is obviously provided with ample financial resources, for the visual quality of the productions fully measures up to the uniform excellence of the dancing. All three of last night's ballets were delightfully dressed, with costumes looking as fresh as tho they had just been brought home from the workshop, and with decors of considerable artistic value. In the orchestra pit the superb ability of Antal Dorati assures a basis of dependable musicianship.

The opening bill began sparklingly with "Princess Aurora." While Anton Dolin's choregraphy is technically new, about half of the ballet consists of material familiar in "Aurora's Wedding." The remaining divertissements were reconstructed by Mr. Dolin from other parts of "The Sleeping Beauty," the long Tchaikowsky-Petipa ballet from which the traditional "Aurora's Wedding" is drawn.

A series of seven variations midway in the composition gave the company a chance to show in quick succession the talent and grace of seven out of its generous supply of leading feminine dancers—Rosella Hightower, Karen Conrad, Sono Osato, Lucia Chase, Nora Kaye, Annabelle Lyon, and Miss Baronova. Later on Ian Gibson danced the "Bluebird" variation with the skilled Miss Conrad, and showed a promising technique still in the formative stages. George Skibine displayed strength and precision in other passages.

"Pas de Quatre," a recreation by Mr. Dolin of an almost forgotten piece dating from 1845, presented the supreme Miss Markova in enchanting period figurations, expertly assisted by the Misses Conrad, Kaye, and Lyon.

"Bluebeard," composed by Michel Fokine to Offenbach music, presents a popular, pantomimic and humorous, if rather confused, narrative of the familiar fairy tale. Despite Mr. Dolin's royal blue beard, and his admirable dancing, along with that of Miss Markova and Miss Baronova, the ballet seemed thin and devoid of intrinsically interesting dance ideas. The amusing pictorial aspects of the story and the expertness of its presentation, however, will probably carry "Bluebeard" to passing popularity.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN.

Communication.

Annabella, the very gray but very gay ghost wife in Blithe Spirit, receives a nightly telephone call from her actual husband, Tyrone Power, in Hollywood. Wednesday he began with:

"Guess where I am? I'm an air raid warden, and I'm calling from an old ladies' home."

Panacea.

Maurice D. Sternberg, interior decorator, is experimenting with blackout furniture to prevent those self-inflicted bruises that come from stumbling in one's own darkened home. He is playing with lucites, mirrors, steel—anything with a high gloss. "While I'm trying," he says, "I hope to invent some lightweight knee bumpers." And surreptitious hand holders?

Tulip Bulbs.

Drowsy and dull
Lie the bulbs in the earth,
Turgid as women
With promise of birth.

Snugly they wait
Under feathery snow,
Gathering substance
From dead men below.
—Louise Handcock.

Southern Hash.

A lady we know asks help. The other day, her arms piled high with clothes, she took a taxicab to the dressmaker's, noticing little about her driver other than that he had remarkably salient ears. Arrived at her destination, the Michigan Square building, she had an hour's fitting and then went on to a beauty parlor on the same floor. Soon her dressmaker appeared, dangling a piece of velvet.

"Your cab driver just came in with this," she said. "He said, 'Lady, this is my last stop. I started at the top of the building and worked down. The lady who took my cab was awful nice, and she just looked as if she needed this piece of goods.'"

The next day our lady went back to the cabstand to thank him, but he wasn't there. When she described him to other drivers, they said, "O, you mean Southern Hash. He's been on this corner 20 years, but if you want to do something nice for him, just write the company. Maybe he'll get the courtesy prize."

Fine, but what was his real name? No one knew.

And Why Not?

Hildegarde, the diseuse at the Mayfair room, was being complimented on her show.

"That's two evenings in a row I've been delightfully entertained," the gentleman told her. "Last night I saw Dumbo and tonight you."

Hildegarde regarded him evenly. "I'm so happy," she said with a touch of asperity, "to be placed in the category of an elephant."

Mr. Graves Wailed.

The name of Morris Graves, the surrealist painter now exhibiting at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, came up, and John Cage, the musician-composer who will conduct his all-percussion orchestra here Sunday, told of his first encounter with the tall [6 feet 4] serious painter who looks like a minor prophet. It was at Cage's first percussion concert, in Seattle, and Graves came to scoff, bringing along a large bag of peanuts and a lorgnette made of wire with doll's eyes replacing the lens. With these he managed to create quick confusion and arouse the ire of many respectable husbands in the audience. Inadvertently Graves became interested in the music, and in the silence which precedes applause after a moving piece suddenly burst out with a favorite phrase of astounded praise. But the husbands misunderstood him and, quick to act, they lifted Graves by the arms and legs and removed him to an outer patio. Later, to every one's surprise, Graves asked to take part in the orchestra. As one number called for a human wail he became the wailer.

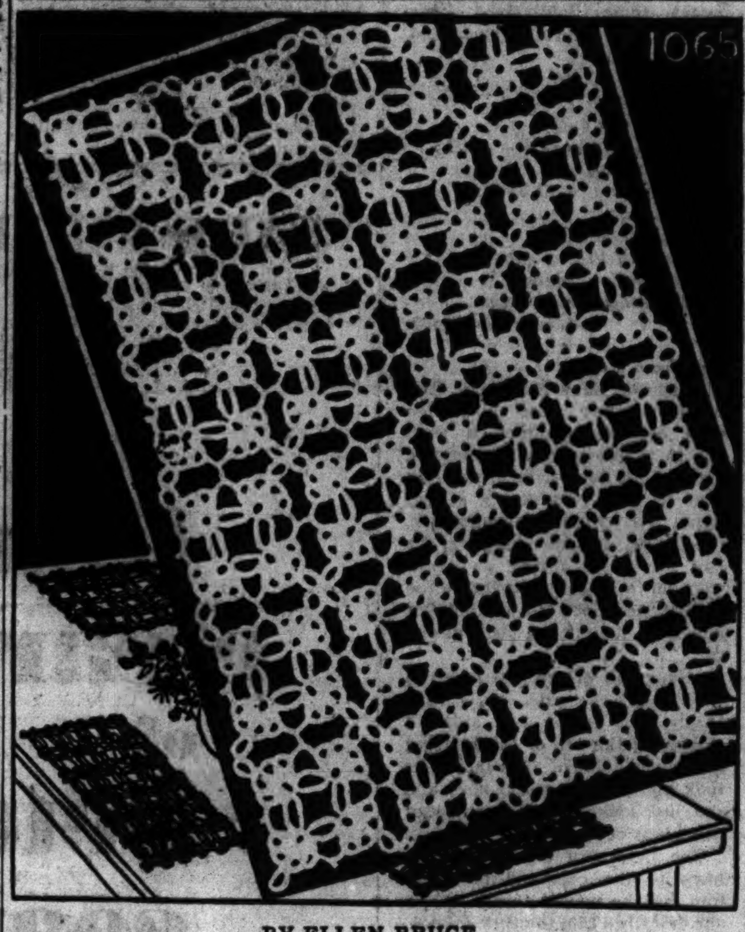
Square Doily Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Ever on the alert for something new, crochet workers will be quick to appreciate the beauty and simplicity of this clever medallion which is adapted to use in a luncheon doily. The small motifs require little time to complete, and they are joined as the work progresses. Ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton is the selected medium for a doily. Finer thread may be used for other purposes.

Popularity Is Weapon in Child's Hands

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Have so often had help from reading your advice that I hope you will help me in regard to a personal trouble. The matter is: I live with my parents and my little daughter since my husband's death. My baby is 5, a nice little girl, clever, charming, and so forth, toward every one except the grandparents. Every one tells me how wonderful she is and probably she has heard it too often, but that did not seem to spoil her. Even her kindergarten teacher told me she is adorable.

"But against her grandparents she is stubborn, does not come when they call her, never would give them a kiss voluntarily, and just behaves as if she does not need them, as long as I am near or around. But when I have been away, sometimes for weeks, then the picture is changed and everything is sunshine. I understand there is not much to be done, for even you could not change her character, but it would interest me to know the reason, the phychological one."

And here is the answer:

Before getting right down to an answer to your letter I must start by saying that it is possible your little girl's attitude toward her grandfather and grandmother is due to the way in which they treat her. They may, in turn, lavish praise on her and then scold her. They may love her very dearly but be very unwise in their treatment of her.

Now, I don't like to make snap psychological judgments on little evidence, but my explanation of your small child's behavior toward her grandparents is something like this: that she would rather have you with her than any one else in the world, and when you are with her you are sufficient to satisfy her completely. At those times she does not need her grandparents, even tho she probably loves them very much. When you are away for any length of time her need for close affection turns her to them.

Engagement

Mrs. Dan H. Bremerman of Evanston has announced the engagement of her daughter, Jane, to James F. Beamer of South Bend, Ind. Miss Bremerman was graduated from the Marywood School for Girls in Evanston and from Fairmont Junior college in Washington, D. C. They met in Washington while Mr. Beamer was attending the Georgetown university school of foreign service.

Thru the Looking Glass

All across the country, as the consciousness of the need for physical fitness grows, one startling fact emerges: Corrective foot exercises are probably the first and the greatest necessity. And this, apparently, is almost as true of men as it is with women.

A survey of foot health, if such a thing were possible, probably would reveal some shocking facts. In any case, right now women who are doing unaccustomed work are finding that they literally do not have the foundation for proper balance and endurance. Arch weakness and what amounts almost to atrophy of the muscles in the back of the legs are now recognized as serious physical handicaps.

In an exercise demonstration we saw yesterday based entirely on the necessity of keeping fit, foot exercises were of first importance. These are now to be incorporated in the exercise courses of the salon where they were shown; many of them already have been adopted by various organizations as part of their health program for women.

Stretching the "hamstring" muscles that run down the back of the legs to the heels is essential. These muscles, shortened by faulty posture and high heels, must be toned to give freedom and flexibility of movement. Rhythmically stretching the heels—hard, curling the toes over, then stretching the foot forward was one good routine shown that affected the leg muscles and the arch of the foot as well.

And there were many others, designed especially to correct foot ailments and thereby contribute vitally to general health and endurance. "Feet first" is the watchword, undoubtedly, for any physical fitness program for women.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Most players would no sooner think of discarding a potential winner than they would of throwing money in the gutter. Yet, under certain exceptional circumstances that very thing must be done to fullfill the contract.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 hearts [final bid]

North should have accepted the three no trump contract. He had honors in three suits and, altho he had no high card in clubs, he did have length. The only discernible advantage to a suit contract was possible diamond ruffing, and this was largely offset by the fact that no trump would require only 9 tricks against 10 at hearts.

West led the jack of diamonds. After winning in dummy and returning a heart to the ace, declarer had the rude shock of learning that all five missing trumps were in West's hand. This was a bit disconcerting, because now it looked as tho declarer would have to lose a trump trick in addition to three clubs.

Declarer stopped leading trumps and cashed the ace and king of spades. Observing the fall of the J-10, he then returned to his hand with a diamond, to lead the other diamond honor and to discard dummy's good spade queen! Simple as it was, this was the crucial play. Declarer now could ruff his eight of spades in dummy without West's being able to lift a finger on his own behalf.

It will be observed that the contract could not have been made in any other way. For example, to lead out trumps in an attempt to cash three diamonds and three spades, would not succeed. West would ruff the third spade and the defenders would gather in three club tricks.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Mathematics Maelstrom.

A woman called the public service department to make inquiry about an automobile trip to Kansas City.

"Take 66 to Springfield, 36 to Cameron and 59 to Kansas City—approximately 569 miles," she was told.

Two seconds later she again telephoned the young woman who had supplied the information . . . just to set her right.

"I've added up 66 and 36 and 59 and I get 161 miles," said the lady motorist in a maelstrom of mathematics.

Who's the Better Picker?

Do women pick better women than do men?

Some tentative answers to this and numerous other questions may result from the 10 weeks emergency business training course for women now in full swing at the University of Chicago. For—the final interviewing was done by three women and two men.

Of unusual interest to the woman in business, to the girl about to enter business, or to the woman contemplating a return to business is the method by which a group of 60 was selected from 1,200 inquiries and 175 applications.

1. The applicant was required to have worked "in a work situation, for pay." [If over 38 years old, she must have had this business experience within the last three years.]

2. She must be able to type. [The typewriter is an essential part of modern business.]

3. The age limit was not arbitrary. [There are some women past 40 in the class.]

4. Educational requirements were either a good formal education or exceptional business experience. [The younger women in the class are all college graduates; many of the older are not.]

5. The marital status of the women was considered. Those with small children were not accepted unless their husbands were in service or they were the sole support of a family. [There are four members of the class whose husbands are in service. One said wistfully to Miss Brewington, associate professor of business education: "I do wish the exam had been today instead of yesterday. I received word this morning that my husband was successfully evacuated from the Philippines; I know I could have done better on the exam."]

A total of 150 were called for interviews, given intelligence tests, clerical and personality tests. On the basis of these scores and personal interviews the final enrollment was completed. When notified they were accepted for this intensive training in office supervision, personnel problems, organization principles and accounting and statistical techniques, 60 women were asked a pertinent question over the telephone. The question was: "Can you be here at 8 o'clock every morning, 6 days a week, and not be late?"

Rambling Patriot.

The noon hour crowd was beginning to thin out. A stern faced woman looked up suddenly at the slight, sallow young bus boy, then said loudly and abruptly: "Why aren't you in service?"

Three white collar girls glanced pityingly at the young man, glowered at the woman and picked up their checks. On the way out one was overheard to say: "I'm glad I work for XYZ company. We've been cautioned against peripatetic patriotism."

Making Mate Jealous Is Poor Tactics

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

O, dear me! Mrs. J. F. is indignant with us for advising a young wife to stop her flirting, since it makes her husband jealous and provokes scenes that were better avoided.

Asks Mrs. J. F., after lambasting us for upholding masculine prerogatives, as she calls them: "What right has a husband to tell his wife to whom she can talk and to whom she must not talk?"

Granted, a husband has no law back of him authorizing him to tell his little woman that she must not speak to so-and-so, we still say the woman has a perfect right to stop performing rights that antagonize her man. That right of hers is the right to maintain peace in her home and retain the relationship promised.

The case under discussion was that of a silly nitwit of a woman who obviously came running home to daddy with silly tales of what so-and-so [masculine gender] said to her. Flattering things, of course, or so construed. The idea back of it, none other than to bestir jealousy, to incite her husband to the belief that she still is most desirous in the eyes of other men.

We repeat what we said before: It's infantile behavior. No truly adult woman would be guilty of it.

Mrs. J. F. reminds us over and over again that "just because a girl is lucky enough to get a husband, that doesn't give him the right to run her life." True enough, it gives him no such right. But it is, nevertheless, a pretty smart little gal who does run her life so that the one man in the world, to her, approves what she does. That's one of the prime rules of getting along with people, with husbands in particular, and with wives, too.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—Well, sir, you coulda knocked David O. Selznick over with one page of Margaret O. Mitchell's "Gone with the O. Wind."

David went to an M.-G.-M. recording room the other day to make a broadcast platter for Big Brotherhood week. He opened the door and there stood Hedy O. Lamarr. Coming upon Hedy suddenlike is enough to make any gent stop for breath, and Selznick stopped.

"Don't stand there looking stupid," snapped Miss Lamarr. Selznick goggled and again she said, "Don't stand there looking stupid."

She said it a third time and Selznick caught on. Hedy wasn't talking to him at all. She was talking to Spencer Tracy, up on a screen—dubbing in a line she had fluffed in "Tortilla Flat."

A number of gowns which Carole Landis will wear in 20th Century-Fox's forthcoming story of the Brooklyn ball club, "Them Lovely Bums," were sent to the studio censor the other day for an opinion on whether or not they would pass the Hays office.

"Howinell can I tell without Miss Landis in 'em?" The censor queried. So Carole was sent for and she put the duds on. The censor promptly killed the whole batch.

There's a cycle of Washington films developing. RKO has two, Mary Roberts Rinehart's "One Hour of Glory" and another which will be brought up to date, "Lona Henry." James Craig lands the lead with Maureen O'Hara. He'll be a young career man in the state department. . . . Paramount has taken Patricia Morison out of "The Glass Key" and slapped Veronica Lake in. It's not too bad a break for Miss Morison, for the studio has two other good rôles lined up for her. Reason for the change is sneak preview opinion on "This Gun for Hire," in which Miss Lake and Alan Ladd are teamed. Customers like the Lake-Ladd combo so much that the studio has determined to keep it going—and Ladd already has been cast for "Glass Key." . . . Irving Berlin is due here next week to attend some sneak previews of his "Holiday Inn."

Two Broadwayites get breaks this week in the movies. Metro has signed Gene Kelly, the "Pal Joey" dancer, to a term and Gene is now rehearsing for his part opposite Judy Garland in "The Big Time," which is a story of vaudevillians in World War I. Universal is about to close a term deal with Joe E. Lewis, night club comedian. Joe, who frequently tells of a thieving uncle who got stuck with a hot ferryboat on his hands, will make his debut in "Carry On" with the Andrews sisters. Eddie Cline, who directed "What's Cookin'," will stage it . . . which means that Eddie won't direct the next Abbott and Costello number. . . . Warners have put Joan Leslie and Jack Carson with Ida Lupino in "The Hard Way." . . . By March 1 Richard Macaulay will leave Warners' for 20th Century-Fox—and by mid-March Warners' will have two Macaulay scripts shooting—"Across the Pacific" and "The Widow Wouldn't Weep."

Hunting for a simple, well styled cedar chest is like looking for the needle in the haystack. There are hundreds of chests, but by far the great majority are over ornate and have a finish like a mirror. Therefore, when you come across a plain, nicely built one it's news. The cedar chest we have in mind is made of maple and the lower edge is gracefully scalloped. It has bracket feet. No fancy carving or gew-gaws. It's just a plain, good looking, practical example of what this type of storage box can be.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

There is one formation in Arthur Treacher's signature I'd like you to remember. It is the "A" in "Arthur." This is a gracious form and shows a protective feeling toward animals and children or those weaker than oneself. Other formations in Mr. Treacher's writing back up this characteristic indicating that this trait is an outstanding one in his character. Note that the t-bar reaches a protecting arm over his last name.

All the letter forms are graceful, cultured, and literary. Look at the artistic originality of that "rh." The whole writing reveals a gracious humor and persistent optimism. His writing is a delight to the eye, and reveals more mental qualities than those of personality. This is very often the case when the mental development becomes more important than the objective, outward appearance. The graphologist makes a distinct difference between the mental and personality types.

For handwriting analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of handwriting, to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.

STATE TO PROBE TRACTION PLANS; LINES PROTEST

Prove Unity Program Fair, Commission Orders.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday announced that it will start immediately a thoro inquiry into Chicago's 179 million dollar transit merger plan. It said the burden of proving the program is fair and in the public interest will rest on the traction interests.

The commission's statement was made by William E. Helander, assistant commissioner, and Fred Kleinman, chief accountant, at the opening hearing before the commission on the unification plan. The plan, providing for the merger of the surface and elevated lines into a single system with a capitalization of $179,348,000, was tentatively approved last week by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe after 15 years litigation.

Must Submit Supporting Data.

Attorneys for the transit lines were directed by Helander to submit on Monday supporting data showing how the valuation was determined; how the proposed distribution of new securities was established; to justify the proposed interest and dividends on bonds and stocks, particularly a 5 per cent interest rate on 72 million dollars of first mortgage bonds; latest income statements on the present properties; statements of assets and liabilities of the lines, and estimated reorganization expenses.

[The elevated system again operated at a loss in 1941. Details on page 29.]

The prospective investigation by the commission was objected to by Thomas L. Marshall, attorney for the elevated lines' trustees, and William J. Friedman, attorney for the surface lines' first mortgage bondholders. They contended that an exhaustive inquiry by the commission into the merger plan at this time would be premature.

Commission's Viewpoint.

Marshall said the commission at this time is required only to pass on the question of whether the long delayed unification is advisable without going into valuations, securities, and other details. The plan is being submitted to the commission at this time to comply with federal bankruptcy statutes requiring a company in bankruptcy [the elevated lines in this case] to get preliminary approval of its reorganization plan before final action by the federal court, Marshall said.

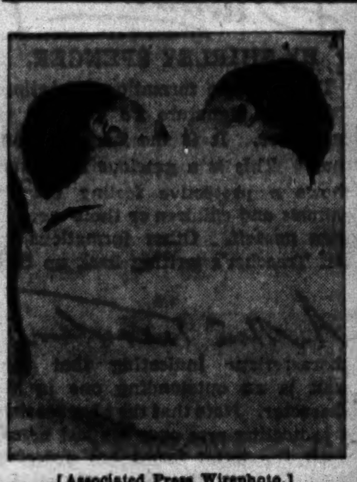
If the plan is approved by transit securities holders and the city's enabling ordinance providing for the merger is adopted at a referendum, then an exhaustive inquiry by the commission before it approves the issuance of securities in the new company would be in order, Marshall asserted.

Helander replied, however, that the commission would not want to grant preliminary approval now and later veto the program after all other necessary steps had been taken.

William H. Sexton, city attorney, agreed with Marshall and Friedman that an exhaustive study by the commission was not required at this time.

Carl R. Latham, attorney for junior bondholders of the surface lines, agreed with the commission's attitude. Latham said the securities holders of the companies have a right to know the commission's stand on all phases of the merger before they vote on the plan.

Siamese Twins Born



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Siamese twin girls in St. Vincent's hospital, in Staten Island, N. Y.

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Siamese twin girls were born today to Mrs. Jessie Picciotto, 25 years old, at St. Vincent's hospital, Staten Island. They were connected from a point just below the chest to about an inch below the navel.

Dr. Peter Timpone, who delivered them, said they were healthy, and that he would consult other physicians as to the feasibility of an operation to separate them.

The mother was not informed of the fact that her babies were Siamese twins. The father, Carmen, 30, is a butcher. The weight of the twins was nine pounds four ounces.

TRUMPET PLAYER FOUND GUILTY IN 'ACCIDENT FRAUD

Thomas McNerney, 44 years old, alias Thomas P. S. Burnes, a trumpet player, was convicted yesterday by a jury in Criminal court of defrauding the Hartford Accident and Indemnity company of $2,250 in connection with an accident claim. Judge Harold G. Ward set March 13 for hearing on a motion for a new trial.

McNerney faces a maximum sentence of a year in jail and a $2,000 fine in the event his motion for a new trial is denied. Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown said investigation showed that McNerney had collected more than $10,000 in settlements with insurance companies in connection with various accident claims since 1932.

MOON MULLINS—MR. BRIEF'S BRIEF VISIT

ZIVIC SEEKS TO PUSH COMEBACK AGAINST MOTISI

Bout Tops Coliseum Show Tonight.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh boxer, who has won and lost the world welterweight championship since last appearing in Chicago two years ago, will continue his campaign for a chance to regain the 147 pound title in a 10 round bout against Tony Motisi of the Catholic Youth organization tonight in the Coliseum, 15th street and Wabash avenue.

Zivic, who dethroned Henry Armstrong in Madison Square Garden on Oct. 4, 1940, and then was relieved of the honor by Freddy [Red] Cochrane in Ruppert stadium in Newark less than a year later, has been promised an opportunity to obtain revenge in a rematch with Cochrane if he disposes of the stocky Motisi. Promoter Ross Miller is negotiating to have Cochrane oppose the winner of this evening's encounter in the old Wabash avenue arena on April 3 or 10.

Zivic Defeats Carrabantes.

In his last appearance Zivic scored a decision in 10 rounds over Raul Carrabantes, welter champion of Fritzie Zivic. Tony Motisi.

Chile, in Pittsburgh on Feb. 9. This achievement quieted talk that Zivic has seen his best days, reports which started after he had suffered a technical knockout at the hands of Ray Robinson in New York in a previous engagement.

Altho Robinson has won most of his bouts by knockouts since graduating from the Golden Gloves ranks, Zivic's loss in this manner came as a surprise, especially since it was only his third knockout defeat during a 20 year campaign. Ironically enough the scene of the two previous knockouts dealt Fritz was this same Coliseum.

Hogue to Meet Sutka.

Willis [Shorty] Hogue, San Diego, Cal., middleweight, who has won two earlier battles in this city, will meet Joe Sutka of Wyandotte, Mich., in a 10 round supporting match. In an additional match of 10 rounds, Harry Teaney, former Cleveland sectional Golden Gloves finalist, who has whipped Nick Castiglione and Eddie Lander in Chicago previously, will oppose Marcellina [K. O.] Borrado, Louisville lightweight. In four round contests Joe Coma, welterweight stablemate of Zivic, is paired with Lou Woods, Detroit Golden Gloves product, and Sammy Parotta, Pittsburgh junior lightweight, is matched with Jackie Nichols, Gary.

Seven Fort Sheridan soldiers will clash with civilian fighters on the weekly amateur fight card tonight in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Pairings:

Private Bill Powell vs. Joe Jawgiel, heavyweights.
Sergt. Bob Nolan vs. Johnny Levantino, 147 pounds.
Private Jack McClintock vs. Frankie Bodine, 140 pounds.
Private Albert Driers vs. Milton Little, 135 pounds.
Sergt. Fred Czerwionka vs. James Williams, 160 pounds.
Private Dick McLean vs. Pete Scorso, 112 pounds.
Private Jack Barbour vs. Joe Strovack, 160 pounds.

Ray Riddick Named Dartmouth End Coach

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 26 [Special].—Ray Riddick, formerly of the Green Bay Packers, has joined the Dartmouth college coaching staff, it was announced tonight by Tuss McLaughry, head football coach of the Big Green. Riddick, who will take over the job of end coach at the start of spring practice, was graduated from Fordham university in 1940 and played with Green Bay the last two seasons.

GOLDEN GLOVES SURVIVORS AWAIT TITLE BATTLES

Fort Worth Stars Pass Up Trip Home.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Golden Gloves fighters dispersed to their homes yesterday following three nights of brilliant action in the Tournament of Champions. Out of the many thousands who started the campaign weeks ago in 38 centers, only 32 remain unbeaten. These 32 will remain in training and will come back next week for the semi-finals and finals, which will be held Friday in the Stadium.

The four Fort Worth boys who won places in the semi-finals will remain in Chicago rather than undertake the long trip back to Texas during so short an interim between engagements. These four are Morris Corona, Marvin Bryant, Tom Attra, and James Phillips, who compete in the 135, 147, 175, and heavyweight classes, respectively. They will stay at the Illinois Athletic club and will do their training there.

Three Former Champions Lose.

The Golden Gloves tournament seems to have brought out stronger fighters than ever this season. Three former champions took part and all three were beaten. Harold Dade of Chicago, Tommy Campbell of Moline, and Roy Lewis of Muncie all lost decisions on Wednesday night. Jack Graves of Minneapolis, Tommy Lemmon of Milwaukee, and Corona are the boys who accomplished the overthrow of the former titleholders. Corona is well known to Golden Gloves fans because of his performances in previous seasons, but the other two boys are newcomers.

Chicago Fair Is Good.

Minneapolis and Milwaukee showed surprising strength in this season's Tournament of Champions. Neither city had been able to get a representative to the quarter-finals last year, but this time Milwaukee has placed four and Minneapolis two among the select 32. In the course of three nights of fighting Minneapolis boys won 16 bouts, which was exceeded only by Cleveland with 18 victories. Cleveland showed its customary strength in getting four boys into the semi-finals.

The only two Chicago boys are left in the running, both of them are exceptionally strong fighters. These are Harry Stephens in the middleweight class and Hubert Hood in the heavyweight division.

Hood has demonstrated sensational hitting power in scoring his victories. Beginning with the city finals, he has won all of his Golden Gloves bouts by knockouts—even when matched against much heavier fighters.

Bob Is Better Than Ever.

Bob Burns of Fort Wayne, captain of last season's intercity team, looked better than ever in marching to the semi-finals. He beat Billy Marshall of the strong Minneapolis team and then disposed of Thomas James of Chicago in his two bouts on Wednesday.

Graves will be particularly well fortified with confidence when he goes into next Friday's bouts. In consecutive rounds he met and defeated the boys who were generally believed to be the best bantamweights of the tournament—Dade and Chuck Hunter, the latter being a Cleveland boy.

THE BIG TESTS!

Amateur boxing's outstanding performers—32 survivors from the Tournament of Champions—are now ready for the finals of the Golden Gloves meet in Chicago Stadium on March 6. Be ready, too, to sit in a choice location as the fighters battle their way to titles. Get your tickets now! No better proof than President Roosevelt's recent letter to Commissioner Landis giving baseball the green light is needed as evidence that the well stated aim of 22 years ago was eminently successful. . . . It Is Not in Vain.

Cast thy bread upon the waters,
God, in a mysterious way
Blesses every little kernel,
That you sow from day to day.
You may die before it prospers,
But somewhere along the shore,
It may sprout in coming years,
By some lonely cabin door.

Healing words and deeds of kindness
Are not vain, they drift along
To some hovel, where in darkness
Little larks have lost their song.
In the flow of human kindness,
There is something so divine,
What we sow will yield abundance,
God turns water into wine.

A Tribute to Gehrig.

The Wake conductor acknowledges with thanks receipt of a volume, entitled "Lou Gehrig, a Quiet Hero," from its author, Frank Graham, sports columnist for the New York Sun. Graham, who for years has been one of America's most gifted commentators on the sporting scene, has produced a biography which should be popular with baseball fans thruout the country. It catches the atmosphere of the training trips, the clubhouse, and the actual conflict on the diamond with superb clarity and describes the rise to fame and untimely death of its subject without once lapsing into maudlin sentimentality.

WHITE SOX NEAR PASADENA AND A LOT OF LABOR

Expect Dykes to Order First Workout Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Las Vegas, N. Mex., Feb. 26.—Unless James J. Dykes, the manager, is in an unusually charitable mood tomorrow, the White Sox advance squad will get together on the matter of doing something about the winter's accumulation of excess poundage and mushy muscles. Some of the boys, while streamlining toward Pasadena today pointed out that the boss might delay the annual opening of his training school until Saturday, but this probably was more of a hope than a sincere belief. They know Mr. Dykes better than that.

Dykes has been loafing around California for two months, so undoubtedly is thirsty for action, such as issuing orders from which aches and pains are bound to blossom. Dykes doesn't participate in such childish frivolities at his age, but he likes to watch. Besides, he wants to start as quickly as possible because there is much to be done. He has outfield and infield problems and some of the younger pitchers need tutoring. He has a quantity of older moundsmen, but no club ever has quite enough of them.

Some Already Are on Hand.

The number of hands which will be available tomorrow or whenever the inaugural drill is held won't be known until an official checkup is made. The party out of Chicago included 12 eligibles. Catchers George Dickey and Tom Turner, Rookie First Baseman Murrell Jones from Shreveport, and Pitchers Bill Dietrich, John Humphries, Thornton Lee, and Ted Lyons are supposed to be in Pasadena awaiting orders. Dykes' camps, however, always have a large welcome on the doormat, so some of the fellows who are not due until next Thursday may show up ahead of time.

Inclusion of Wally Moses, ex-Athletic, in the first squad, is an indication of how Dykes runs his spring boarding house. It also indicates Moses' glee over his transfer to Chicago. Dykes has been watching him closely ever since he came into the league so knows all there is to know of his ability. Hence, there was no real reason for giving the light-footed Georgian the extra week. But Moses wanted to come along and he not only brought himself, but a large sized bundle. In the bundle were eight prized bats he has been guarding all winter. That's proof enough that he takes his work seriously.

Draft May Get Kennedy.

Bob Kennedy is another who moved into the first squad at his own request. The kid third baseman might have had two reasons. One is that he registered for the first time in the recent draft and may be called into service at any time. He may want to have a little baseball fun as a preliminary. The other reason could be that his radio broadcasts this winter from Aurora weren't conducive to an Anna Held waistline. He sends the scales above the 200 pound mark, which is about 15 too many for his comfort.

Joe Kuhel might be along anytime before Thursday. He asked the club for his ticket and left his Kansas City home 10 days ago.

LUKE EXPECTS TO SIGN.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 26 [Special].—The contract of Luke Appling, veteran White Sox shortstop who thinks he should have a larger salary than the one offered him by Vice President Harry Grabiner, was on route to Pasadena today—unsigned. Appling indicated, however, that he would be in camp on schedule March 5 and that he expected little difficulty coming to an agreement.

Luke said the latest contract was an exact duplicate of the first he had rejected and that it included a bonus clause based on total attendance. "I'm willing to take a chance on attendance," Luke said, "but the slice in my basic pay is what I don't like."

He expects to leave for camp Monday.

A Wee Miss Joins the Faculty of Tribune's Bowling School

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The Chicago Tribune free bowling school, which holds its first session next Monday and continues indefinitely at ten pin centers thruout the Chicago area, will offer more than instruction in the fundamentals of the game—a lot more.

It will offer the expertness of Andy Varipapa as a teacher and, as not only color but as a demonstration of what perfect coördination can accomplish, it will offer Twinkle Watts, the six year old star whose performances on the lanes have been the talk of every town in which she's appeared.

She's Perfectly Coördinated.

In a few words, Twinkle is six, she's 44 inches tall and weighs a pound for every inch of her height. Physical culture experts have examined her and found her so perfectly coordinated that she can average between 150 and 160 on the bowling alleys for as long a period as an adult without exerting herself. She can do that with a 10½ pound ball, bowling against regulation pins. She frequently rolls 200 games and has hit a high of 251.

Twinkle—her real name is Janne, but every one knows her only by the name Twinkle—has been bowling for slightly more than two years. Her home town would be and is Hollywood and she started there, using a 3½ pound ball. Then she moved up to a six and next an eight pound ball, improving her average with every step. Finally National Match Game Champion Ned Day presented her with a 10½ pound sphere and she has used that since.

Will Demonstrate Technique.

In THE TRIBUNE's school Twinkle will demonstrate Varipapa's and her own technique. Her form is almost identical with Andy's, making their joint handling of the lessons Varipapa teaches a simple matter. But she will also team up with Andy in bowling doubles matches against man and woman teams in the houses in which the school is conducted.

The school will open next Monday at Ted Lyons' recreation, 71st street and Jeffery avenue, and continue there for three days. Next it will move to the Congress Arcade, 2047 Milwaukee avenue, for a day, then go to Lawrence Bowl, 1820 Lawrence avenue, where it will operate Friday, Saturday and Monday, with Tess Morris, Lawrence Bowl's instructor, as a third member of the faculty.

Twinkle Watts, 6 year old who averages over 150 with a 10½ pound ball, and who will assist Andy Varipapa in conducting The Tribune's Free Bowling school.

Leahy Scraps Rockne Shift; Will Use 'T'

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 26 (AP).—The back field shift which Knute Rockne developed while an undergraduate at the University of Notre Dame and improved later as coach will be scrapped this spring.

Coach Frank Leahy disclosed today he would use the "T" formation when his protéges begin spring practice Monday because he believes his speedy backs can operate more effectively when running from that lineup.

Quarter Back Works Hard.

The shift Rockne developed in 1912 and 1913 as a player was improved shortly after the first World war by Rockne the coach. The quarter back squatted a few feet directly behind the center and the half backs and full back stood on a line behind the quarter back.

The half backs and the full back then would shift either to the right or left, with the quarter back carrying the ball or handing it to one of the other backs as they moved swiftly around him.

Under the new system the quarter back will handle the ball on every play, but there will be no shift in the old sense of the word. The effect probably will be more delayed line bucks and criss-crosses with a degree of deception.

Evans Moves Again.

Leahy said Angelo Bertelli, sensational passing left half back of the 1941 season, would be moved to quarter back. Dippy Evans, last year's full back, will be played at left half back, and Creighton [Jerry] Cowhig of Boston, Mass., a 215 pound freshman, will have first call at full back. The right half back position has not been filled, Leahy said.

Bob Dove, left end, will be moved to left guard, while Harry Wright, quarter back on the 1941 undefeated eleven, will play right guard.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Folks who like their hockey fast and free, rather than the snug sort that ends in 1 to 0 and 2 to 1 scores, had a regular feast last night as the Blackhawks and the Canadiens scored like crazy on the Stadium ice before the Chicagoans won, 5 to 4. The contest concluded the regularly scheduled relations between the two teams for the season, with the Hawks taking the series off of a record of four victories, three defeats, and one tie.

The result brought Chicago to within one game of the third place Boston Bruins and doused whatever hopes the Frenchmen might have had of moving into sixth place above the idle Brooklyn Americans, whom they still trail by half a game.

New Official Makes Hit.

The triumph was highly welcome to the Hawks, who had just returned from a league tour which had resulted in three straight defeats.

A gathering of 8,462 enjoyed the work not only of the Hawks but also the crisp conduct of the game by Mel Harwood, making his Chicago debut as a National league official. Harwood, who earned his whistle blowing degree in the American association, tolerated no back talk on penalties. Last night he earned his fee by assessing 13 penalties.

The hero of the Hawk side was George [Wingy] Johnston, another alumnus of that Institute for Young Hockey Players being conducted by Dean John Gottselig at the Hawks' Kansas City campus. Wingy identified himself by scoring two of the five Chicago goals, one the tying score and one the winner.

Max Is All Over the Ice.

The others were delivered by Bill Carse, Art Wiebe, and Max Bentley. The last named was the busiest party on the premises, scoring not only a goal but three assists as well.

To look at that 5 to 4 victory score you would never suspect that the Hawks were down, 3 to 0, at the end of the first period. While Terry Reardon, Buddy O'Connor, and Bunny Dame were scoring in that first session the Hawks were acting like so many schoolboys.

The Chicago dressing room in the interval between the first and second periods must have become a dressing down chamber, with Manager Paul Thompson handling the whip. At any rate, the Chicagoans not only tied the score in one stretch of 2 minutes and 49 seconds, but went ahead, 4 to 3, in another 32 seconds. The Frenchmen responded by tying the score on Joe Benoit's goal. All in all, five goals were delivered within the amazingly brief span of 3 minutes and 47 seconds, which should be something of a record.

The Hawks will journey to Toronto to meet the Maple Leafs tomorrow night, after which they will return for an encore with the Leafs in the Stadium on Sunday evening.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—De Paul university defeated Georgetown, 34 to 29, tonight. GALLAGHER PICKS CUBS TO BATTLE REDS FOR TITLE

Losses to Army May Upset Jim's Calculations.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 26.—General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Cubs, beaming over the systematic manner in which Manager Jim Wilson and Coaches Dick Spalding and Kiki Cuyler have brought along the team in the week it has been on the island, today forecast the Chicago National leaguers have a fighting chance to vie with the Cincinnati Reds for the 1942 pennant.

While a flood of wagering is not advised at this early date, we give you this advance forecast, especially for the Gallagher fans among the thousands of Cub followers.

They're Reasonable Ifs.

Gallagher, long a student of the game even before he became the dominant figure in the conduct of the Cub property, makes a few provisos in releasing his forecast, but they're thoroly reasonable ifs. He says that the Cub-Red fight for the pennant may take place unless army service takes key men from the team. He named especially bachelors Swede Erickson and Lou Stringer, and newlywed Bob Sturgeon. All now have deferred classifications because of dependents.

He says he also respects Brooklyn's pennant probabilities, not as much as Cincinnati's, but certainly much more than the widely liked St. Louis Cardinals. He likes Cincy and Brooklyn mostly because of pitching, he says.

Trainer Andy Lotshaw joined with General Manager Gallagher in forecasting a big season for the Cubs. Said Dr. Lotshaw: "We are going to have the best pitching staff in the league and, if we can only get some hitting, we'll whip 'em all. Of course, we didn't have our first hitting practice until today, but I have listened to some of the rookies in the clubhouse tell how they can bust the old apple. I didn't learn their names, but, if they are telling the truth about their hitting, our troubles are over."

Alters Plans for Games.

After his optimistic statement, Dr. Lotshaw warned against overconfidence.

Altho delighted by the progress of his large squad, Manager Wilson said today he had altered his plans anent intraclub games. Earlier he had said a game would be played Sunday, with the possibility the regulars and the Yannigans would go thru a few innings Saturday. Today he set next Tuesday as the date of the first game.

NEW LURES MAKE ANGLERS' HOBBY ATTRACTIVE ONE

Rock Island Man Wins Skish Tourney.

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho the war is curtailing the production of many accessories that the fisherman uses, the anglers who are attending the International Sportsmen's show this week are seeing a number of new lures which manufacturers started last year before serious supply shortages ocurred and thus were able to produce them for the coming angling season.

The display of rods, reels, and lines, plus many free motion pictures of fishing, the new lures, and the big casting tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, combine to give the show a decided atmosphere of fishing.

One Is a "Bomber."

One of the new lures that's on display at the show definitely reflects the influence of the war because it's called the "bomber." There are three lures in the series, including a "dive bomber," which is supposed to do an "all out job" against a bass by going down deep and bombing 'em out of their lethargy. On its side this lure has a large "V for Victory" and the Morse code V.

A Chicago tackle company which is on a 24 hour shift work schedule in order to make treble hooks for the tackle industry is introducing a new plastic minnow at the show.

In addition to these and many other new gadgets for the rod and reel enthusiast, fishermen attending the show will find most veteran tackle exhibitors on hand, including Sam Davenport, Pop Adams, Curly Moulton, who used to entertain fishermen with his bait rod magic at the Tribune casting pool; Stu Pritchard, and others who have been counseling fishermen on lures for many years.

98 Wins Skish Event.

William Todd of Rock Island, Ill., scored 98 points last night to triumph in the skish event of THE TRIBUNE's casting tournament. He was casting in competition for the first time after having learned the knack in the back yard of his home. He said that he plans to organize a casting club in the sport's popularity.

Milton Huguelet of 3253 North Oakley avenue took second place in the event with 96 points, while Clarence Grosch of 3340 North avenue and Steve Tures of East Chicago, Ind., were tied for third with 95.

Minnesota day will be celebrated at the show today.

Cardinals Sign Ken O'Dea; Harry Gumbert Stands Pat

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Catcher Ken O'Dea, obtained by the St. Louis Cardinals from the Giants in the Johnny Mize deal, reported to Manager Billy Southworth today and took part in his first spring workout, leaving Harry Gumbert as the only unsigned batteryman.

Two-a-day workouts are scheduled to begin tomorrow with the arrival of most of the outfielders and infielders. Johnny Hopp, utility man extraordinary, signed his contract in St. Louis and left tonight for camp.

TIGERS SIGN TRUCKS.

Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers reduced their large contingent of holdouts today by signing Virgil [Fire] Trucks, their most promising rookie pitcher, but there appeared to be an ample accumulation of salary arguments for General Manager Jack Zeller when he arrives in camp Sunday.

Of those in camp, Schoolboy Rowe and Paul Trout haven't agreed to Detroit terms in a drastic reduction of the club pay roll, and principal dissenters among the absentees are Pitchers Buck Newsom and John Gorsica, First Baseman Rudy York, and Catcher Bill Sullivan.

MARTY TO MARINES.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26 (AP).—The Phils lost another player today when Outfielder Joe Marty informed President Gerry Nugent he had decided to enlist in the marine corps.

Marty, telephoning from his home in Sacramento, Cal., said he was in class 1-A under selective service, but had decided on the marine corps rather than wait for an army call.

YANK REBELS SIGN.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—A batting drill which lasted an hour and a half featured the workout of the New York Yankees today.

The Yanks signed Pitcher Johnny Murphy and announced the signing of Lefty Marius Russo in New York, leaving Pitcher Red Ruffing and Catcher Bill Dickey the only battery men still unsigned. Two other pitchers, Atley Donald and Spud Chandler, signed earlier in the day and participated in the workout.

BRAVES BUY PITCHER.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26 (AP).—Officials of the Kansas American association baseball club said tonight George Washburn, right handed pitcher who hurled for the Blues in 1939, has been sold on trial to the Boston Braves. Details were not disclosed.

Washburn, since leaving Kansas City, has pitched for Newark in the International league. He returned to the Blues a few days ago in a deal that sent Tuck Stainback to the New York Yankees.

MYERS IS RAILROAD MAN.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 26 [Special].—"I've Been Working on the Railroad" is the new theme song of Billy Myers, veteran Chicago Cub shortstop, who recently rejected a contract which he said called for a salary more than a little smaller than the $12,000 he received last summer.

Myers, a resident of suburban West Fairview, is "bucking the extra board" as a fireman in the Pennsylvania yards and earns, when he works, $6.88 to $8.34 per day. This may be compared with the $33 daily he received last season, most of which was spent on the Cubs' Milwaukee farm.

Rangers Beat Wings, 7 to 4; Lose Heller

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—The New York Rangers ended the Detroit Red Wings' four game winning streak tonight by defeating them, 7 to 4, in a rough contest which may cost the National Hockey league leaders the services of Defenseman Ott Heller for the remainder of the season.

In the first period, just after he blazed in a 60 foot shot to give the rangers a 2 to 0 lead, Heller fell behind his own goal in trying to avoid a collision with Carl Liscombe. Heller dropped with his leg doubled up and cut the lower part of his back with the rear tip of his own skate. He was taken to a hospital for examination.

Alex Shibicky and Lynn Patrick led the New Yorkers to their third straight victory and their seventh over Detroit in seven games this season. Each got two goals. Lineups:

Thornton Five Wins, 35 to 32, at Streator

Streator High school's basketball team, which has covetous eyes on the Illinois state prep championship, fell from the ranks of unbeaten quintets last night. The downstate squad was whipped by Thornton of Harvey, South Suburban league champions, 35 to 32, before 3,500, who taxed the capacity of the new high school gymnasium in Ottawa.

The defeat was Streator's first in 25 games. The heroes in Thornton's last minute triumph were Bill Berberian, forward, and Dave Staehling, whose amazing shots brought Thornton its 25th victory in 29 games.

Streator appeared the superior quintet until the final quarter, when the score was tied three times.

Streator, paced by Don Morris and Ben Kristal, took a 9 to 3 lead at the end of the first quarter, was in front, and 19 to 15, at the intermission. Streator held a lead at the conclusion of the third period, 25 to 23. Morris finished the evening's work with seven field goals, while Kristal contributed six.

Berberian and Staehling were Thornton's high scorers with six baskets apiece. One of Berberian's was made with three and one-half minutes to go and with the score tied, 31 to 31. Ralph Novotney, Streator guard, then sank a free throw. Staehling connected with his sixth basket with 50 seconds remaining.

North Section Teams Are Ready for Play-Offs.

The north section of the Public School league is ready to send its eight representatives into the basketball championship playoffs. Lane Tech seniors and Waller juniors led the section's busy program yesterday by scoring their tenth consecutive victories. Lane Tech defeated Schurz, 41 to 36, in Schurz gymnasium, while Waller finished its schedule by whipping Lake View, 59 to 33, on the latter's court.

Senn High took second place in the senior race by defeating Amundsen, 42 to 25, on the Amundsen floor. Amundsen and Schurz will accompany Lane Tech and Senn into the title round despite the setbacks yesterday. Waller will be joined by Von Steuben, Roosevelt, and Sullivan, which already qualified for the junior playoffs and were idle yesterday.

Lane Tech and Senn won two junior contests. Lane Tech won from Schurz, 35 to 19, and Senn defeated Amundsen, 33 to 27. In another senior game Lake View defeated Waller, 43 to 25. Lineups:

Football Season's Still on in the Loop

There was a lot of football talk in the loop yesterday. The above huddle brought together Ray Eliot (left), Illinois' new football coach; Deverseux Bowly, president of the Illini club of Chicago, and Tony Blazine, who was recently appointed to Eliot's staff. Eliot and Blazine were guests at a banquet given by the Illini club in the La Salle hotel. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Nelson Brown made the winning basket. The defeat dropped Phillips into a third place tie with Manley and Kelly. Kelly routed Farragut, 54 to 39, on the latter's floor and Lindblom took second place in the section by handing Manley a 36 to 34 setback in Lindblom gymnasium. Purdue's new sports chiefs, Guy (Red) Mackey (left), director of athletics, and Head Football Coach Elmer Burnham, also were in town to meet with alumni leaders and be interviewed over radio station W-G-N. Mackey and Burnham were appointed Wednesday.

EQUESTRIAN LECTURES.

The spring lecture series of the Town and Country Equestrian association will begin this evening with addresses on two phases of riding by Dr. Thomas A. Carter and Wayne Dinsmore in the Sherman hotel.

Purdue Hails Selection of Red Mackey

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Congratulations continued to pour in yesterday to Elmer Burnham and Guy [Red] Mackey, newly appointed football coach and director of athletics, respectively, at Purdue university. Both visited Chicago in the afternoon and early last night were interviewed over W-G-N.

Particularly gratifying to the men was the instant approval of their appointments by the student body.

An Editorial Bouquet.

Yesterday's edition of the Purdue Exponent, student newspaper, carried an editorial which said in part:

"Congratulations not only for Red Mackey and Elmer Burnham but for the board of trustees of the university who selected an athletic director and football coach who have the respect and coöperation of the teams and the wholehearted support of the student body.

"Mackey has been a part of the coaching staff for 13 years. He is a man who knows well the complexities of the athletic situation. Burnham has served on the staff as freshman coach for seven years. He knows the men who will be the football team next fall and appreciates their potentialities. The action of the trustees may well mark the return of Purdue to the position of leadership in athletics it should have."

The task of rebuilding Purdue football is complicated by war conditions. Mackey pointed out last night that while he would make no immediate announcement of policy, inasmuch as he does not assume his position until March 1 only five days before the Western conference meeting in Chicago, he knew that Purdue's athletic committee is prepared to study the problems of the conference that changes in curricula and the draft law have produced. Under the present scholastic program at Purdue it now is possible to earn a degree in 2 years and 8 months of continuous attendance of classes.

Spring Practice Starts Soon.

Burnham said last night that "Purdue's freshman class last fall had 12 or 15 players of ability, but I can not know their possibilities until they are tested in Big Ten games."

Purdue's varsity will return several excellent backs but the varsity line will be lost by graduation or withdrawal for defense work or to enter the service. Spring practice will start within 10 days, Burnham added. The fieldhouse will be available as soon as the basketball floor is removed.

Burnham now plans six or seven weeks of spring drills, the session ending approximately on May 1. At the present time he believes that the Purdue system of play will be fundamentally the same as in recent seasons with a more frequent use of a short punt formation.

BUYING BY DPMA FAILS TO KEEP UP PRICE OF BUTTER

Federal Agency Gets Over a Million Pounds.

The government financed Dairy Products Marketing association spent approximately $300,000 in Chicago yesterday attempting to hold butter prices up, but despite its efforts some grades declined ¼ cent a pound at wholesale.

Altogether, the DPMA bought 916,618 pounds of butter in Chicago. An additional 132,111 pounds was purchased in New York. This is the largest one day purchase of butter by the government to support market prices since September, 1938.

Best Grades Unchanged.

Best grades continued to sell at wholesale for around 34 to 35 cents a pound. The DPMA paid 34 cents a pound for the top grades it purchased in Chicago.

But despite its efforts to maintain cash prices, futures continued under pressure on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Prices hit new seasonal lows as longs liquidated their contracts. The market was down .30 to .35 cent at the close.

After selling at new seasonal lows, October egg contracts rallied, leading an upturn in most of the contracts for deferred delivery. Final prices were .05 cent lower to .15 cent higher with October contracts closing at 31½ cents a dozen.

Buy Potatoes for Lend-Lease.

Idaho potato futures dipped 2 to 5 cents per hundred pounds with March contracts closing at $2.69. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation announced after the close of the market that it had purchased 100,000 pounds of dehydrated potatoes for lend-lease purposes.

Other lend-lease purchases announced by the FSCC included 1,129 tons of cabbage; 2,591,000 pounds of dried beans, and 22,250 gallons of concentrated lemon juice.

BIG STORE SALES UP 21 PER CENT OVER LAST YEAR

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district last week were 21 per cent larger than a year ago and 6 per cent smaller than in the preceding week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Chicago sales were up 20 per cent from a year ago and declined only 1 per cent from the preceding week. The federal reserve board estimated that sales nationally were 25 per cent larger than in the corresponding 1940 week.

For the four weeks ended Feb. 21, district sales averaged 22 per cent larger than a year ago. Chicago sales were up 16 per cent, and national sales 23 per cent.

FREIGHT VOLUME FALLS AGAINST SEASONAL TREND

Railroad freight car loadings totaled 774,595 last week, 8,104 less than in the preceding week but 96,072 more than the corresponding week of 1941, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The decline was contrary to the usual seasonal trend. The association's report classified the loadings as follows:

Banks' Excess Reserves Fall to Lowest Level in Four Years

A decline of 580 million dollars carried excess reserves of reserve system member banks down to 2 billion 880 million dollars in the week ended Wednesday, the federal resrve board reported yesterday. Not since 1938 had the excess reserves been that low.

Treasury borrowing was the main factor in the shrinkage, the board said. The treasury recently sold 1½ billion dollars of bonds, and the banks and their depositors were transferring funds to the treasury's account in the period covered by the report, thus tapping the excess reserves.

"Reductions in member bank reserves," the board said, "arose from increases of 534 million dollars in treasury deposits with reserve banks, 83 millions in money in circulation, and 8 millions in treasury cash, and a decrease of 12 millions in reserve bank credit, offset in part by increases of 3 millions in gold stock and 2 millions in treasury currency, and a decrease of 97 millions in nonmember deposits and other federal reserve accounts."

The reserve banks increased holdings of government securities by more than 12 million dollars.

EARLY DIP IN HOG PRICES REGAINED; PORK RISES MORE

Live stock men paid little attention yesterday to Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's new warning that hogs were too high. The market improved after a steady to 10 cents lower opening, to close fully steady with the average of the day before. The extreme top, at $13.25 a hundred pounds, equaled the best price of the last week.

Buyers paid an average of $12.90 for the day's offerings, which was 5 cents under Wednesday's average and only 10 cents under the 22 year peak for February. This was the first time an official "frown" on rising costs of pork failed to cause a sharp temporary setback in the hog market. The slightly lower average was attributed to an increase in supplies from farms.

Wholesale markets for fresh pork cuts were steady to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher.

BEGIN PERSONAL PROPERTY CHECK OF FIRMS TODAY

Errorproof Assessment Is Promised by Clark.

County Assessor John S. Clark announced last night that 100 deputies will begin a door to door checkup today of 140,000 businesses in Cook county in an effort to make an errorproof personal property assessment for 1942. This will be the first general field check on personal property since 1930, he said.

The checkup is intended primarily to eliminate from the assessment roll the names of firms which have gone out of business or have moved from the city. Taxes assessed against them have been piling up for years, Clark explained. He estimated that 4½ million dollars a year or 10 per cent of the personal property bills are sent to such corporations.

In 1941 the assessor's staff visited 11,567 unincorporated businesses and 4,059 corporations that were assessed in 1940. The staff members were unable to locate 1,126 of the firms, or 10 per cent of those checked.

Promises Accuracy.

"Assessments against business concerns represent 80 per cent of the total personal taxes," Clark said. "When this survey is completed, we will be able to make accurate assessments against virtually every business. It will then be up to officials charged with the duty of collecting taxes to collect in full."

The field deputies have been instructed to determine the correct location of the business firms, observe in a general way their personal property assets, and make reports to the assessor which will be checked against personal property schedules filed by the companies later this year.

The partial survey made last year resulted in adding almost as many names to the assessment roll as were taken off, Clark said. In many instances, another concern had taken over the plant or store listed on the assessor's rolls.

Clark Forecasts Gain.

Clark estimated that for every $1 that assessments are reduced by the survey, as much as $2 may be added.

Unpaid personal property taxes from 1928 thru 1941 total 260 million dollars. In recent years the levy has approximatel 55 million dollars. Since 1935, when Clark eliminated the "telephone book" assessment and dropped several hundred thousand names from the rolls, collections have averaged 60 per cent of the levy.

The survey starting today will not include individuals or estates.

MANY RAILROADS SHOW GAINS IN JANUARY PROFIT

Chicago Lines Share in General Improvement.

Increases in revenues, large in some cases and moderate in others, were reported yesterday by a number of railroads, including several operating from Chicago.

The Illinois Central system reported January net income of $996,848, compared with $917,038 in the 1941 month. Its railway operating revenue rose to $13,986,244 from $10,498,218, but operating expenses also increased, amounting to $10,048,680, against $7,379,648.

Profit of the Burlington moved up to $1,334,900, from $931,451 in January, 1941. The road's taxes other than pay roll levies were $1,086,207, compared with $485,036.

The Milwaukee, which had a net loss of $138,233 in January, 1941, sharply reversed the showing last month, reporting net income of $1,141,170.

Great Western Has Gain.

The Chicago Great Western announced January net income of $77,823, compared with $38,461 in the 1941 month.

Net railway operating income of the Rock Island lines increased to $1,652,001, compared with $1,059,371, E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer, reported. Operating income is income before deductions for bond interest and other fixed charges.

The Rock Island's indicated January net income, after fixed charges on the present capitalization, was in excess of $540,000, against a net loss in January, 1941, of $79,408. It was the first time the road had made a January profit since 1931. Both passenger and freight revenues increased last month.

Pennsylvania Earns Less.

The Pennsylvania railroad reported a downward trend in net operating income, which amounted to $5,838,630 for January, against $6,375,715 in the 1941 month.

A pronounced gain in January net income—to $2,040,196 from $607,603—was reported by the Union Pacific system.

Statements filed with the Interstate Commerce commission showed that December net operating income of 137 class 1 roads was $80,548,607, compared with $78,850,744 a year earlier. The 1941 combined net operating income was $999,502,906 compared with $682,543,218 in 1940.

Consumption of Copper Shows Decline for Month

Fabricators consumed 126,391 tons of copper in January, compared with 126,594 in December and an all-time high of 144,500 in August of 1941, the Daily Metal Trade reported yesterday. The publication estimated that fabricators operated at 87 per cent of capacity last month.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL.

Do you have 1941 figures for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company such as assets, income, insurance written and in force, and death claims? What portions of assets are invested in government and corporation bonds, mortgages and real estate?—G. E. W.

Answer: At the end of 1941, total admitted assets of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, Wis., were $1,439,889,000. Income for the year was $228,213,000 against total disbursements of $149,020,000. Death claims amounted to $43,620,000. New insurance written in 1941 totaled $236,009,000. Insurance in force at the end of the year consisted of 1,092,393 policies for $4,044,674,000.

The balance sheet in the company's 84th annual report showed the following investments: United States government obligations, $135,269,000; railroad bonds, $129,340,000; utility bonds, $275,838,000; industrial and miscellaneous bonds, $17,597,000; mortgage loans, $294,295,000, and real estate, $49,982,000. Bonds of all classes, including state, county and municipal and Canadian obligations and equipment trust certificates, amounted to 62.8 per cent of total assets, mortgage loans made up 20.4 per cent of the total, and real estate, 3.4 per cent. Cash totaling $17,225,000 amounted to 1.1 per cent.

NOT ALLOWED.

My gross income in 1941 consisted entirely of profits from my hardware store. Since the income was less than $3,000, I would like to use the new optional form because of its convenience. Should I enter this in line 1 under "Gross Income"?—R. J. F.

Answer: You are not allowed to use the optional form to report income from a business but must use the regular form and complete schedule H which shows total receipts, gross, profit, costs, expenses, etc. The net profit or loss is entered in item 8. The optional form is limited to income from compensation for personal services, dividends, interest, rent, royalties and annuities.

PAPER LOSS.

I bought some stock for $3,860 in 1937. At the end of 1941, this stock had a market value of only $1,430. Is there any income tax deduction I may claim for this investment loss?—E. V. C.

Answer: You have incurred a paper loss, not an actual loss, if you still own this stock. The revenue code requires the establishment of a loss thru sale or exchange before any deduction can be claimed. Conceivably, stock on which no loss has been established might appreciate in value and later be sold at a profit. However, a deduction is permitted on stock which becomes worthless during the year.

DISCLOSE VAST ALUMINUM PLANT EXPANSION TO MEET PLANE GOAL

War Board's Plans Far Outstrip Axis Powers' Output.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Vast expansion of the nation's aluminum and magnesium production facilities to meet war goals was announced today by William L. Batt, director of materials for the War Production board.

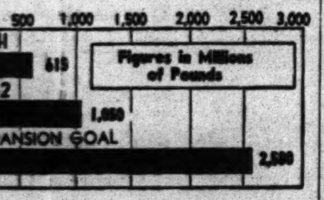
Aluminum production will be expanded to four times the 1941 level to make possible the fabrication of 60,000 fighting planes this year and 125,000 next year, Batt said. Magnesium production is to be increased to 22 times the 1941 level.

Aluminum facilities now in operation or under way call for reaching a top rate of 1 billion 450 million pounds a year. The rate now is to be increased to 2 billion 100 million pounds annually. The United States produced 615 million pounds of aluminum in 1941 and with the aid of Canadian imports had expected to raise this year's total to 1 billion 50 million pounds.

Raise Magnesium Rate.

Magnesium capacity, previously scheduled to reach 400 million pounds a year, is to be increased to a 725 million pound annual rate. In 1941 the United States produced 33 million pounds of magnesium, which is needed for aircraft and for incendiary bombs.

Batt said the new program will not leave any surplus aluminum and that none will be available for pots and pans.



How the nation's aluminum production will be expanded. Production goal includes supplies available from Canada.

The expansion, he declared, is no "paper program," but is actually under way with a large number of contracts let and equipment for fabrication purchased. The government's Defense Plant corporation has already signed contracts with six companies, he said, to design and construct magnesium plants, and has let contracts for aluminum expansion.

Share Magnesium Contracts.

The new magnesium plants, which will utilize the ferro-silicon processes, will be built by the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, American Metal company, National Lead company, Permenante corporation, and the New England Lime company. Batt said the government's search for new magnesium sources has resulted in discovery of "rich and extensive deposits" in Michigan.

The aluminum program, Batt said, may be broken down into four parts: Present facilities totaling 850 million pounds; those now under way under the first expansion program, adopted early last year, totaling 640 million pounds; contracts with the Aluminum Company of Canada for imports reaching 450 million pounds annually in 1943; and the present expansion program approved by WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson for an additional 640 million pounds.

United States production and Canadian imports are scheduled to reach 2 billion 580 million pounds annually under the expanded program, Batt said.

Far Outstrips Axis.

"When this output reaches its peak," he said, "it will provide enough aluminum to meet President Roosevelt's program of 125,000 airplanes a year together with all necessary spare parts and have some leeway in material.

"The total output now underway will be far beyond the reach of anything the axis powers together with all the occupied countries can even contemplate. No computation of anything the enemy nations can do in aluminum even approaches it."

Construction is starting on all the facilities provided by the first aluminum expansion program of 640 million pounds, Batt said, and surveys for power requirements and possible locations already made and contracts let for most of the new program of 640 million pounds. Each of these two phases of expansion will cost about 350 million dollars, he said.

The aluminum program in its present stage of development contrasts with a prewar production rate of 330 million pounds annually in 1939.

Northern Pacific Orders 24 Locomotives for 1943

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—C. E. Denney, president of Northern Pacific railroad, announced today directors had authorized a $6,500,000 locomotive purchase program designed to meet a considerably heavier traffic volume expected in 1943. Purchases authorized included 10 locomotives from Baldwin Locomotive works, 12 mallet type engines from American Locomotive company, and two Diesel freight locomotives from Electro-Motive corporation.

TWA Common Is Admitted to Chicago Trading Today

Common stock of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., will be admitted to trading today on the Chicago Stock exchange, the exchange announced yesterday. Faroll Brothers was named specialist and odd-lot dealer, and Walter J. Buhler and Irving E. Meyerhoff were appointed cospecialists and odd-lot agents for the stock.

CHICAGO'S POWER SUPPLY EXPECTED TO DRAW PLANT

The Chicago area is expected to get one of the new aluminum plants that will be built by the government under the vast expansion program announced yesterday in Washington. Selection of plant locations, War Production board officials indicated, is being determined by available electric power supply.

Chicago is one of the districts in which the present power supply is sufficient to carry an additional industrial load. The huge Powerton generating station of the Commonwealth Edison company, near Pekin, Ill., is expected to furnish power for the aluminum plant scheduled for this area.

One of the new plants, it was reported previously, will be located in New York where the demand for electric power from war industries has been comparatively light. Other locations under consideration are Philadelphia and Boston.

Second Largest Pool.

The Commonwealth Edison group of properties have a combined generating capacity of 2,145,000 kilowatts, second largest pool of power in the country. Its peak load this winter was 1,800,000 kilowatts, indicating a reserve of 345,000 kilowatts.

The Buick and Studebaker aircraft engine factories established in this area and other war industries that are contemplated for this district will cut severely into the Chicago district's power reserve. By next winter, engineers believe, it may be necessary to adopt power conservation measures by staggering consumption among industrial users.

Such conservation can be effected, it is said, without seriously inconveniencing civilian users of power. By using existing power facilities to the best advantage the Edison system could furnish a great deal more power to industries than is indicated by the figures on existing reserve capacity.

Vast Power Requirements.

The electrolytic process used in the reduction of aluminum from bauxite requires huge amounts of electric power. To get one pound of aluminum 10 to 12 kilowatt hours of electric energy are needed—enough to keep a 40 watt bulb lighted for more than a week and a half.

Altho the United States has extensive deposits of bauxite, large quantities are imported. The principal foreign sources are British Guiana, Surinam, a Dutch colony in South America, and the Netherlands Indies. The principal deposits in this country are in Arkansas. Smaller quantities are available in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Virginia.

FIGHT AGAINST CIO IS OPENED BY 'LITTLE STEEL'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—"Little steel" opened its fight before the War Labor board today against the CIO's demand for a union shop contract and basic wage increases of $1 a day for the industry's 182,000 employés. The action before a three man panel, was confined to a discussion of procedure. Actual fact finding hearings are expected to begin next Tuesday.

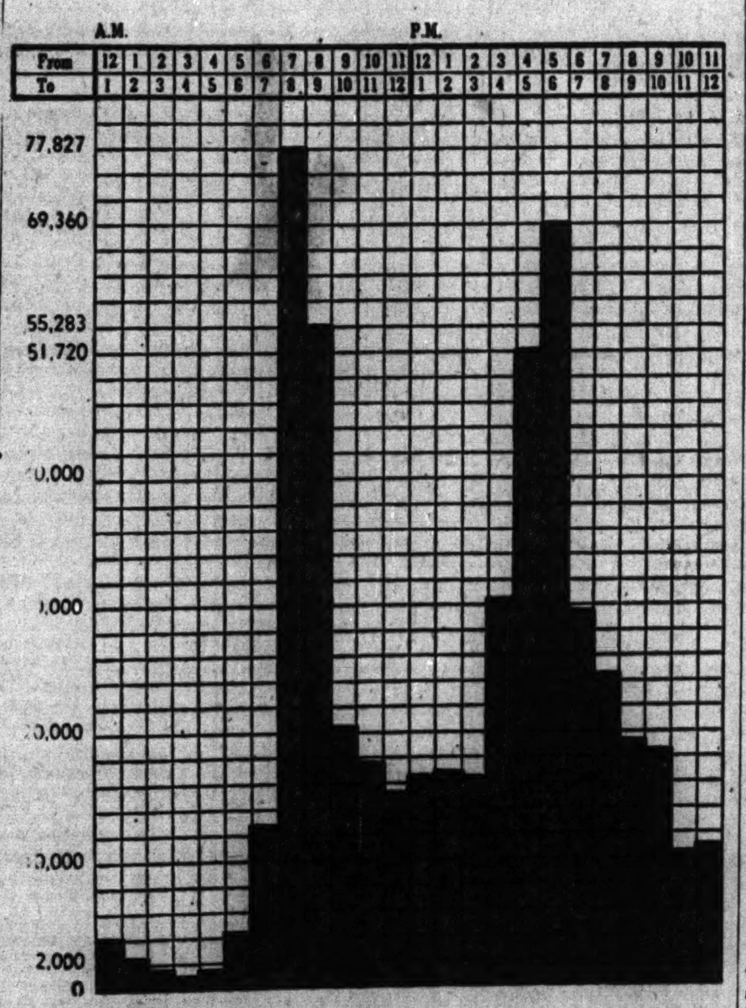
Companies principally concerned are Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland, and Republic but the board's decision is awaited by both industry and labor as a possible pattern for future disputes involving union security and higher wages.

Demands for establishment of a policy on these issues have been voiced recently in congress, and by representatives of government, labor, and industry.

Farm Products Lead Rise in Wholesale Price Index

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Farm products led a 0.3 point increase in the wholesale commodity price index during the week ended Feb. 21, boosting the index to 96.5, the highest level since July, 1929, the bureau of labor statistics said today. It said commodity prices were now 20 per cent above last year.

The Rush Hour Problem



Here are the ups and downs of passenger travel on Chicago's "L" lines during the 24 hours of a typical day. Note the heavy rush hour loads, as contrasted with relatively light riding in other hours.

Elevated Line '41 Operations Again at Loss

Trustees of the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated system] yesterday issued a statement to employés outlining the results of operations last year. The company, in receivership since 1932, does not issue annual reports.

The statement showed total 1941 revenues were $13,797,306, and expenses $14,357,184. This left a loss of $559,878, before provision for interest on any of the company's securities. Bond interest amounts to $2,584,303 a year, but none has been paid since 1932.

"The road has not earned expenses since 1934," the trustees' statement said. "It has continued operations only thru accumulating debts which eventually must be paid."

Larger Margin in 1940.

In 1940 the system failed by $666,057 to earn expenses before fixed charges.

The number of passengers carried last year was 153,895,490, 3.14 per cent more than in 1940.

"Most of the increase [in traffic] came in the morning and evening rush hours when the company is less able to give satisfactory service to customers," the trustees said. "Were workers' hours to be spread—that is, if the time they go to and return from work were staggered by their employers—the company could handle many million more riders. There has been some discussion of staggering working hours as a war measure, but so far nothing definite has been done."

Operating Costs Raised.

The statement showed that the 4,650 elevated line employés received $8,464,417 last year, equivalent to 61.35 per cent of all revenues. Annual operating costs were raised about $806,000 by wage increases, lengthening of vacations, and establishment of a pension plan.

The war, with its restrictions on use of rubber and metals, will require that the company be ready to handle increased traffic, the trustees said, adding: "So far the principal reflection has been in rush hour travel when it is most difficult and more expensive to handle extra loads."

Re-elect Chicago Federal Reserve Bank's Officers

Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago who hold office for one year were reëlected yesterday.

Job Losses More Than Normal

Employment in Illinois, both in manufacturing and nonmanufacturing industries, declined more than the seasonal amount from mid-December to mid-January, but total wage payments dipped less than usual for the period, the state department of labor reported yesterday.

The number of jobs decreased 4 per cent. Only three other years in the last 19 years—1938, 1939, and 1940—showed declines for the period that were as large, Francis B. Murphy, director of the department, said. The reduction in wage payments was 1.8 per cent.

"The decline in employment was caused chiefly by the seasonal reductions in wholesale and retail trade establishments," Murphy said. Reporting establishments in this group indicated a decline of 20.3 per cent in number of employés and a decrease of 18.8 per cent in wages paid as of Jan. 15, compared with Dec. 15.

Stores Lay Off Many.

"Department and variety stores and mail order houses reported the heaviest layoffs and reductions in pay rolls. Retail food stores constituted the only trade classification that reported an increase in employment or pay rolls."

Decreases of 20.7 per cent in number of jobs and in wages paid were reported for the building construction and contracting firms. In the public utility group, employment eased moderately, but pay rolls exanded 1.2 per cent.

The manufacturing industries alone experienced an indicated decline of 1.4 per cent in employment, but their pay rolls held steady. The nonmanufacturing industries covered by the report had an average drop of 10.5 per cent in number of workers and a reduction of 6.9 per cent in wages paid.

Mining Stepup Is Offset.

This classification was affected by the decisive shrinkages in the variety and department stores and the mail order houses, which more than offset a quickening of activity in the coal mining industry.

Murphy reported that the weekly earnings for men and women workers combined in all reporting industries in Illinois averaged $33.29. The average was $37.72 for men and $20.12 for women. In 1929 the 12 month average weekly earnings for men and women combined were $29.04.

A substantial amount of overtime work was indicated in the report, which showed that the weekly hours worked by men in Illinois manufacturing industries averaged 43.2 per week. In most cases, time worked beyond 40 hours a week requires payment at the overtime rate of 1½ times the regular pay rate.

OUTPUT OF ELECTRIC POWER UP SLIGHTLY IN 3D FEBRUARY WEEK

The output of electric power in the United States totaled 3,423,589,000 kilowatt hours during the week ended Feb. 21, or 14.7 more than in the corresponding week a year ago and 0.1 per cent more than in the preceding week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday.

The Commonwealth Edison group of companies in the Chicago area reported an output of 166,929,000 kilowatt hours, up 10.9 per cent from the corresponding week last year. The preceding week's total was 165,974,000 kilowatt hours.

House Agrees to Curb Bond Sales to Banks

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—The house tentatively wrote into the senate approved second war powers bill today a clause limiting to 5 billion dollars the amount of government obligations that federal reserve banks may purchase directly from the treasury.

Under existing law the banks can buy federal bonds only on the open market. The treasury and the Federal Reserve board asked authority for direct purchases, saying it was necessary to expedite the financing of the war without endangering the stability of the bond market. Accordingly legislation was offered permitting unlimited purchases of that kind and it was recently approved by the senate.

Vote Subject to Change.

Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] offered an amendment containing the 5 billion limit and it was approved today on a teller vote of 128 to 93. This decision is subject to a later roll call vote.

Smith said the limitation was a desirable safeguard against the possibility that unlimited direct bond transactions might lead to inflation.

"The next worst thing to losing this war," the Virginian said, "would be wild, uncontroled, printing press inflation."

The opposition to Smith's amendment was led by Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.] of the judiciary committee and Rep. Charles F. McLaughlin [D., Neb.], head of the subcommittee that studied the bill.

Denies It Is Inflationary.

McLaughlin asserted the power to deal directly with the treasury would be exercised by the reserve banks only in cases of emergency and was not intended to be used for ordinary government financing. He pointed out that there was no compulsion on the part of the banks to buy the bonds.

"There is nothing inflationary about it," he added.

Sumners contended the power was necessary to preserve orderly markets.

"There should be some limit somewhere over the dealings between the treasury and the federal reserve banks," declared Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.], contending the danger of inflation was inherent in the treasury proposal.

Odlum to Address Board of Junior C. of C. Today

Floyd B. Odlum, economic adviser to the War Production board, is scheduled to address the opening session today of the three day meeting in the Medinah club of the board of directors of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. Other speakers will be T. Semmes Walmsley, chief inspector general of the Office of Civilian Defense; Lieut. Thurston B. Morton, assistant chief of staff of the ninth naval district, and Lieut. Col. A. Robert Ginsburgh, chief of the procurement branch of the war department bureau of public relations.

RCA NET PROFIT MILLION ABOVE TOTAL FOR 1940

Libbey-Owens-Ford Earnings Fall.

A gain in net income of a million dollars over 1940 was reported yesterday by Radio Corporation of America for last year, despite a federal tax bill nearly four times as large. Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, Toledo, O., disclosed its profits dropped a similar amount under the weight of a 3 million dollar increase in federal levies.

Radio Corporation said its earnings were $10,192,716, equal to 50 cents a share. This compares with $9,113,156, or 42 cents a share, in 1940. Provision for federal income and excess profits taxes totaled $16,373,600, against $4,245,298 in the preceding year. Gross income from all sources amounted to $158,695,722, compared with $121,439,507 in 1940.

The company is engaged in all phases of the radio industry, including manufacturing, communications, and broadcasting.

Libbey Earns 8.8 Million.

The 1941 net for Libbey-Owens-Ford was $8,821,437, equal to $3.52 a share, against $9,992,766, or $3.97 a share, in 1940. Set aside to meet federal incomes and excess profits taxes was $8,150,000, compared with $5,125,000 in the preceding year.

President John D. Biggers warned stockholders that like all industry the company "faces a difficult period of adjustment," then asserted:

"It is not easy to find war products which can be made in glass factories or by an organization trained to manufacture glass, but your management proposes to do everything possible to make use of our facilities and our organization to this end."

He asserted progress has been made in converting facilities to war production, but said censorship prevents reference to military products now being turned out. The report showed average employment during 1941 was 7,946 persons, against 7,250 in 1940.

Underwood Earns More.

Underwood-Elliott-Fisher company, New York manufacturer of office and business equipment, disclosed its profit last year was $3,740,089, equal to $5.90 a common share, against $2,226,255, or $3.03 a share in the preceding year.

A preliminary statement of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company, Minneapolis, Minn., manufacturer of automobile control apparatus, showed its 1941 net income was $2,737,295, equal to $4.20 a share, against $2,528,602, or $3.87 a share, in 1940. Sales totaled $24,257,811, compared with $15,933,565 in the preceding year.

Net earnings last year of Babcock and Wilcox company, New York heavy industrial equipment manufacturer, reached $4,252,100, or $6.33 a share, compared with $3,588,199, or $5.34 a share in the preceding year. Provision for federal income and excess profits taxes soared to $11,480,000 from $2,690,000 in the preceding year.

Paper Firm Reports Gain.

Crown-Zellerbach corporation, San Francisco, Cal., producer of paper and paper products, disclosed profit for the nine months ended Jan. 31 was $7,332,212, equal to $2.36 a common share, against $6,448,554, or $1.97 a share in the corresponding period a year before.

General Box company, Chicago, revealed its earnings last year were $450,302, equal to 31 cents a share, against $291,446, or 20 cents a share, in the preceding year. Provision for state and federal income and excess profits taxes jumped from $140,981 a year ago to $713,988 in 1941.

President N. W. Embry said sales exceeded those of 1940 by 70 per cent, and he predicted heavy volume again this year.

Rustless Iron and Steel corporation, Baltimore, Md., earned $2,334,627, equal to $2.42 a share, compared with $1,275,993, or $1.28 a share, in 1940.

BOOST ESTIMATE ON FARMS' CASH INCOME FOR 1941

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—Increasing its preliminary estimates for tobacco, corn, poultry, and a few other crops, the department of agriculture reported today that farmers' cash income in 1941 totaled 11 billion 771 million dollars, the largest since 1920.

Comprising receipts from sales, loans on commodities, and government benefit payments, the income was 29 per cent higher than in 1940 and 9 per cent above the average for the 1924-'29 period. A preliminary estimate of the 1941 income, made in December, was 11 billion 600 millions. The 1940 income was $9,096,981,000.

The department said the increase over 1940 reflected improved farm prices and larger marketings.

The final report gave income from tobacco at $324,872,000, compared with $275,000,000 in the preliminary estimate. The income from corn was increased from $330,000,000 to $351,000,000. The poultry income figure was increased from $362,000,000 to $395,741,000.

Manufacturer to Put New Facilities Into Use Monday

Manufacturers Screw Products, 212-222 West Hubbard street, announced yesterday additional plant facilities recently acquired will be put into production Monday. The facilities include 15,000 feet of floor space on which additional screw equipment has been installed. The expansion was made necessary by heavy armament orders from the United States and Canada, the company said.

Federal Agency Offers to Buy Surplus Stock of Tire Dealers

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration announced tonight a plan whereby the government expects to buy up virtually the entire supply of new passenger car tires and tubes, and thus enable dealers to get their capital out of stocks tied up by tire rationing.

Dealers who wish to be relieved of carrying passenger tire stocks thruout the period of rationing may sell all or part of them back to the original manufacturer or distributor at the cost price, plus 10 per cent to cover carrying expenses.

Must Be Sold to U. S.

Manufacturers and mass distributors were ordered to sell the repurchased stocks to the government-owned Defense Supplies corporation, and to turn over to that agency also their own stocks of passenger car tires and tubes. The corporation is prepared to receive up to 75 million dollars worth.

"This is expected to minimize the bootlegging of tires," Price Administrator Leon Henderson said in a statement. He added that it would relieve retail and wholesale dealers of the necessity of keeping capital tied up in stock from which few sales are permitted under the rationing program.

Ceilings to Be Raised.

A "small upward revision" of the ceiling prices now in effect on retail and wholesale tire sales will be required, Henderson said.

The manufacturers will sell their own stocks to the government at cost, and will turn the repurchased tires and tubes over to the Defense Supplies corporation on the same basis, plus freight costs from the dealer to the manufacturer's warehouse.

Manufacturers will be permitted to keep small working supplies on hand from which to fill orders. They also may repurchase tires from the Defense Supplies corporation when needed to fill needs of holders of rationing certificates.

Sponsors Small Dealer

J. P. Seiberling, president of the Akron, O., rubber company bearing his name, yesterday suggested to about 200 independent tire dealers from Chicago, Indiana, and Michigan that they write their representatives in congress urging preservation of the independent status of business men.

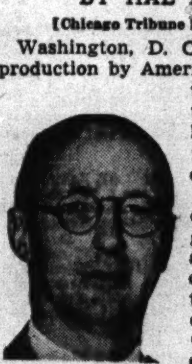
Seiberling said the small dealers should be given the sole right to sell tires at retail and to handle all retreading and recapping. They should also be issued rubber for patching tires, he said.

"We can keep the country on wheels for two years by monthly tire inspections, uniform speed laws in each state, and arrangements with the War Production board to supply dealers with necessary materials," Seiberling said.

Let Small Firm Fill Civilian Needs: Odlum

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Full production by America's small industrial plants, now threatened or killed by priority restrictions on materials, will be required for essential civilian goods, the senate banking and currency committee was told today by Floyd B. Odlum, former executive of the Office of Production Management, now economic adviser to Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board.



Floyd B. Odlum.

"Our problem," Odlum testified, "is to preserve these small industrial institutions thru this transition period so they can perform the tasks that will be assigned to them. Those that can survive the next few months will have full time jobs for the rest of the war.

Few Equipped for Arms.

"Their wartime field, with few exceptions, is the production of essential civilian goods. The exceptions are the plants with specially qualified equipment and skills for special jobs in arsenal work.

"Between 50 and 60 per cent of the country's manufacturing effort must be devoted to essential civilian requirements even when the armament program is in full swing. Last year, Germany devoted 40 per cent of its national income to civilian needs and England about 50 per cent. Last year, the United States devoted 84 per cent of its national income to civilians.

Bigger Plants Favored.

"The big plants are favored by procurement officers of the armed forces for arsenal work because they are known sources for rapid volume output. There are fewer incalculables than in spreading the work among smaller plants.

"By giving the small plants the civilian business, they will be in a better position when the war is ended—and they'll need every advantage we can give them. The big plants will have to be reconverted."

The bill under consideration would appoint a small business representative to the war production board. Odlum favored the OPA instead, with "more powers and not merely duties and obligations." Nelson has been invited to testify tomorrow.

JANUARY BUILDING PERMITS EXCEED LAST YEAR THRUOUT STATE

Building construction of all types in 166 Illinois cities during January made gains in both number of projects and value over the same month last year. Permits were issued for 1,709 buildings, costing $9,776,149, compared with 1,577 projects, valued at $8,896,101 during January of last year. This is a gain of 8.4 per cent in number and 9.9 per cent in cost.

Comparison of last month's figures with December disclosed a smaller number of permits but a gain in total value. In December there were 2,163 permits for buildings costing $8,695,384.

Sixty-four per cent or $6,297,597 of the $9,776,149 total of permit valuations last month was for residential buildings, 24 per cent or $2,314,298 for new nonresidential buildings, and the remaining 12 per cent for additions, alterations, repairs, and installations, the monthly survey of the Illinois department of labor disclosed.

Relative changes in the value of permits from December to January were increases of 4.4 per cent for new residential buildings and 68.3 per cent for new nonresidential buildings, with a falling off of 9.7 per cent in repair work.

DOLLAR VOLUME OF NEW SECURITY ISSUES DOUBLED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission reported today that 25 issues aggregating $225,171,000 were registered during January. The dollar total, it said, was nearly double that for December and about equal to the monthly average for last year.

The amount proposed for cash sale by the issuers was $166,062,000, of which $33,072,000 was intended for additional working capital, and $24,344,000 was for new plants and equipment. More than half of the total was to be used for refinancing.

General Motors' Illinois Pay Roll Tops 14 Millions

Wages paid by the General Motors corporation in Illinois totaled $14,389,733 in 1941, compared with $8,119,010 in 1940, the corporation reported yesterday. The largest amounts were the $10,462,970 pay roll at the Electro-Motive corporation plant at La Grange, and $1,066,672 at the Buick aviation engine plant in Melrose Park. In 1940 the La Grange pay roll was $5,627,443; the Melrose Park plant was not in existence.

OPA Asks Curb on Coal Prices

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26 [Special].—Coal dealers were requested by the Office of Price Administration today not to let prices go higher than those prevailing from Dec. 15 to 31. The action, one of several taken by the OPA and by the War Production board affecting various industries, was announced by Leon Henderson, price administrator. The coal price request applied to all retailers and wholesalers.

Henderson said the only increases to be permitted will be those necessary to cover additional costs of ocean freight, and war risk and marine insurance incurred for coal transported by tidewater to Atlantic ports. However, a temporary plan of procedure for consideration of adjustments which may be sought by dealers as a result of war conditions was established.

Urge Switch to War.

Rug and carpet makers meantime were told by WPB textiles authorities that their product is not essential to the war effort and were advised to switch quickly into military lines. The WPB warned that the government may freeze all supplies of jute yarns and divert them to war use.

Henderson put a temporary ceiling on cotton and novelty rugs, fixing manufacturers and distributors' prices at levels of Feb. 20. The ceiling will become effective March 2 and will be replaced by a permanent schedule before May 1. OPA officials said prices of rugs of this type had gone up 10 per cent on the average, despite a warning issued last December by Henderson.

Other actions included:

The WPB curtailed the use of copper, aluminum, chromium, zinc, and 12 other metals in fire protective equipment. The order, effective immediately, bars this industry from using the metals in all but certain items, such as fire extinguishers for airplanes and automatic fire alarms.

Production Limited.

Output of foam extinguishers was limited to those required to protect gasoline and other inflammable liquids.

Henderson officially ruled that bicycles are essential for civilian transportation and asked manufacturers to keep prices of present models down to Jan. 15 levels. He invited price proposals on a "victory" model, to which the industry plans to limit future output.

The OPA announced that American Brake Shoe and Foundry company had rescinded, at the government's request, its recent increase in prices of brake shoes.

The WPB permitted tin can manufacturers to deliver until May 31, cans for packing beer, coffee, and hams, which were completely manufactured on or before Feb. 11, and at the same time froze in canners' hands stocks of beer, coffee, and hams to be packed pursuant to this permission.

NAM PICKS NEW WAR COMMITTEE TO SPEED ARMS

Vast Flow of Goods Soon Is Forecast.

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Formation of a super-committee of industrialists to speed the war production effort, was announced today by William P. Witherow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

It is intended to provide a two-way channel thru which government can communicate its desires to industry, and the industrialists can offer, when asked, advice on production and personnel problems confronting government.

The committee will be headed by Malcolm Muir, publisher of News Week, and when the full personnel has been selected, will include many of the leading industrial men of the country, Witherow said.

Will Supply Skilled Men.

One of the first problems to be tackled, when organization is completed in about ten days, Muir told reporters, would be a concerted effort to provide, as the government requires them, specialized production and technical experts for the war effort.

"At the government's request, we have already found men to do specialized jobs," Muir said, "but certainly one of the first things I will recommend to the committee is that we institute some sort of a panel or inventory of skilled production people who can provide skilled help when the government asks."

Witherow told reporters that "by July 1, the flood of war materials from our plants will confound the axis and astound even those Americans who have long known and respected the know-how of American industrial management."

Predicts Total Victory.

"You can tell the housewives, the corner grocers and every kid on the streets, for me, that they will hear sooner than they think that we have beaten the pants off the axis," he asserted.

"With the combination of millions of patriotic workmen and managers and thousands of unmatched factory machines, our soldiers and sailors, aviators and marines will get the goods to do the job."

The twenty-man steering committee which will direct the larger war committee, included such business blue-book names as Lammot du Pont, Harvey Firestone Jr., J. Howard Pew of the Sun Oil company, Cornelius F. Kelley, chairman of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, John Holmes, president of Swift & company, and Donald Douglas of Douglas Aircraft.

Seek Uninterrupted Output.

"This new committe," Witherow said, "will be charged with the responsibility of analyzing problems as they arise, guiding management in some cases and coöperating with government in others to the single end that war production will be uninterrupted."

Of the war production situation in general, Witherow said, in addition to his prediction of the situation on July 1:

"By Dec. 1, war output will be 75 per cent ahead of the same period last year."

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE BOARD VOTES FEE BOOST

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—The board of governors of the New York Stock exchange approved today a boost of about 25 per cent in the commissions charged on securities transactions thru its members.

The new rates, subject to expected membership approval, will become effective on the first Monday following that action, probably early next month, a spokesman said.

Present commissions, based on the price of stocks traded, run from 3 cents a share [on blocks of 100 shares] for stocks selling between 50 cents and $1 a share, to 13 cents a share on issues selling at $10. One cent is added for each additional $10 in price.

Bank Clearings Decline During Week, but Top '41

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Dun & Bradstreet reported today that bank clearings in 23 major cities for the five business days ended Feb. 25 totaled $5,706,785,000, a drop of $761,286,000 from the preceding short week but 6.9 per cent above the $5,340,101,000 for the five days ended Feb. 26, 1941. Chicago clearings totaled $338,800,000, a gain of 8.6 per cent over last year.

AIRCRAFTS, SOME RAILS GIVE LIFT TO STOCK MARKET

Oil and Soft Drink Firm Shares Revive.

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Selected shares attracted enough bidding to give today's stock market a moderate lift.

Rails were soft most of the time but steadied at the last. Santa Fe touched a new 1941-'42 high with a gain of 1¾ and Union Pacific tacked on a point. Aircraft and specialties did moderately well, while steels, motors, rubbers, coppers, and mail orders held to an exceptionally slim groove.

Recently weak oils and soft drink company issues revived on the thought these may have been oversold notwithstanding tanker sinkings, dwindling of private gasoline consumption and the sugar shortage.

Strike Worry Curbs Buying.

The war news was interpreted as bullish in spots but too murky in other directions to provide much of a buying stimulant. The darkening tax outlook and fears further labor lifts would cut into the armament program served to restrain optimism.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to post a net advance of .1 of a point at 36.7. Of 644 issues traded 263 were up, 189 down, and 192 unchanged. Transfers totaled 353,200 shares, compared with 339,130 Wednesday.

Followers of the rails were heartened somewhat by an assortment of January revenue statements showing expanding net operating income.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were irregular yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 96 issues involved in transactions of 15,000 shares, 31 advanced, 39 declined, and 26 closed unchanged.

Hupp Motor Car, which closed unchanged, was the volume leader with 1,200 shares traded. Of other active stocks, Commonwealth Edison and General Motors advanced ¼, Swift & Co. advanced ⅛, and Consolidated Oil declined ¼. In the half hour after the close in New York, Consolidated Oil advanced ⅛ and Butler Brothers preferred declined ⅛.

EXTRA DIVIDEND VOTED ON ABBOTT COMMON STOCK

Directors of Abbott Laboratories, Inc., yesterday authorized an extra dividend of 10 cents in addition to the regular quarterly 40 cent dividend on common stock. Similar extras were declared during preceding quarters. The company also announced the regular $1 quarterly payment on the new $100 par 4 per cent preferred stock.

FEDERAL PRICE THREATS SLOW GRAIN ADVANCE

Parity Sale Veto, Ceiling on Hogs Are Feared.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Belief that the President would veto the bill passed by the senate to prohibit sale of government owned wheat and corn below parity prices and threat of a ceiling on hog prices tempered trading in grain futures yesterday. Prices advanced fractionally in a slow market.

Wheat finished ⅜ to ½ cent higher with May contracts closing at $1.29¼ a bushel. Corn advanced ⅜ cent; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ cent; rye, ½ to ⅜ cent, and soy beans, ⅝ to 1⅛ cents a bushel. Meat packers were active buyers of lard futures and prices advanced 5 to 7½ cents per hundredweight.

Fear Hog Liquidation.

The grain men said ceilings on hog prices at this time might cause heavy liquidation of farm pig stocks, thereby releasing large quantities of corn to be marketed.

The department of agriculture estimated that the number of meat animals on the farms on Jan. 1 was the largest on record. The feed requirements were up 6 per cent from a year ago.

The grain men believe that the increase in feed requirements shown by the department is conservative. They say the farmers are putting so much more weight on their hogs that in some instances they are requiring almost 25 per cent more corn.

Less Feed Available.

A bullish factor was the department's report on the amount of feed available for each animal. It estimated there was 1,700 pounds of feed for each grain-consuming animal unit, or slightly less than a year earlier. Stocks of corn and oats were equivalent of 1,024 pounds per animal unit, or somewhat less than a year ago.

Last month was the driest January on record in many areas, according to the weather bureau, with widespread deficiencies in precipitation thruout the grain belt. Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin all failed to receive a normal amount of moisture.

Machine Tool Shipments Raised More in January

Cleveland, O., Feb. 26 (AP).—January machine tool shipments were estimated at $85,200,000 today by the National Machine Tool Builders' association. Production for January, 1941, was estimated at $50,700,000, and December, 1941 shipments were slightly less than $85,100,000.

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA—UNDER ATTACK OF JAPANESE

● This is a newly revised map of the Commonwealth of Australia, showing the new military highway running north from Alice Springs to Darwin, the naval base which already has been attacked by the Japanese. The highway provides the final link between the populous southeast and the remote north coast. Also shown on the map are naval and air bases, railroads, distances from chief ports to points in the outside world, and areas (by means of symbols) from which the principal products of the commonwealth are derived. The map is colored to distinguish various political divisions—states and territories. Dotted areas indicate deserts and wastelands. Cultivated areas in the main lie along the east, southeast, and southwest coasts.
